PREFACE.

In 1638, John and Dorothie Bill, our earliest ancestors in America, appear in Boston, which continued to be the central and chief point of residence up to about 1700, when New London [Groton], in Connecticut, began to rival and soon succeeded it as the ancient home of the Bill family. In 1667 or '68, Philip Bill, of Ipswich, Mass., at the urgent solicitation, as is believed, of John Winthrop, Jr. (afterwards Governor of Connecticut), who was his neighbor in Ipswich, removed to New London, settling on the east side of the Thames River, in what was after 1705 known as Groton. The exact location is thought to have been near Allyn's Point, which in the division of Groton, in 1826, was included in the present town of Ledyard. In this locality, for a period of nearly two hundred years, some representative of the family has lived.*

Excepting the families residing in Saxonville and Waltham, Mass., and those in Decatur and Geneseo, Ill., and Troy, N. Y.—scarce a score of people—all have descended from the above Philip. His blood courses to-day in the veins of near a thousand who bear his name, and these are now scattered over a continent which, in his lifetime, was an unknown wilderness, from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Then but a mere fringe of feeble civilization had effected lodgments along the seaboard; this, time has proved, however, to have been the seed of the most powerful empire on the globe.

iv PREFACE.

In the early settlement of the New England colonies two families by the name of Bills appear; what relation they may have been to our family in England, the country from which it is supposed they also came, is not known; certainly they were distinct from the Bill family in this country, though quite likely their ancestors in England, and those of John and Dorothie Bill, may have been the same. We have not attempted to trace the descendants of these two families; the reader is referred to the Appendix for further particulars.

Again, there are several families who do belong to ours who have within, perhaps fifty years, added the letter s to their names; in all such cases we have omitted this additional letter, always mentioning the fact, however, in the accounts given of those families. It seems desirable to preserve the name in its purity, and in that view of the subject have believed it our duty to pursue the course adopted.

In the summer of 1862, the late Andrew Henshaw Ward, Esquire, of West Newton, Mass., in reply to a letter of inquiry, stated he had himself been gathering all possible facts relating to the family, intending their publication at some future time. These papers, for which we were exceedingly grateful, proved both voluminous and valuable. He was found dead in his room, with them opened and lying on his writing-table, from which he had apparently just risen. He was by marriage a relative of the Henshaw family, from whom he had received the portraits of Richard Bill and his daughter, Elizabeth (Henshaw).*

* These portraits are now in the possession of his grand-daughter, Mrs. Miles Washburn, of Newton Corner, Mass. For particulars the reader is referred to pages 110, 111, and 142.

It is now more than six years since we penned the first letter on the subject of which this volume treats. Since then, about two thousand letters have been addressed to various persons on questions involved in the compilation, and nearly all of our spare time during this period, from our regular business, has been given.

It is quite possible for a single individual to write a book, but it is utterly impossible for a single individual to begin and complete a family history, at least such as is now in the hands of the reader. His sources of information are multiform, and wide-spread, co-extensive, in fact, with the family itself, and on whom he is largely dependent.

We have, however, personally examined several hundred volumes of Family, Town, State, and National histories, together with many miscellaneous publications, for fragments of information wherewith we might enrich this publication, or add something of interest to its pages. Town, Probate, and Church records have had to be thoroughly scrutinized—these furnishing the larger mass of facts and dates embodied in this volume. In brief, we have gleaned everywhere with diligence and patience among the musty records of the past, not omitting old nooks and corners, lest perchance some valuable record should remain unknown.

Though this work doubtless lacks the finish and elegance of style of other and similar publications, yet we have endeavored to make it at least a true and faithful history of the family; also something more than a mere ghostly genealogy, possessing by itself no life and little interest. Hence history and biography occupy the most of the volume, and surely we have not miscalculated as to the additional value this work will have over the majority of family publications.

All criticism might be barred, so far as things questionable in our plan are concerned, when it is considered that this is a work for purely private circulation, of a very limited edition, and is only published for the edification of the family into whose hands it is committed,—trusting they will look kindly upon all defects and faults; and for whatever of merit there may be, we would claim little for our share, cheerfully according it to those who have co-operated with us.

We are especially indebted to Mr. Edward Bill, of New York, whither we had removed in 1863,* for a large amount of voluntary research; for numerous and kindly rendered services in the way of encouragement, of valuable suggestions and assistance, all of which has been most welcome. The family, too, owe much to him for many of the more interesting historical facts and incidents related. His recompense must be the pleasure he will take in seeing this memorial volume in their hands.

To Rev. John A. Vinton, for valuable assistance in an arrangement of the ancestral lines and other labors; and to Mr. T. B. Wyman, Jr., who spent much time in laborious research; also to Hon. Earl Bill, of Ohio, and Capt. Carlos Pitkin Bill, of Vermont, and finally to Robert Chambers Vaugn, W. M. Bill, and John Bill, Esquires, of England, our acknowledgments and thanks are severally due.

Undoubtedly errors of dates and names will appear; it is extremely difficult in a work of this character to wholly avoid them, owing partly to conflicting statements received, partly to indistinct chirography, and partly to the printer, and also to a lack of vigilance in the supervision. An invitation is extended to all the family, who, seeing, will correct them in their own volumes and send a minute of the same to the undersigned, by whom a copy will be kept in which these errors will be noted, that, should any future edition be published, more perfect copies might result.

EXPLANATIONS.

Commencing with John Bill, we have consecutively numbered each member of the family to the close of the volume. These numbers we will call the Consecutive numbers or figures. They appear in bold type, on the left of each name.

Whenever a † is placed between any consecutive figures and the name, it indicates a further notice of the individual; and to find the place where such notice is given, the reader has only to look at the consecutive number, which we will assume now becomes an INDEX number—then looking forward to the place where it appears, in the center of the page, where will be found a further account of the party sought.

This works as easily backward as forward, for you have only to take the index number, in the center of the page, and follow it backward to the place where it is a consecutive number. We will give one illustration each way. Take the consecutive number 182, on page 122; turn forward to page 144, and we there find the same figures, or the index number. Then suppose we take the index number 413, on page 213, we turn backward till we come to the same figures among the consecutive numbers, on page 166.

Where there is no † between the consecutive number and the names, no further account is given of that individual.

Finally, any member of the family can trace their paternal ancestral line, without turning either forward or back, by looking at the Christian names included in parenthesis, opposite the name of the head of the family to which he or she belongs. This shows at a glance the number of generations, and the names of the paternal ancestors from whom they have descended. For example, take Phineas Bill, page 137. Opposite his name we have (Joshua, Philip, John), who were his ancestors. The small superior figures at the end, and just above the name, denote the generation of each to whom it is attached.

In mentioning any locality, if no State is given, Connecticut is intended, except otherwise indicated in some preceding paragraph.

INTRODUCTORY REMARKS.

OUR ENGLISH ANCESTORS.

THE data from which to compile a thorough knowledge of our English ancestors can only be obtained by a visit to that country; such material, however, as we have received will doubtless be very welcome to the family here. First, perhaps, we should bring the proof of our descent from English stock. It is not an uncommon impression that our name may be a corruption of Williams, and a branch of that family; but it is known that that name is of Welsh extraction, and as a surname is proved by records to be a more modern one than Bill; hence ours could not have sprung from it, since it antedates it. Again, it might not be unreasonable to suppose the origin to have been accidental, or drawn from some surrounding object in nature, art, or from among the various trades or professions; these being prolific sources of surnames, as we may see from the following:—Bowditch, in his work on surnames, classifies great numbers as being from the sources above referred to, namely: Mr. Rivers, Flood, Waters, Brooks, Pond; then Mr. Hill, Rock, Peak; then Mr. Forrest, Wood, Hedge, Oaks, Beecher, Chesnut, Hawthorne; then Mr. Appleton, Plum, Quincy; then Mr. Wheat, Rice, Oatman; then Mr. Fortune, Flush, Bill, Go(u)ld, Sterling; then Mr. Iron, Marble, Stone; then Mr. Cushing, Couch, Curtain; then Mr. Coates, Vail, Gear, Stocking, and so on, almost indefinitely, in their variations. We should feel bound to accept some such derivation could we not trace the origin to its real source. Bill is plainly an English word, having a Norman origin. In the time of the conquest of England, the Norman soldiers were divided into several distinct classes or grades, as are our own, namely: we have artillery, cavalry, and infantry; they had knights, who were all clad in full armor and mounted, then battle-axe or bill-men, then the archers; ranking in the order in which they are named. The middle grade of soldiers above mentioned were known, when they became incorporated with the inhabitants of Britain, as bill-men. All had some general name, applicable to tribes and races, by which they were known to other persons and races; as the Jews, the Romans, the Normans, the Britons, &c. True, it is very probable each individual had some given name by which he was personally identified among his own people—as Isaac, Jacob, Saul of Tarsus, &c.; but surnames were not in use much before A. D. 1300. Indeed, it was full fifty years later that they came into general use. The presumption is, then, that at the time of the introduction of surnames into English records our English ancestors received their name of Bill, from the general cognomen that for many years prior to 1300 had been applied to them, and applied, as we have already observed, originally to a class of soldiery. It was but natural to give this class—these bill-men—the name of Bill.

We are further sustained in this opinion by the history of those times. Worcester says bil is of Anglo-Saxon origin; also German, beil; Danish, bile; Swedish, bila; and gives the definition of the word as being a hatchet with a crooked point, sometimes called a hedge-bill. Milton uses the word as meaning a sword, or a battle-axe. Hall says: There were sent into France hundreds, and some not able to draw a bow or carry a bill (axe). As confirmatory of the descent of our English ancestors from the Normans, we find an eminent family in Denmark bearing the name of Bill. One of the most noted admirals in Danish history was of this name. The recent Danish minister at Washington also bore the name of Billé, and he expressed it as his opinion that the name of Bill in this country was identical with his own.

Thus much as to the origin and application of the family name.

The writer, early in the summer of 1866, arranged to obtain what information was possible of the family in England. The result has been most gratifying, though, of course, not all that could be desired. During the past year a correspondence has been opened with over fifty different persons, bearing the name of Bill, in that country.

It is found that our name is among the oldest in all England, being directly traceable, in a single county—that of Shropshire—for a period of about 500 years. Families may be found in the counties of Wiltshire, Kent, Herefordshire, Yorkshire, Staffordshire; also in the cities of London, Birmingham, Manchester, and other towns. The first of whom we have any special account is

Dr. Thomas Bill,* born about 1490, in Bedfordshire, was a physician, and an attendant of the Princess Elizabeth in 1549. This Thomas was a B. A. in 1524, afterwards elected Fellow of Pembroke Hall, and in 1558 the degree of M. A. was conferred. Being a medical student, he had leave from his college, in 1530, to travel for three years and a quarter on the Continent; and again, in 1531, two additional years were voted him; this was that he might be the better fitted for his profession, by visiting the medical schools and attending the lectures of the most eminent physicians of Europe. He took the degree of M. D. at the celebrated university founded by the Emperor Charlemagne, at Pavia, in Italy, during this time. He was one of the physicians to Henry VIII. and Edward VI., and from the latter he received, on 26th March, 1546–7, a grant of £100 per annum. The Princess Elizabeth wrote, A. D., 1549, the following letter of thanks to the Duke of Somerset, in which she mentions Dr. Bill:—

* MY VERY GOOD LORD,

Many lines will not serve to render the least part of the thanks that your grace hath deserved of me, most especially for that you have been careful for my health; and sending unto me not only your comfortable letters but also physicians, as Doctor Bill, whose diligence and pains has been a great part of my recovery: for whom I do most heartily thank your grace, desiring you to give him thanks for me, who can ascertain you of mine estate of health, wherefore I will not write it. And although I be most bounden to you in this time of my sickness, yet I may not be unthankful for that your grace hath made [such] expedition for my patent; with my most hearty thanks and commendations to you and to my good lady your wife, most heartily fare you well.

Your assured friend to my power,

ELIZABETH.

From Cheshunt the present Friday—To my Lord Protector's Grace.

DOCTOR BILL received, on 2d March, 1550, from St. John's College, a lease of its estates of Heigham during the Mastership (Presidency) of Dr. William Bill. The king granted him and Agnes his wife, and to his heirs, the Chantry House of Rowney, also estates in Surry. Dr. Bill's will bears date June 1, 1551.

The next in order, and perhaps the most conspicuous of all our family in English annals, certainly a very learned and eminent man, was about 1505, who was probably a brother of John Bill, * of Ashwell, and also a near relative of the preceding, certainly as near as first cousin, and it is not unlikely may have been a brother. He received his education at St. John's College, under Mr. (afterward Sir) John Chekes. He took the degree of B. A. in 1532-3, and was elected Fellow of his college 7th Nov., 1535. About this period he was introduced by letter of Sir John's to Queen Anne Boleyn, in which he is characterized as a "learned and honest man, plentifully endowed with knowledge and of exemplary morals." He attained the degree of M. A. in 1536, and in 1544 the degree of B. D. was conferred. On 10th March, 1546-7, he was (on the recommendation of the Lord Protector Somerset) elected Mastert of St. John's College, being at that time "reader [lecturer] of Lynacre's Physic Lecture;" which post he retained with his Mastership for two years.

WILLIAM BILL, LL. D., born at Ashwell, in Hertfordshire,

In 1547 he received the degree of D. D., and became Vice-Chancellor of the University 1548-9, his year of office being rendered memorable by the visitation of the University under the authority of a royal commission.

In 1551 he was appointed Master of Trinity College, and about the same time became one of the King's six Chaplains in Ordinary.

Shortly after the accession of Queen Mary he was ejected from the Mastership of Trinity in a rude and insolent manner; this was in consequence of his decided faith in Protestantism. He now went into retirement, chiefly from compulsion, during the reign of Mary, remaining quite secluded lest his life should be the forfeit. This was a period of great and marvellous events. At this period William Tindall* was driven into exile, and afterward martyred, and all the copies of his New Testament that could be found were ordered burned. Many other eminent men of that period forfeited their lives on account of their religious opinions. From this dire confusion in theology emerged Protestant England, full orbed, with Queen Elizabeth as its champion. Out of the darkness and chaos of struggling ideas came Bunyan's inspired Pilgrim, and Milton's Paradise Regained.

Dr. Bill was not allowed to remain in his retirement, for those who were persecuted had now all the power of the Throne behind them. On the 20th November, 1558, being the Sunday immediately following Queen ELIZABETH'S accession, Dr. Bill preached at St. Paul's Cross, and soon thereafter was made Her Majesty's Chief Almoner, and was also restored to the Mastership of Trinity. In June 25, 1559, he became Fellow of Etont College, whereof he was elected Provost 5th July following; his election being confirmed on the 29th, by the Chapter of Canterbury; the Sees of Canterbury and Lincoln being both then vacant.

On the 20th September in the same year he was instituted to the Prebend of Milton Ecclesia in the church of Lincoln. He was also appointed a member of the royal ecclesiastical commission, consisting of the famed Bishop Cranmer and others, empowered to revise the calendar of Lessons or Homilies to be used in the church service throughout the year; and was otherwise much occupied in divers matters relating to the settlement of the Church. On the 30th June, 1560, he was installed Dean of Westminster, being the first incumbent of that office.

*William Tindall was born near Wales, and became a very learned man and greatly versed in a thorough knowledge of the Scriptures. He was compelled on account of his enmity to Romanism, and its minions in England, to leave that country. He went to Antwerp, and an English spy was set upon him, and he was arrested and imprisoned, and finally burnt at the stake in Tilford, A. D. 1536. (Fox's Book of Martyrs, pp. 258, 264.)

He died on the 15th July, 1561, and was interred on the 20th of that month, in the Chapel of St. Benedict, in Westminster Abbey, where there is an altar-tomb having thereon a brass with an outline portrait [effigy] of the deceased, and also the following inscription around the verge:—

Hic jacet Gualiel Bill Theologiæ Doctor Deanus Westmonast Primarius Collegii Ætonæ Collegii Trinitatis apud Cantabrigiam Præfectus et serenissamæ Reginæ Elizabethai Summus Eleemosynaris Obiit 15 Julii Anno Salutis 1561.

Under the effigy are other lines in Latin, setting forth the character of the man, his moral worth, and his great wisdom. By his will, dated May 6, 1561, and proved December 17 in the same year, he constituted Sir William Cecil and Sir Robert Catlyn his executors, and bequeathed to Trinity College 100 marks for the fabric of the new chapel; also £10 for poor students, and to the poor of Ashwell, his native town, £30. He also gave his plate to the College of Westminster, with furniture for the college; and he and Matthew Page were the donors of the coverlets in the long chamber at Eton.

Dr. Bill drew the statutes of the College of Westminster, but they did not receive the royal sanction until after his decease, when, at the instance of Dean Goodman, Dr. Bill's successor, they were submitted to the Queen's learned counsellors, and were approved and adopted.* "He was also associated with others in reviewing the old Common Prayer Book, and weighing all things to render it fit to be presented to Parliament to confirm it by an act." This labor "was performed at Sir Thomas Smith's house in Westminster."*

No other person ever held, at the same time, the three important positions of Master of Trinity, Provost of Eton, and Dean of Westminster. His portrait in brass, on the tomb before referred to, was sketched in 1820 by Harding, and engraved on steel by a Mr. Grave of London. For what publication this steel engraving was made is at present unknown to the writer, but it gives us great pleasure to state that in the fall of 1866, after diligent inquiry, a proof-copy, on india-paper, was found in the interior of England, and is now in our possession. It is from this that we are enabled to furnish a likeness of this distinguished member of the family for the present volume. Undoubtedly it is a very imperfect representation of the man; yet, if we remember that the portrait in brass—of which this is a perfect copy—was cut when the art was in its infancy, no apology will be required for its short-comings as a likeness. It is probably by far the oldest portrait of any of the family, in either England or America, extant, being over three hundred years since it was first engraved and placed on his monument in that ancient abbey, sacred in the memory of Englishmen as the burial-place of the learned and great of their country.

His daughter Mary married Francis Samwell, Auditor to King Henry VII. Their son and heir, Sir William Samwell,† received the honor of Knighthood at the coronation of King James I. Sir William wedded Jane, daughter of Sir Henry Skipworth, Knight of Keythorpe.

CHARLES BILL,* born in London about 1550, and, as believed, a son of the preceding, was educated at Eton, and elected thence to King's College, whereof he was admitted a scholar August 16, 1568, and Fellow in August 17, 1571.

* This ancient family of Samwells were seated at Restormal Castle. His estates were the Manor and Lordship of Upton. Had also estates in Middlesex and Surry, and in the city of London. Seat, Upton Hall.

He took the degree of B. A. 1572, and in 1576 had the degree of M. A. conferred.

During the time Dr. Bridgewater held the office of public orator, he was chosen as his deputy. On the 21st of February, 1580, he was enjoined at the instance of the royal authority, and by the special request of the Provost of the college, "to divert to the study of the Civil Law;" subsequently he became secretary to Lord Cobham. In 1609 he is "the Mr. Bill, an excellent scholar," who was recommended by Sir Vincent Skinner to Sir Michael Hicks to succeed, on Sir Thomas Smith's decease, to his office of Latin secretary to the King.

He was the author of several important Latin letters; also one in English, published in the name of the University; also of Latin verses on the "Death of Sir Philip Sidney," now in the University Collection. No account of his death has been found.

JOHN BILL, born in the parish of Much Wenlock,† and baptized 1576; he appears in London in 1613‡ as a "Publisher to King James I. Most Excellent Majestie." One of the earliest volumes showing the imprint of this Mr. Bill is that written by King James I., bearing the following title: "The workes of the Most High and Mighty Prince James, by the Grace of God Kinge of Great Brittain, France and Ireland; Defender of the Faith, 1616." This volume comprises a collection of the works written by the king himself; and it is believed that only one copy exists in this country, and that is held to be of great value from its antiquity and consequent rarity. It may be seen at the New York Society Library, situated in University Place.

From the year 1607* to 1700, the names, first of John, and then that of his son Charles, as his successor, appear as publishers. The chief publications issued by them were Bibles, Prayer-Books, for the use of churches, and copies of the New Testament Scriptures; though copies of sermons preached in London in 1619 and 1620, also volumes in Latin, are found that bear the imprint of the former, showing their business to have been that of general publishing.†

The printing of the Scriptures at this period was subject to the special control of the crown, and none were allowed to print the same except by royal permission; great care being exercised as to who had the royal license, lest changes in the text should occur.

In 1639 we find the name of John Bill used as publisher by his assignees, whether the business of publishing had proved unprofitable, or his other enterprises involved him in financial difficulty, we know not; the fact that the business being still carried on in his name, and continued by his son, would lead us to infer the business in itself was not, perhaps, unprofitable. Their style of imprint after this shows a partnership, but prior to 1700 the son Charles's name appears, and continues to that period, when it is no longer found.

We find at the American Bible House in New York, on Fourth Avenue, a number of these Bibles above mentioned. They are very carefully preserved, with other valuable books, in a private room, under lock and key, into which no stranger is allowed to enter without an attendant. This society have thirteen copies, twelve of which are of different editions, and they range in size from large folios down to 18mo. On the same shelves with the Bibles named stand the famous Thomas Matthews* Bible; also, near by is the supposed pocket Bible of John Milton, a very beautiful miniature copy of the Holy Scriptures.

A partner of John Bill, Christopher Barker, is reputed to have published the first news-sheet, called the English Mercurie,† issued to contradict false reports concerning the descent of the Spanish Armada upon the coast of England. There is some doubt whether Barker was or was not the publisher of this news-sheet, and the query is, if he was not, who was? There can be only one other person who can rightly claim this distinction, and he is John Bill. We know that he printed the first London Gazette,‡ in the time of Charles II. Bill & Barker was the name of the firm for some years carrying on the business of publishing.§

This John Bill was the first King's printer, says Cunningham, and the name of Printing-House Square was given to his place of business after the royal license was granted him. The King's printers continued to do business in this locality until 1770, when a removal occurred, but it still continues to be known as Printing-House Square, and may be said to deserve it, for here the London Times—the celebrated newspaper—established January 1, 1787, is printed and published.

We have an account of an edition of the Bible in the Welsh tongue, pronounced one of the purest translations ever made, and issued between 1650 and 1700. Two reports reach us relating to it: one, that it was translated by Charles Bill, said to be of Llundain, Wales; the other, that it was published by him. Of course we credit the latter statement, though some color is given to the possible truth of the first report, since we find families of Bills now, in 1866, at both Flint and Mold, in Wales, where they have long resided. It is not impossible for both to be correct.

Outside of the Bible Society Rooms, in New York, we know of but two copies—one is owned by Gurdon Bill, of Springfield, Mass.; this bears the imprint of Charles Bill: London, 1698; the other is in the hands of a family living in the eastern part of the same State.

John Bill married for his first wife Anne, daughter of Thomas Mountford, D. D., born about the year 15—. She was the author of a work entitled, "Mirror of Modestie ''* [8vo], which was published in London, 1621. In a subsequent edition, published in 1719, long after her death, by the well-known printer Bindley, of London, -whose works are highly esteemed as models of the typographic art-was an additional poem, dedicated to her memory, together with an engraved plate on steel of a "Monument of Mortalitie." This work is very rare. There are copies to be had in England occasionally, but only at fabulous prices. At the time of its publication, in 1719, even, it was sold at £3 16s. per copy, sterling. She was a lady of some celebrity, greatly skilled in music, possessing eminent virtues, and was held in high esteem.

She died May 3d, 1621, aged 33 years, and was buried at St. Faith's, under St. Paul's.

He married for his second wife Joan, daughter of Henry Franklin, of Throwley, in Kent. Her death is not given. His will bears date 1630; it may have been proved at a subsequent period—further than this we have no data of his death. He was buried at St. Anne's, Blackfriars, in London. By his will he left the sum of £15 to the parish of Much Wenlock, where he was born. The Parish Register's office of that town was burned some years since, and a portion of the records were destroyed.*

The families at present residing in England are believed to have descended, chiefly, from Charles and Henry, named above.

We find that Henry Bill, Esquire, a grandson of John Bill (King's printer), and probably a son of the son Henry above, was settled at Seaford in 1680. He married Letitia, a daughter of Sir James Colbrond, Bart. He died in 1696. A cousin of the last named, as is supposed, John * This and other facts were communicated by Mr. John Bill, who resides in the same town where his ancestor and namesake was born. He writes under date of February 25, 1867, that his is the only family bearing the name in the parish of Much Wenlock, the ancient home of the Bills.

Bill, Esquire, whose name appears in Bloome's Britannia, 1672, as one of the Middlesex genfry, married Lady Diana, a daughter of Mildmay Fane, second Earl of Westmoreland, and widow of John Pelham, Esquire, of Brokelsby, County of Lincoln.

*There is, in a rare volume of poems, published in London, some verses dedicated to Mrs. Diana Bill, in which a wish is expressed that "the noble race of Westmoreland might spread," &c.

We have come now to the period when our first ancestors appeared in America; these, as will be shown in the next chapter, were John and Dorothy Bill. If we turn back, and look again at the list of the children of John Bill (King's printer), we find his eldest son, bearing his name, to be a man grown in 1630. What became of him? I am unable to find any thing relating to him after the date of his father's will [1630]. If it be reasonable to suppose that his father died at or about the time of the date of his will, then it will be seen he had no nearer relatives living in England than half-brothers and sisters. It is not probable his father left any great estate, for he had made an assignment some time prior to his decease, as has been stated. Then several other causes, all tending to induce emigration, may be mentioned, namely: the fact of the loss of both his father and mother, and his being left in humble circumstances through unfortunate enterprises of his late father, and, added to this, the possible unsatisfactory treatment by his stepmother, and probably, above all, the intolerant spirit that pervaded all England in religious affairsthese, quite likely, proved a sufficient sum of grievances to cause his exit from the country of his birth to the then new western world, where he might be free from both civil and religious despotism.

We do not wish to assert as a positive and ascertained fact that this John is the John Bill whom we claim as our paternal ancestor in America, but, nevertheless, it is our belief, and many minor matters contribute to confirm our opinion. We might name one of the minor considerations; that is, the perpetuation of the same family names by John and Dorothy as were common to the family at that very period in England, and had been, for many years prior, old family names.

Nothing further remains for us but to give here the coat-of-arms * as worn by Charles Horsfall Bill, Esquire, of Dauntsey House, Chippenham, Wiltshire, England.

Arms: Erm. two wood-bills [battle-axes] sa. with long handles ppr. in saltier, on a chief az. a pale or, charged with a rose gu. betw. two pelicans' heads erased at the neck ar.

* We find in the various works on heraldry five different coats-ofarms belonging to the Bills, but the one above given is believed to be the correct one, though no crest is mentioned; yet for the full coat-of-arms see title-page, to which the reader is referred. It may be worn, however, without the crest.

THE BILL FAMILY

IN AMERICA.

FIRST GENERATION.

1. JOHN AND DOROTHY BILL.

This country had long been known to Europeans prior to the embarkation of the Pilgrims at Delft Haven for New England. The coast-line had been roughly sketched by the Dutch and other adventurers who had sailed up and down the line of the continent, making lodgments here and there for purposes of trade and colonization; but it was not until 1620 that the Pilgrims, previously driven from England, left Holland for a home in America.

Many thoughts come crowding for expression as we reflect on the mysterious causes that for centuries had been at work preparing, as it were, a people of simple yet of pure faith as seed with which to populate a new world.

The history of Europe and contiguous countries prior to this time forms little else than a series of hideous chapters relating to the conquests of States and races, of wars and despotisms, both civil and religious, ever culminating in martyrdoms, and turmoils, and strifes among neighboring populations, intolerance meanwhile everywhere prevailing, even as late as the sixteenth century.

Such, in brief, were the elemental causes inducing emigration; and it is from this point that we proceed to the task of collecting the history of our family in America.

The earliest mention of any of the name of Bill is found in the ancient records of the "Town of Boston," where we read: "John Bill died 10 mo., 1638." A month later, January 21, 1638-9, Richard Tuttell [Tuttle] became responsible to the town of Boston for "one Dorothie Bill, widdowe, a sojourner in his house," and "for any thing about her."*

Before proceeding further, we will state, for the benefit of the general reader, that prior to 1752 two methods of commencing the year prevailed in England. The Ecclesiastical, as also the Legal year, commenced on the 25th March, but the Historical year on the first of January. This custom prevailed in the colonies until by an act of Parliament, in 1751, the first of January was also made the beginning of the legal year. We may add, also, that the Arabic numbers were frequently written in place of the names of the month; hence the tenth month, as expressed above, was December, while 1638 refers to the legal year, and the addition of the figure 9, in the last quotation above, denotes the historical year.

The ancient phraseology used above, pertaining to Dorothie Bill, means that she had lately become a widow, and Mr. Tuttle, who was probably her brother, engaged to meet any expense that might arise on account of her and her children. "Any thing about her" undoubtedly refers to children connected with said Dorothy, who might possibly occasion expense. Dorothy Bill had at this time at least one son, James Bill, who was a full-grown man, aged 23. We also feel quite certain she had two other sons, namely, Thomas, near 20 years of age, and Philip, who was still younger. These sons, if not living with their mother, would be likely to visit her from time to time. A year later, we find Dorothy and her son James living together.

We find no record of the arrival in this country of John and Dorothy Bill, whom we believe to have been husband and wife, although no record makes it certain; but when we consider the record of the death of John Bill,† as heretofore given, we are impressed with the belief that it is the death of an adult, and not of a child. Had it been a child, the parents' names would have formed part of the record, as in other cases.

It is assumed that John and Dorothy must have arrived in the colony prior to 1635, for we find that a boy named John Bill, aged 13, came in the ship "Hopewell," in 1635; also, that one Mary Bill, aged 11, came in the ship "Planter" about the same time. There is little reason to doubt these two children were also the children of John and Dorothy, for we find the girl Mary Bill in company with the Tuttles, and apparently one of their family, as her name immediately follows their names in the list of passengers.

It is probable that John and Dorothy Bill, induced by the same reasons that drove the earlier Pilgrims to seek a home in America, and by other reasons mentioned in the previous chapter, came hither, with their three eldest children, as pioneers; and made a settlement, and otherwise provided for the reception of their remaining family and friends, who came, as we have seen, in 1635, in the vessels above. The fact that after the death of the husband of Dorothy, Richard Tuttle became responsible for her and her children; and the other fact, that Mary Bill came in company with the Tuttles, on board of the "Planter," leaves the impression on our minds, indeed, there seems to be no question, that Richard Tuttle was a brother of Dorothy Bill, and consequently an uncle of the children. This in part explains how the parents came to leave their two youngest children behind them in England; also, how it came that Richard Tuttle should volunteer to become responsible for the widow and children of John Bill, and that the widow should "sojourn in his house."

It is not remarkable that neither the names of John or Dorothy Bill, or their three eldest children, appear in any of the volumes in the Rolls Office, London, containing names of the early emigrants, and made by order of the Home Government. They must be incomplete, or else they do not cover the entire period. Drake, in his "Founders of New England," speaks of these volumes as being somewhat damaged by water, and it will be noticed he gives no list of emigrants for New England in 1633. Widow Dorothy Bill did not long remain in the house of her (supposed) brother, Richard Tuttle, for on the 27th of January, 1639–40, Robert Mears sold to Dorothy Bill and her son James Bill his house and garden, "where they now live."*

Richard Tuttle, above named, soon became a man of note in Boston. He was made a freeman March 3, 1635-6, and, during the same month, was chosen, with Thomas Oliver, Thomas Leverett, William Hutchinson, Thomas Colbarne, and others, one of a committee to oversee and regulate the internal concerns of the town. In 1638 he had an allotment of land at Rumney Marsh and Pullen Point, which may have led the way to James Bill, his supposed nephew, settling there. In November 5, 1638, Richard Tuttle was chosen constable of Boston. He died May 8, 1640. His autograph is in Drake's History of Boston, p. 243.

There is no record of the death of Dorothy Bill. We assume, and feel justified in the assumption, that John Bill was the husband of Dorothy (Tuttle) Bill, and that they had the following children:

- 2 † James, b. in England 1615; m. Mary ———
- 3 † Thomas, b. in do. about 1618; m. (1) Elizabeth Nichols; (2) Abigail Willis.
- 4 † Philip, b. in England about 1620; m. Hannah
- 5 John, b. in do. 1622.
- 6 Mary, b. in do. 1624.

Of the above children, we know that James was the son of Dorothy. Of John and Mary, we only know that they came in 1635. We do not hear of them again. Of James, Thomas, and Philip, and their descendants, we have now to trace; and it will be interesting to see how so small a family as this of John and Dorothy's has expanded and widened, until, in 1867, a period of over two centuries and a quarter, their

SECOND GENERATION.

JAMES BILL, son of John and Dorothy Bill, was born in England, in 1615, as we learn from the inscription on his gravestone, still standing in Copp's Hill burying-ground, Boston. He came to this country in company with his parents, as has been assumed, prior to 1635, at the age of 20 years. He married Mary ———, who was also born in England, in 1613. She died August 9, 1688, aged 75, seven months after her husband, and was buried by his side. Being two years older than her husband, it is probable that she was his first and only wife.

James Bill is first made known to us by his purchase, conjointly with his mother, Dorothy Bill, of a house and garden from Robert Mears, January 27, 1639-40. James and his mother lived there at the time. This property must have been on or near what is now Sudbury Street.

He must, soon after this, have bought property at Pullen Point, for we find him selling six acres of land at that place, which implies a previous purchase. The date of the said sale is in April, 1645: how long he had owned this piece of property is not known to the writer, but it is probable he came into possession of it between the date of the first purchase of a house and garden in Boston, in 1639–40, and the date of his sale, which was, as we have said, in 1645. He, however, must soon after have made other and extensive purchases at Pullen Point, at which place we find him residing shortly after, and where he continued during the remainder of his life. Our knowledge of the transaction of the sale above named is derived from the following document:—

"James Bill of Boston, in New England, for the summe of Ten pounds - - - - - doth sell and deliver up to Bernard Engle [Ingalls] - - - - all my land at Pulling Point w<sup>ch</sup> I purchased of Mr., Wentworth Daye, there inhabiting, with all the housing upon it - - - - - the s<sup>d</sup> land being six acres more or lesse, bounded North and South with the land of the s<sup>d</sup> Mr. Wentworth Daye, with the land of Serg. Major Gibbons towards the West, with the land of John Evered [Webb] of Boston, towards the East. Morover I do hereby warrant the house and land now sold, &c. I have hereunto set my hand this tenth of the second moneth [April] 1645." Subscribed by James Bill. (Suff. Deeds, 5: 45, 46).

The foregoing is an indorsement on a confirmatory deed, dated February, 1664–5, but "signed, sealed, and delivered," July, 1666; acknowledged before Richard Bellingham, Governor, and signed by James Bill and Mary his wife. In explanation of this confirmatory deed, we may say that no registry of deeds for the county of Suffolk existed till 1653. There had been some litigation and much confusion about landed estates, from the want of a proper system of transfers and method in their record. (See Drake's History of Boston, p. 785.) The document quoted above is of great importance. It shows that James Bill bought land at Pulling Point as early as 1645, if not before; and that he probably resided there at that time. Pulling [Pullen] Point was then a part of the territory of Boston, though afterwards included in the town of Chelsea [1738], and now in the town of Winthrop.

The earliest conveyance of landed property in this country to any of the name of Bill, except as already noted, is the following. Of the two already mentioned there is no copy. We give an exact copy of this deed; not only as a matter of antiquarian curiosity, but chiefly in view of the interest all the family will take in its perusal. It will be seen to be a deed of a house and lot situate in Boston, given by Evan Thomas to James Bill:—

The foregoing deed may be found in the Suffolk Registry of Deeds, Lib. I. fols. 277, 278, 279.

1666, June 6. The Executors of the Estate of John Oliver, late of Boston, sell, for £330, in money and other current pay in New England, to James Bill of Pulling Point within the bounds of the Towne of Boston, their messuage tenement or farme at Pulling Point, late in the occupation of the aforenamed John Oliver, and all Edifices, buildings, &c. - - - - which farm is bounded East on land of William Burnell, deceased: North by the marsh of Edward Hutchinson: West on land of said James Bill, formerly the land of Wentworth Daye: South by the Creek coming out of the Cove, northerly. Acknowledged June 5, 1666, before Ri. Bellingham, Gov.—(Suffolk Deeds, 5, 43.)

As early as 1666, James Bill was the proprietor of three lots of land on Spectacle Island, in the harbor of Boston, which he sells to his (supposed) brother, Thomas. as follows:

1666, Dec. 13. James Bill of Pulling Point, for a valuable consideration sells to Thomas Bill of Boston, Lighterman, all his right, title, and interest to three lots of land on Spectacle Island, within the bounds of Boston: two of the said lots being on the southeasterly end of Spectacle, furthest from Boston, and are the lots which were granted by the selectmen of Boston, the one to Capt. Johnson, the other to Benjamin

Negus, containing seven acres; and one lot being on the Spectacle nearest to Boston, formerly in possession of William Beamsley, deceased, containing two acres.—(Ibid. 9: 195.)

Spectacle Island, we find hereafter, continued in the possession of the family, either in whole or in part, for about eighty years. We defer further notice of this island until we come to speak of the above-named Thomas Bill and his son Samuel Bill.

Mr. Vinton says: "We cannot but regard the transfer of these rights of James to Thomas Bill, as tending to corroborate the supposition that these two men were brothers; and," he adds, "that, since it was transferred for a valuable consideration, not specifically stated, it was doubtless on terms quite favorable to his less prosperous brother."

There can be no doubt of the great prosperity of James Bill, and especially at this period, for we find him the owner of large estates, and these were chiefly located at Pulling Point—the home of many of the most distinguished families of those times.

The next purchase of landed property was that of a house 'lot on the North end of Boston.

1667-8, Feb. 6. John Paine of Boston, merchant, for £50, sells to James Bill of Pulling Point, within the bounds of Boston, a parcell of land at the north end of Boston, containing in breadth £6 feet on the brow of the Banck, and below the Banck, on the flats above high water 50 feet in breadth, and is, in length from the northerly side of the highway [Fleet Street] between the burying-place [Copps Hill] and the said land down northerly to the low water: bounded S. E. by land of John Dacon, N. W. on land of Capt. Samuel Scarlett, N. E. on the sea or mouth of Charles River, S. W. on the aforesaid highway [Fleet Street]: the foote-path on the bank Excepted.—(Suff. Deeds, vol. vi. 305.)

This piece of land, says Vinton, is easily identified. Part of it was "below the bank," just where is now the western terminus of the East Boston Ferry; there it was 50 feet wide.

The breadth elsewhere was 46 feet. The length is not stated. The price paid may or may not determine that it extended all the way from Copps Hill burying-ground to the water. There is deep water in that vicinity, and this land now and has long been esteemed of great value. The reason, undoubtedly, of the purchase of this "parcel of land" fronting and joining to the water was the dockage privilege. It is quite likely he erected thereon a wharf, and held it for his and his sons' uses. That he was engaged in commercial pursuits we have evidence of in the inventory of his estate, to which the reader is referred. It is true that we find, in 1671-2, Feb. 28, James Bill, Senior, selling to his son, James Bill, Junior, both of Pudden Point,* for £20, the above lot, purchased of John Paine; also one negro, Jack, is included for this sum. The price named above would lead us to infer that this conveyance did not probably include the wharfage.

We now come to a very important document, dated 1671-2, February 28. It is an Indenture between James Bill, Senior, and his wife Mary, of Pudden [Pulling] Point, of the one part, and James Bill, Junior, Jonathan Bill, Joseph Bill, and Joshua Bill, who are declared to be their surviving sons, of the other part.

As Attests. Issac Addington
(Suff. Deeds, VI. 309, 310, 311.)

The design of this paper was evidently to place his worldly affairs in such a condition, that, should he be suddenly removed, his estate should take the direction and manner here indicated. This course was, we think, a wise one; it possesses balances and checks not unworthy the attention of any person similarly situated. The wife and mother was provided for, as we see, and he also reserved to himself supreme control during his life. This paper covered only a portion of his real estate, and not any of his personal property.

We cannot pass without calling attention to the fact that Thomas Bill was a witness. This is significant of the relationship heretofore assumed as existing between him and James Bill, the signer of the following instrument:—

1674, Dec. 31, Samuel Burnell of Boston, cooper, and Anne his wife, for £180, sell to James Bill, Senior, of Pulling

Point, their farm at Pulling Point, containing 36 acres, with all the houseing, &c., bounded E. and N. E. by land of Deane Winthrop, and on every other side by land of said James Bill. (Ibid. 9; 146.)

1677, April 25, James Bill purchased of Daniel Turrell a lot of land at the north end of Boston. (Ibid. 16; 57.)

James Bill must have been a man of some note, it would be but reasonable to suppose. We find him living at one of the most attractive points in the vicinity of Boston, and having for neighbors gentlemen of distinction and culture. We find some evidence of the confidence reposed in him from the following, taken from the Genealogical Reg. 10; 270, namely: William Burnell, the father of Samuel Burnell, above, made a will, dated 5th of 1st month, 1660, and another will 16th of 2d mo., 1660. Of both of these wills he appointed James Bill of Pulling Point, and John Doolittle of Rumney Marsh, "to see this my will fulfilled."

The following, taken from the Tax List for 1687, still existing in the State House in Boston, may the better serve to show the extent of his interests in and around Boston.

Arable land, 80 acres.

Pasture land, 170 acres.

Housing, Mills and Wharves, 8.

Oxen, 4; bulls and cows of four years old and upwards, 5; heifers and steers between three and four years old, 9; heifers and steers between two and three years old, 4; heifers and steers between one and two years old, 1; horses and mares of three years old and upwards, 1; Ewe sheep and wethers above one year old, 200; swine above one year old, 4.

Amount of Tax, £1 3s. 10d.

The property in Boston, the Sloop Trial, and the negroes are not included, it will be seen.

James Bill attended public worship at the second church in Boston, where the Rev'ds. Increase and Cotton Mather, father and son, preached. This church then stood in North Square, but in time of the Revolution it was pulled down and used for fuel by the British troops.

He died February 1, 1687-8, and was buried on Copps Hill, Boston. The following is the inscription on his gravestone, which is still standing: "Here Lyeth Buried ye Body of James Bill, aged 73 years, Departed This Life ye First of February 1687-8." This stone stands in the northwest part of the cemetery, facing the northeast, and near the path which leads from the north to the south gate. Near by is the grave-stone of his wife, bearing this inscription: "Here lyeth buried ye body of Mary Bill wife to James Bill, aged about 75 years died ye 29 of August, 1688."

We now append the action of the Probate Court relating to the will of James Bill, Sr., and also give an exact copy of the will itself, as made by Mr. T. B. Wyman, Jr., taken from Suff. Prob. vol. x. pp. 222, 223, 224.

* In the third year of the reign of King James the Second, King of England,

The inventory of James Bill's estate, taken by Deane
Winthrop, Aaron Way, and William Ireland, was as follows:
Land at Pulling Point £140.
House-lot in Boston 80.
One half of sloop Trial and boat 119.
Two negroes 40.
Wearing Apparel 15.
Two barrels Beef 54. S. Indian Corne, Barley and Rye
Desperate Debts owing to the Estate 66. 14.
Total . £420. 6. 4. (Suff. Prob. 10: 226.)

Had he not deeded, as we have seen, to his sons, nearly all his landed property at Pulling Point prior to March 1, 1671-2, amounting in value to £400 (that was likely far below its real value, being only what he required his sons to pay under certain circumstances), this would have swollen the amount of his inventory far beyond what is now shown.

The children of James and Mary (-----) Bill were :--

- 7 † Mary, b. about 1645; m. John Smith.
- 8 † Hannah, b. " 1647; m. John Kent.
- 9 † James, b. Nov. 23, 1651; m. Mehitable ——.
- 10 † Jonathan, b. about 1654; m. Frances ———.
- 11 † Sarah, b. " 1658; m. Rev. Thomas Cheever.
- 12 † Joseph,<sup>a</sup> b. " 1660; m. (1) Lydia ———, (2) Deliverance Wakefield.
- Joshua, b. about 166-. This was the youngest of the family of whom we have any account. His name appears in the conveyance of land by his father to his sons, dated February 28, 1671-2, given on a previous page. No account of him is found after that, and it is quite probable he died before his father, and, we presume, was never married.

3.

gives us the following as additional reasons why it was probable Thomas and James were brothers, viz.: That they both resided in Boston (Pulling Point was then a part of Boston), and they attended the same place of worship, and seem to have both been members of the same church [Second Church]; they were nearly the same age, and that Thomas was a witness to that Indenture made February 28, 1671–2; also, that James transfers to Thomas his interest in Spectacle Island without naming the price; probably for a sum far below its actual value; and, too, that Thomas gave the name of James to his eldest son by his second wife.

Thomas Bill married, for his first wife, ELIZABETH SARGENT NICHOLS, widow of David Nichols, on the 14th of 11th m°. 1652 [Jan. 14, 1653, N. S.]. She was the dau. of William and Sarah Sargent and was b. in England, and came with her parents, in 1638 (See Sargent Genealogy). She died in Boston, March 5, 1657–8, just one week after the birth of her son Sargent Bill.

Thomas Bill married, for his second wife, Abigal Willis, b. about 1633; dau. of Michael and Mildred Willis. The date of the marriage is not known. In the will of her mother, Mildred Willis, dated September 20, 1680, mention is made of her dau. Abigal Bill.

Abigal, second wife of Thomas, died in Boston, November 7, 1696, aged 63, about a week after the death of her husband, and was buried on Copps Hill, in Boston. The following inscription may still be read on her gravestone: "Here Lyeth Buried y° Body of Abigal Bill wife to Thomas Bill, Aged 63 years. Died Novem. y° 7th 1696."

Thomas Bill was known in 1666 as a "lighterman," and, in 1686, as "innholder," and, in 1688, as "mariner;" in 1696, as "planter." These several titles given him in the various records indicate the business that he probably followed at those periods. He lived in "Black-Horse Lane," now a part of Prince Street. He was admitted a member of the Second Church (in the time of Rev. Increase Mather) in 1670, and his wife Abigal in Dec. 6, 1673. We find his name enrolled as a member of the Artillery Company in 1674. He was admitted a freeman May 31, 1671.

The first grant of land to him was that of Spectacle Island, by James Bill, in December 13, 1666, mentioned in the account given of James in the preceding pages. The next is in 1666-7, Feb. 21, when Nathaniel Reynolds, of Boston, cordwainer, and Priscilla his wife, for a valuable consideration, sell to Thomas Bill of Boston, lighterman, two lots of land on the northwesterly head of Spectacle Island, within the bounds of Boston, containing in each lot three acres or thereabouts, one of which lots was granted and given by the Selectmen of Boston unto Jonathan and Thomas Negus; the other lot, containing three acres, was granted by the said Selectmen unto Thomas Wheeler; and is bounded, east by land of widow Davis, west on land of the said Thomas Bill, and butteth north and south on the sea. The possession thereof is warranted against all claims and demands, "except the head rents of the said two lots respectively to be paid to the Selectmen of Boston, according to the custom thereof."-(Suff. Deeds, 5: 536, 537).

1649, April 19, the selectmen of Boston made a grant of Spectacle Island forever to fifteen individuals, on the sole condition of the payment by the grantees of sixpence per acre annually for the use of the town school. It seems that if this rent was not paid to the town treasurer by the first of February in each year, the land was forfeited. This rent, after 1709, is believed to have become obsolete through forfeiture or otherwise.

The above deed is followed by three others, as given in the records.

1666-7. Feb. 26. Josias Cobham, Junior, of Boston, elothier, for £6, sells to Thomas Bill of Boston, lighterman, a piece or parcell on the southerly bend of Spectacle Island, containing three acres, or thereabouts, bounded E. by the sea, W. by land of Daniel Turèll and of Thomas Bill, N. by the Cove, S. by land of Ralph Mason, &c.—(Suff. Deeds, 8: 315).

1667-8. March 3. Daniel Turrell of Boston and Mary his wife for £6 sell to Thomas Bill of Boston, 2½ acres on the southerly bend of Spectacle Island.—[Ibid., 8: 217.] Then, in 1678, Aug. 31, Ralph Mason and Anne his wife sell to Thomas Bill 8 acres of land on Spectacle Island.—(Ibid., 9: 418.)

Thomas Bill had by these several purchases acquired title to full half of this island, and in 1681, Jan. 25, transfers the same to his eldest son, Samuel.

We append a copy of this deed, as was made by A. H. Ward, Esq.

Copy of Deed of Thomas Bill and Abigail his wife to son, Samuel Bill, Jan. 25, 1680.

Liber 12: p: 17. Entered with the Records of Deeds for the County of Suffolk 23d Febry 1680

Per Js<sup>a</sup> Addington, Clerk.

The early history of this island and that of the Bill family being more or less intertwined, we feel sure it will be interesting to many to learn some particulars relating to it; and we here transcribe the whole of the first part of an article, forming one of a series written by Dr. Nathaniel B. Shurtleff, of Boston, and published in the "Sunday Times" of that city, on the 23d December, 1866, under the head of "Boston Harbor and its Islands."

He says: "Returning from Thompson's Island about a mile in a northeasterly direction towards President Roads, and passing an half a mile in an easterly course, the reader will come to a peculiarly shaped island, called Spectacle Island from its remarkable resemblance to a pair of spectacles, it being formed of two peninsular portions connected together by a short bar, which is covered with water at high tides. It lies between Thompson's Island west, and Long Island east, being distant about three-quarters of a mile from the former, and about one mile from the latter. Between it and the southeasterly point of Long Island lies Sculpin Ledge, the easterly part of which has a red buoy (No. 2) to warn the boatmen of its dangerous hidden rocks. Between this island and ledge on the northeast and Thompson's and Moon Islands on the southwest, is the back way, or western passage, through which the course from Boston is south southeast. The bluff on the northerly part of Spectacle Island and the high land upon its southerly portion are designated generally as its north and south heads. Each of these parts can be approached on their westerly side, where small wharves have been built by the owners of the island, for their own use and for the accommodation of the numerous visitors to its hospitable shores. By the old deeds of conveyance, and by estimation, it is supposed to contain about sixty acres of land, equally divided into two parts for the two peninsulas.

"The first mention of this noted location, in the records, is on the fourth of March, 1634-5, when, together with Deer Island, Hog Island, and Long Island, it was granted to the town of Boston, for the yearly rent of four shillings for the four islands; which may be called one shilling apiece for each of them. Very soon after it came into the possession of the town, it was allotted to the different inhabitants, who paid a small annual rent, to inure to the benefit of the free school. At this time the island was well covered with wood; for Governor Winthrop relates, that on the 13th of January, 1637-8, about thirty persons of Boston went out on a fair day to Spectacle Island to cut wood, the town being in great want thereof. The next night the wind rose very high at the northeast, with snow, and afterwards at the northwest for two days, and it was so cold that the harbor was frozen over, except a small channel. These thirty adventurers met with hard luck, for of their number twelve could get no farther home than the Governor's Island, seven were carried in the ice in a small skiff through Broad Sound to the Brewsters, where they had to stay two days without food and fire, and get home by the way of Pulling Point, and many of the others, after detention, had their limbs frozen, and one of them died."

"In 1649 the town began to take measures for granting the land at the island to planters for perpetuity, reserving the exaction of a small annual rent of about sixpence an acre for the benefit of the free school; and on the 19th of April of that vear, ten persons 'bind themselves and their successors to pay sixpence an acre p' yeare for their land at Spectacle Iland, forever to youse of the schole, y' soe it may be proprietye to them for euer, and they are to bring in their pay to the townes treasurer the first day of February for eu'r or else there land is forfeit into the townes dispossing.' These persons did not pay their rent as promptly as they should, and some of them conveyed their rights to others, insomuch that there were large arrearages due; therefore an order was passed in town meeting, in 1655, of a compulsory character, and the treasurer was authorized to levy and collect by help of the constable. It was not, however, until the 11th of March, 1666-7, that the town relinquished all its right in the island to the planters. This it did at that time, and made void the agreement about the annual rent of sixpence an acre for the benefit of the school, on condition that the back rent should be paid up in full to that date. This was undoubtedly done; for just previous to this last date, Mr. Thomas Bill, a lighterman, began to purchase up the rights of the several owners; and when he had acquired nearly the whole island he sold his thirty-five acres of it, on the 25th of January, 1680-1, to his son Samuel Bill, a butcher, who had previously purchased five acres of Mr. John Salter (part of his inheritance from his father William, a mariner), and also other parts of several persons."

It will be seen hereafter, when we come to speak of this Samuel, the son of Thomas Bill, that he by subsequent purchases acquired the whole of this island, and that it remained for more than three-quarters of a century in the possession of the Bill family.

'The fears of an invasion of the colony by the Dutch, in consequence of a war with England, says Drake, may have given rise to the stupendous project for fortifying the town of Boston. A circular wall was ordered to be erected, extending from one extremity of the cove to the other; or, its terminations were the Sconce, at the point now occupied by India wharf on the south, and Captain Scarlett's wharf, at the foot of Fleet Street, on the north. Its length was considered to be about 2,200 feet.

It was at first proposed that the work should be done at the expense of the town; but at a town meeting held on the 5th September, 1672, a vote could not be obtained to authorize it. The town, however, instructed the Selectmen, that if they could dispose of the Flats to be included by the contemplated wall or wharf, so as to meet the expense of it, they had liberty to proceed with the work. It was to be twenty-two feet wide at the bottom, and twenty at the top, "to be convenient for a breastwork to play guns on," and was to be about fifteen feet in height. The circular line to be built upon was to touch the channel at the nearest point before the town, and between the wall and the seaward extremities of the wharves built and to be built, with one hundred feet space left for vessels.

As great as this undertaking was in its day, it was commenced with spirit, and successfully completed in due time.

Forty-one persons undertook the work, which was let out in lots of from twenty to one hundred and twenty feet. Thomas Bill was one of the parties who contracted to build a portion of this sea-wall, having engaged to construct twenty-two and a half feet of it.*

1685. Dec. 14. Thomas Bill of Boston, Innholder, and Abigal his wife, for £15 14s. 6d., mortgage to Joseph Lynde of Charlestown, malster, his house and land in Boston, measuring in front 40 feet on the N. E. side of the street [Prince Street] that leadeth from the North Meeting House [in North Square] to centre Haven, and thence backward N. E. and by E. 60 feet.—(Suff. Deeds, Lib. 13: 406.)

1686. April 13. This Thomas and his wife sell to John Goffe of Boston a house and lot at the northerly end of Boston; size, 54 by 60 feet.—(Ibid., 13: 476.)

Thomas Bill died in Boston, October 29, 1696. He is presumed to have been buried on Copps Hill, though his gravestone is not found by Wyman, who made a thorough search.

His will is dated October 2, 1696, and was proved January 27, 1696-7. In it he calls himself "planter," and appoints his eldest son, Samuel, executor. After his debts are paid, he gives to his wife Abigal (she died on November 7, following) all his housing and land in Boston, and all other of his estate whatsoever, during her natural life, with full power to sell and dispose of the same, if she have need. To sons Samuel and Benjamin, and daughter Susanna Crawford, wife of Mungo Crawford, he gives, after his wife's decease, all the front part of the house he, the testator, dwells in, with the land thereto belonging. To his son Jacob he gives the back end of said house, being the northerly part, now occupied by Richard Barnard; but not till after his wife's decease. Thomas Bill, the testator, affixes his mark to the will; which is witnessed by F--d Martyn, John M. Barbor, and Richard Barnard.—(Suff. Prob. 11: 250.)

The inventory of his estate is dated March 7, 1697-8. The total amount of which was £193 2s, 6d.

His children were—by first wife, Elizabeth—

- 14 † Samuel, b. 165-; m. Elizabeth (---)
- 15 Sargent, b. Feb. 26, 1657-8: probably d. young. By second wife, Abigal:
- 16 Sarah, b. Sept. 28, 1659. Not mentioned in the will.
- 17 Mary, b. Aug. 15, 1661. " " "
- 18 James, b. Dec. 24, 1662–3. " " "
- 20 Susanna,<sup>3</sup> b. March 18, 1665-6; m. Mungo Crawford, a Scotsman. They had Mary (Crawford), m. Stephen Paine, also James (Crawford), b. April 26, 1690; d. young. She d. near 1713.
- 21 Michael, b. Dec. 27, 1667. Not named in will.
- 22 † Jacob, b. Oct. 21, 1669; Theodosia ———
- 23 † Benjamin, b. near 1674; m. ———

Those not named in the will of the father are supposed to have died prior to his death. The son Thomas, above, is questioned whether he was or was not a son of this Thomas Bill.

We now come to Philip, the first of the family who moved to Connecticut; settling in that portion of the town of New London that lay east of the Thames River, and which, in 1705, was set off, receiving the name of Groton. It is chiefly with the descendants of this Philip that we shall have to deal when we reach the fourth generation. More than nine-tenths of all those now living have descended from him. It is remarkable to note the "current of events," as relating to our family. While the descendants of Philip have become numerous and widespread, being found in most of the States of the Union, and all the British Provinces in North America (we even find one of his descendants comfortably settled in far-off Australia—Edward Manning Bill); the descendants of the preceding James and Thomas, his brothers, have become nearly extinct.

4.

PHILIP BILL, 2 (John 1) as stated in the preceding pages, is believed to be a son of John and Dorothy Bill and brother . of James<sup>2</sup> and Thomas<sup>2</sup> of Boston. He was born in England about 1620, and is a supposed grandson of the King's Printer mentioned in the last portion of the chapter on our English ancestors. There is no record at the Rolls Office in Chancery Lane, London, of his departure in any of the vessels bound to America, nor do we find there, either, any record of the emigration of his father and mother, or of James and Thomas; yet all these persons were born in England, and did emigrate to New England, as their names and the names of their deseendants are found all along the pages of municipal and legislative history of those early years, forming no small portion of the honorable record of that population which had been driven by persecution and stress of circumstances to buffet "the wild waste of waters," and seek a home in this then wilderness, of stern and desolate character, where naught but great physical energy and endurance could fight off famine, and unceasing watchfulness protect them from midnight assassination and slaughter at the hands of those brutal and treacherous red men, who were ever flitting along the outskirts of the opening forest, waiting and watching their opportunity. These privations and hardships were his, and he was taught them in the impressive period of his youth-for though he was born in England, yet he was but a lad at the time of his arrival in America, and we can truly claim him as one having been educated in this country, and moulded to encounter the trials attendant on a pioneer life, and such a pioneer life too as we, who now bear a part on the stage of action, have little conception of.

But to return: we first find Philip at Pulling Point, then forming a portion of Boston, though it is more than likely he for the first few years was with his mother Dorothy in Boston proper; and he must have been referred to when Richard Tuttle (his presumed uncle) became responsible to the town for the widow Dorothy, and "for any thing about her." After his brother James, who was several years his senior, and a man grown, made his first purchase of land at Pulling Point, and settled there, Philip must have followed, for we find him in 1660 a debtor to the estate of William Burnell of that place, a friend and neighbor of James, and probably of Philip. He must have removed to Ipswich soon after, for we have from the Court files of that place ample evidence in the succeeding documents appended below.

1663. May 11. Philip Fowler, Sen., of Ipswich, puts into the hands of Philip Bill two young heifers for seven years. Philip Bill is * * * * * * * and at the end of the time he is to deliver up to Fowler one-half the profit of the calves. He is to be as careful of said heifers and of their increase as if they were his own. If through God's providence any accident happen to said heifers or their increase, he is to deliver half the stock alive.

(Signed) By the mark of Philip Bill.

After a residence of a few years in Ipswich he must have for some reason become dissatisfied, as he left there about the last of the year 1667 or early in 1668. Miss Caulkins, in her history of New London, places him among the arrivals in that town at "about 1668."* The next document we append would, from its date, indicate the time of his departure from Ipswich.

Mr. Fowler, who had placed cattle in his keeping, learning of his proposed removal to Connecticut, and feeling insecure, had this attachment issued, a true copy of which is here given:

To the Marshall of Ipswich or his Deputy. You are required in his maiestyes name to attach the goods or body of Philip Bill & take bond of him to the value of Twenty pounds with sufficient suretyes for his appearance the next court to be holden at Salem the last teusday of this month then and there to answer the complaint of Phillip ffowler Sen. in an action of the case of security for a peell of eattell he hath of his in his hands (he being goeing out of this jurisdietion) that they may be delivered unto the sayd ffowler according to contract & soe make a true return thereof under your hand. Dated the 3 of November 1668.

ROBERT LORD, marshall:

By the Court

Philip Bill meanwhile left Ipswieh with his family, and went to Pulling Point, where he remained some months, visiting his brother James, and making needful arrangements before leaving for New London. This fact is ascertained from a paper dated November 3, 1668, in the Court Files, which paper is a power of attorney from Philip Fowler to his "Grandchild Phillip ffowler" of Pulling Point, empowering him to effect a settlement with Philip Bill, who was, as we have said, sojourning there at about this date.

John Winthrop, the younger, a resident of Ipswich, who had had a grant of land confirmed to him in the Pequot country (New London) of several miles in extent, removed thence and made it his home. This land was granted him with the view and hope that a settlement might be established there under his auspices, and trade opened up along that portion of the coast; having this in view, he made several visits to Ipswich and Boston, and was undoubtedly instrumental in the removal of Philip Bill and his family to "Pequot, on the Little Fresh River."* They certainly were well acquainted, as they had been neighbors at Ipswich.

Philip Bill settled on the east side of the Thames River, in that portion of the township of New London that in 1705 was incorporated as the town of Groton. This name had been previously given by Winthrop, in honor of his birthplace in England, to his tract or "plantation"—lying east of the Thames, and between it and the Poqunnoc River—extending from the seashore back about three miles northward, being all included in the present town of Groton.

Miss Caulkins says: Philip Bill settled near Robert Allyn and George Geer, which is believed by the writer to have been at or near Allyn's Point, the present terminus of the Norwich and Worcester Railroad. It is presumed that Robert Allyn's house was not far distant, and that this point of land on the Thames formed a portion of his farm, hence its name.

At the May session of the State Legislature, in 1836, the town of Grote, on the petition of the inhabitants of the North Society, so called, was, after a somewhat protracted contest, divided, the South half retaining the old name, while the North half received the name of Ledyard, in perpetuation of the name of Col. William Ledyard, who made so gallant a defense at Fort Griswold, on Groton Heights, and who, after having been overpowered by superior forces and surrendered, was brutally murdered, with others of his command, on the 6th September, 1781. These forces of Great Britain were under the supervisory command of the traitor Arnold.

Philip Bill became possessed of considerable real estate, prior to his decease. This we learn from an agreement of boundaries, dated July 14, 1676. (New London Deeds, 4:64.)

1677. Oct. 20, he sells to Richard Lord 100 acres of land. (Ibid., 5:32.) He also, by will, devised landed property to his children, as we learn from a mortgage given by his son, Joshua, in 1707.

A large portion of the old records of New London was burnt, with the town, by Arnold, in 1781. But for this, we should undoubtedly be able to greatly enlarge this interesting period in the family history.

No will of Philip has been found, though diligent searches have been made by the writer and others. He died July 8, 1689, of a fatal throat distemper, which prevailed that summer.* His daughter, Margaret, died the same day, of the same disease. His widow, Hannah, afterwards married Samuel Bucknall or Buckland, of New London, and died in 1709.

The children of Philip and Hannah Bill were:

† In the Mass. Hist. Coll., published in 1865, a memorandum of Gov. John Winthrop, of Conn., is published as having been made by him in 1676, while in Boston, on the back of a letter, as follows: "Mary Bill, 14 y. at red lyon, 4 gs. & 2 gs. ddd." Mr. Vinton says this must mean she was 14 years old, and that Winthrop had delivered her four guineas and two guineas, with which to buy goods or pay expenses, and gives this solution, that this girl, Mary Bill, was his neighbor, Philip Bill's daughter, of Groton. We might add that this money was undoubtedly delivered at the request of her father, and not unlikely he sent this money for her, per the hands of Governor Winthrop.

THIRD GENERATION.

7.

MARY BILL<sup>3</sup> (James, <sup>2</sup> John<sup>1</sup>), eldest child of James and Mary Bill, of Pulling Point: b. about 1645: m. John Smith of Boston. He died September 21, 1706, aged 85, and was buried in North Chelsea. He was considerably her senior, and it may be that she was his second wife.

They had children in 1676, as a deed dated August 4 of that year shows: in which, for the love of and affection he bears to his wife Mary Smith and his children, by her he conveys to his father-in-law, James Bill, Sen., of Pulling Point, his house, &c., &c. (Suff. Deeds, 16: 230.) The name of only one child is learned, viz.:

32 Jeremiah (Smith), b. May 29, 1665.

HANNAH BILL<sup>3</sup> (James, John<sup>1</sup>), second child of James and Mary Bill, and a sister of the above: b. near 1647: m. John Kent of Charlestown. She died January 9, 1690-1. He m. for second wife Sarah Smith of same place, December 22, 1692.

The children of Hannah Bill and John Kent were:

- 33 Hannah (Kent), b. July 2, 1667.
- 34 Mary (Kent), b. February 3, 1669-70. Must have d. young.
- 35 Joshua (Kent), b. June 15, 1672. Must have d. young.

- 40 Lydia (Kent), b. July 5, 1683.
- 41 Mary (Kent), b. May 12, 1686.
- 42 Susanna (Kent), b. August 13, 1689.

JAMES BILL' (James, John'), eldest son of James and Mary Bill, of Pulling Point, b. November 23, 1651: m. Mehit-Able ———.

We find the following public records relating to him: the first is the indenture, dated February 28, 1671-2, which has been given. The next bears date 1685, April 27, in which Samuel Sewall,* Esquire, of Boston, and Hannah, his wife, for £300, sell to James Bill, Junior, Jonathan Bill, and Joseph Bill, of Pulling Point, yeomen, their farm at Rumney Marsh,† containing 130 acres. (Suff. Deeds, 13: 307, 308.)

The next is his father's will.

1689. Oct. 22. James Bill and Mehitable, his wife, Jonathan Bill and Frances, his wife, Joseph Bill and Deliverance, his wife, all of Pullen Point, for £357, sell to Thomas Cheever, of Rumney Marsh (their brother-in-law), all their farme, messuage, or tenement, in Rumney Marsh, containing 120 acres, at present occupied by said Thomas Cheever, being the same that was conveyed to said James, Jonathan, and Joseph, by Samuel Sewall, of Boston, as per the date above.—(Ibid. 15: 2, 3, 4.)

There are several other deeds showing purchases and sales of real estate, both of Boston proper, and at Pullen Point, where James and his brothers acquired the estate of Hutchinson, for £440.

The following is a document that shows an equal division of all the lands owned jointly by these brothers. It will be found quite an interesting paper, and we give it in full:

To all Christian People, James Bill, Jonathan Bill and Joseph Bill, Sendeth Greeting. Know yee, That wee the s<sup>d</sup> James Bill, Jonathan Bill & Joseph Bill all of Boston in the Massachusets Colony in New England sons to James Bill our honoured ffather of Boston aforesaid Deceased wee haveing purchased all the Lands our s<sup>d</sup> ffather was possessed of in the bounds of Boston at a place comouly called Pullin

James Bill Jonathan Bill and Joseph Bill personally appeared the tenth of July 1691 and acknowledged this Instrument to be their volentary act and deed

JOSEPH WEBB cler.

Entered April 15. 1603.

(Suff. Deeds, vol. xvi. 59, 60.)

In the tax-list for 1687, we find that James Bill, Junior, is assessed for 30 acres arable land, 120 acres of pasture land, 2 oxen, 4 bulls and cows of four years old, 5 heifers and steers between three and four years old: 3 likewise between two and three years, also 2 between one and two years, 2 horses or mares of three years old and upwards, 3 swine above one year, 5 buildings. His tax was 10s. 6d.

In 1693 and 1694 we find records of sale, also the purchase of real estate, in Boston, of considerable value, by this James. He was admitted a member of the Second Church, in Boston, Dr. Increase Mather's, January 16, 1676-7. His wife was admitted February 23, 1676-7.

James Bill (Junior) died in the winter of 1717-18, aged 66. His widow was living in April, 1721.—(Suff. Deeds, 37: 17.)

An abstract of his will is appended below. It bears date Jan. 6, 1717-18; and was proved Feb. 25 of the same year. ----- I give to my wife Mehitable, the thirds of my personal and real estate during her natural life. I give to my daughters, Mehitable Bill and Rebecca Saunders, all my real and personal estate after my wife's thirds are taken out; and they are to pay my debts and the legacies hereinafter mentioned. To my daughter Hannah Essex I give five pounds, to be paid her at my decease, which with £61, formerly given her, shall be her portion; and this I do for good reasons best known to myself. To my granddaughter, Mary Hurst, I give £150, to be paid within one year after my decease, if she be then eighteen years of age; if she die before eighteen her legacy shall go to my said daughters Mehitable Bill and Rebecca Saunders, whom I make my executors of this my will. I request my brothers, Jonathan Bill and Joseph Bill, also Deacon Baker, Joseph Belcher and Joshua Cheever, to be overseers of this my will, to see it executed. (Suff. Prob., 20:135.)

Joseph Belcher was the husband of Hannah Bill, daughter of Jonathan Bill; and Joshua Cheever, also named in the will was the son of the testator's sister, Sarah Bill, who married the Rev. Thomas Cheever.

The children of James and Mehitable Bill were:

- 43 James, 4 b. Nov. 23, 1672.
- 44 † Mehitable, b. - 167-; m. (1) Thomas Selby. (2) William Burgis.
- 45 † Rebecca, b. near 1679; m. (1) Samuel Saunders. (2) John Tenny.
- 46 † Mary, b. Oct. 10, 1682; m. Henry Hirst-[Hurst.]
- 47 Bethiah, b. May 6, 1684.
- 48 † Hannah, b. Sept. 27, 1687; m. (1) Joseph Essex. (2) Ferdinando Bood.
- 49 † Abigal, b. near 1690; m. (1) Thomas Badaley. (2) North Ingham.

10.

He resided at the North End of Boston, where he carried on the business of a butcher, but prior to his father's death removed to Pulling Point, where it has been shown, in a division of property among himself and brothers, he had 200 acres. In addition to this real estate he owned house-lots in Boston, and, indeed, erected a house on a piece of property he bought of John Paine, merchant, at the North End, fronting on the street leading from the North Meeting towards Merries' Point and adjoining lands of Samuel Burnell, being 28 feet in front and running back 33 feet. The price paid was £82 10. This was in 1674–5, Feb. 4. (Suff. Deeds, 9: 312.)

1682, Dec. 19. Wait Still Winthrop, of Boston, and his wife Mary, for £60, sell to Jonathan Bill a piece of land adjoining the house and lot of said Jonathan Bill, described above. This Mr. Winthrop was a son of Gov. John Winthrop of Conn., and a direct ancestor of the present Rob. C. Winthrop, of Boston.

Lieut. Jonathan Bill is called a "yeoman" of Boston in 1692-3, in a deed of land given by him. His removal, as we have named, to Pulling Point, severed his interests at Boston greatly, for we find him disposing of most of his real estate at that place. In 1720 he and his wife sell to Joshua Bill 30 acres of land at Pullen Point (within the precincts of Boston), receiving therefor £300.

1720. "Lieut. Jonathan Bill, of Pullen Point," and wife, sell 15 acres of land, at Pullen Point, to their son Jonathan Bill, Junior, of the same place, for the sum of £105.

1728, Sept. 29. He sells to the same son two pieces of land for £100, "in current bills of Public Credit, of the Province of Massach" Bay." They are described as follows in Suff. Deeds, 42: 291, namely: These "two pieces of land—one of upland, the other of marsh—the upland piece lying in my farm on Pullen Point, contains six acres and lies on the southerly side of the 19 acres that I sold to my said son before and southeasterly on the land that was my brother Joseph Bill's land, &c. ----- The marsh piece is four acres, that lieth by hog Island* over against Olivia's Cove, it being that four acres that was my father Bill's about seventy years agone and hath been enjoyed by my father and myself ever since. ---- It is bounded by two creeks." ---- (Suff. Deeds, 42: 291.) This document bears date Sept. 29, 1728.

His will is dated Sept. 30: 1728, and proved May 5, 1729. Being sound in mind but weak in body. ----- I give to my loving wife Frances, one third of my estate, or in lieu thereof £26 yearly, during the term of her natural life. My wife to have a room in the house at Boston, or at Pullen Point, to live in, as she shall choose. After her decease, the household furniture to be divided among my three daughters, Martha, Hannah, and Mary. I give to my son Jonathan and his heirs the northerly half of my farm at Pullen Point, with all the buildings thereon. To my son Joshua and his heirs, I give the other half, except 25 acres formerly sold to pay Joshua's debts. To my daughters, Martha Giles and Mary Waite, I give my house and land in Boston, to be equally divided between them. † These two daughters shall pay fifteen pounds apiece to the daughter of my son William when she comes to the age of eighteen, or is married, which [ever] shall first happen. To my daughter Hannah Belcher, six score pounds shall be paid by my sons Jonathan and Joshua; the first to pay £80 the other £40. To my grandchildren, Jonathan Belcher and Sarah Belcher, I give five pounds each, when they come to full age. There shall be a way for each of my sons through the land of the others, to the Boat-place. I give my negro men to my sons. If they be discontented, they shall have liberty to choose their master. My wife Frances, and sons Jonathan and Joshua, to be my Executors.

Witnesses—John Center, Jonah Nutting, Jacob Cole and [Rev.] Thomas Cheever. (Suff. Prob. 27: 82.)

He died April 18, 1729, aged 76, and was buried in Chelsea. His widow Frances died Feb. 26, 1736-7, aged 86. She was buried in the King's Chapel Burying-ground, in the city of Boston, adjoining the church of that name that stands near the "Common." It is presumed from the fact of her being buried there, away from her husband, that she removed from Pulling Point and lived with her daughters in the house given them by the will of their father.

The children of Jonathan and Frances were:

- 50 † Hannah, b. about 1676; m. Joseph Belcher.
- 51 † Martha, b. about 1678; m. Thomas Giles.
- 52 † Jonathan, b. ——— 1680; m. Ann Allen.
- 54 † Joshua, b. ——— 168-; m. Sarah Burnham.
- 55 William, b. May 17, 1687; d. young.
- 56 † William, b. Apr. 7, 1690; m. Susanna Whitteredge.

SARAH BILL<sup>3</sup> (James, John<sup>1</sup>), sister of the preceding Jonathan; b. 1658; m. 168-, Rev. Thomas Cheever of [Boston]. He was born in Ipswich, August 26, 1658, a son of the famous Ezekiel Cheever.

Rev. Thomas Cheever* graduated at Howard College in 1677; began to preach at Malden, February 14, 1679-80; was ordained pastor there, July 27, 1681. Some charges, in reference to some imprudent acts or expressions, and not affecting his moral character, an Ecclesiastical Council, of which Dr. Increase Mather was moderator, was called in 1685 to examine them, and he was dismissed April 8, 1686. His dismission, however, was less in pursuance of these charges, than from a desire on the part of the people of Malden to be again under the pastoral care of their former minister, Rev. Michael Wigglesworth—author of the poem entitled "The Day of Doom," and father of the first Professor of Divinity at Harvard College. Mr. Wigglesworth accordingly resumed his labors there in 1686, and continued them till his death, which occurred June 10, 1705. Mr. Cheever appears not to have lost the confidence of the community. He retired to Rumney Marsh, now part of Chelsea, near the residence of his wife's father, purchased a farm there of his wife's brothers, October 22, 1689, and resided there till his death. He appears to have been engaged in the labors of the ministry to a greater or less extent for many years previous to his installation there. He was installed pastor of the First Church in Chelsea, October 19, 1715; on which occasion he himself preached from 1 Cor. iii. 7-as was then often, if not commonly done. Rev. Richard Brown of [South] Reading prayed, Dr. Cotton Mather, or Boston, gave the charge, Rev. Jeremiah Shepard, of Lynn, gave the Right Hand of Fellowship, Mr. Cheever pronounced the Benediction. He continued pastor of the church in Chelsea 34 years, viz.: till his death, which occurred November 27, 1749, aged 91. Seventy years wanting only three months elapsed between the beginning and close of his ministry. His marriage with Sarah Bill, his first wife, and the mother of all his children, as believed, occurred prior to 1685. died January 30, 1704-5, aged 47.

He married for his second wife Elizabeth Warren, July 30, 1707: after her decease he married Abigal Jarvis.

The children of Rev. Thomas and Sarah (Bill) Cheever were:

- 57 Thomas (Cheever), b. —; he m. (1) Mary Boardman. (2) Mary Baker.
- 58 Sarah (Cheever), b. —; m. Thomas Kendall.
- Joshua (Cheever), b. January 6, 1687; m. (1) Sarah Warren. (2) Widow Sarah Jenkins.
- 60 Abigal (Cheever), b. May 20, 1690; m. John Burt.
- 61 Ezekiel (Cheever), b. March 7, 1691-2; m. Elizabeth Jenner.
- 62 Nathan (Cheever), b. March 16, 1694-5; m. (1) Hannah Brooks. (2) Anna Fuller.

12.

JOSEPH BILL<sup>2</sup> (James<sup>2</sup>, John<sup>1</sup>), son of James and Mary Bill, and a brother of the foregoing Sarah Cheever, was born near 1660, and m. (1) Lydia ———. (2) Deliverance Wakefield, of Boston, between the years 1687 and 1689.

This Joseph resided at Pulling Point, which, as we have seen, was the central settlement of the Bill family at this period. He continued there during life.

He was the owner of considerable real estate, and by occupation was a farmer. His name has appeared in some of the previous documents given, and we find him in 1698 buying a "brick house" in Boston, on the street leading to Scarlett's wharf [now East Boston Ferry], for which he paid £520.

Nearly all of these brothers, sons of James<sup>2</sup> and Mary Bill, not only had noble farms, but each seemed to have had at least one or more pieces of property in Boston proper. This seems to us evidence of their general thrift and prosperity.

His will bears date the 31st of January, 1717-18; proved February 25, 1717-18. In it he names his four sons, Joseph, John, Josiah, and Jeremiah, to whom he gives all his real estate at Pulling Point and at Boston, also all his farming implements, &c., to be equally divided. "My son Hezekiah is to be brought up out of the estate till fit to be put to a trade, and is to be taught to write and eypher." I give him £300 to be paid him at 21. Anna is to receive six score pounds within three years, thirty of which is to be paid at her marriage. To his daughter Esther, £100, one-fourth at once and the balance in three years. To his daughter Sarah, six score pounds, one-half at her marriage, balance in three years. To my grandchildren, Joseph Rouse and William Rouse, £5 each, when they come out of their apprenticeship. To my son Joseph Bill I give my Silver tankard and my cane. My household furniture, including my silver cups, spoons, and my rings, to be divided among my children. My negroes to have the liberty of choosing their masters. Tom's master shall allow for him £40; Titus' master shall allow for him £50, and for the negro woman £20. My son Hezekiah and my three daughters to be put in mourning out of my estate. His four eldest sons were made his Executors. (Suff. Prob. 20: 134.)

For the Inventory of his estate, see Suff. Prob. 21: 251.

We give the following as a relict of "y olden time:"

We Jeremiah Bill of Pullen Point, husbandman, Thomas Smith of Boston, sawyer, and Anna [Bill] his wife, Esther [Bill] Goodwin and Sarah [Bill] Ingram, widows, and Hezekiah Bill of Boston, boat-builder, the only [surviving] children and heirs of Joseph Bill, late of Pullen Point, deceased, in consideration that Titus, negro man, and late servant of said deceased, hath faithfully served him all such time as he was his servant, and that he hath desired to be manumitted, do by these presents the said Titus manumit and set at liberty and free from all and every claim, matter, or thing, that we or either of us, our heirs, &c., have on said Titus from the beginning of the world unto the date hereof, the 17th day of January, 1726.

This "free paper" of Titus was signed by the several parties named, and in the presence of six witnesses.

The Tax List for 1687 (thirty years prior to his decease) shows a list of the taxable property of Joseph Bill. It may be found at the State House, Boston.

He died February —, 1717-18. His wife Deliverance died 16th March, 1712-13.

The children by first wife were:

- 63 † Lydia, b. 168-; m. William Rouse.
- 64 † Joseph, b. Aug. 26, 1687; m. (1) Mary Kilemp. (2) Rebecca Pepper.

By second wife:

- 67 † Josiah, b. near 1696; m. his cousin Mary Hirst [Hurst].
- 68 Esther, b. ——; m. John Goodwin.
- 69 † Jeremiah, b. ----; m. Hannah Foote.

70 Sarah, 4 ————; m. Henry Ingram, Oct. 10, 1718. 71 † Hezekiah, 4 b. ——————————; m. Hannah Brown.

14.

Samuel Bill<sup>3</sup> (Thomas, John<sup>1</sup>), son of Thomas and Elizabeth (Sargent) Bill, of Boston; b. near 1654; and married ELIZABETH (Welsted?).

He resided in Boston proper, and followed the business of a "butcher." He lived in Black Horse Lane, in the house that was his father's.

We have seen in the account of his father, Thomas,<sup>2</sup> that he disposed to Samuel of a large part of Spectacle Island, situate in the harbor of Boston.

The records show that in 1680, Samuel Bill commenced to buy up all the remaining interests held in this island, and by 1681, having expended £177, he had acquired a title to the whole.

This island now took the name of "Samuel Bill's Island," and was so called in 1693 (Drake's Hist. Boston, p. 817). It was at this period covered with heavy timber, and was valuable for its nearness to market. Whether it was ever used by the then owner as a place to herd and fatten cattle for market we know not, yet it may have been, since his trade would give color to such a supposition.

There arose, prior to the last above-named period, great uneasiness among the people of the colony as to their titles; whether from any action on the part of the mother-country, or from new colonists coming forward, we know not; but certain it is that in 1684-5 Mr. Samuel Bill saw fit to clinch his title by securing from a big Indian (so called!) a confirmatory one. This course was pursued by others, whether absolutely necessary or not, with a view doubtless to prevent any further black-mailing by these wandering claimants, whether white, black, or red. We herewith append a copy of said deed.

To all Christian People to whom these presents shall come. Josian, son and Heyer of Josiah otherwise called Wamputuck, late Sachem of the Massachusets Country in New England Sendeth Greeting:—

Know ye that I the said Josiah, son of Josiah, for diverse causes and good considerations me thereunto moving and in particular for and in consideration of a valuable consideration of money to me in hand payd before the ensealing of this deed by Samuel Bill of Boston Butcher, HAVE with knowledge and consent of my wise men and Councellors William Ahoton, Sen, William Ahoton, Jun, and Robert Mamentaug, Given, granted, sold, enfeoffed, and confirmed, and by these presents Do fully freely and absolutely give grant, sell, enfeoffe, convey and confirme unto the sayed Samuel Bill his heyres and Assignes forever one certain Island Scituate in the Massachusetts Bay commonly known and called by the name of Spectacle Island in the present possession the same Bill with all rights priveledges and appurtenances, thereunto in any wise appertaining and belonging. To have and to hold the same and every part and parcel thereof unto him the said Samuel Bill his Heyers and Assigns to his and their sole use and benefit in firm and indefeasible estate of inheritance in fee simple forever. - And the said Josiah for himself his heyers Executors Administrators and successors doth hereby covenant and promise to and with the said Samuel Bill his heyers and Assigns that at the time of the ensealing and delivery of these presents that (according to Indian right and title) he is the sole owner and proprietor of the said Island and hath full power and authority to sell and convey the same as abovesayd and that the sayd bargained Island with all its priveledges, rights, and appurtenances belonging, will and doth unto the sayd Samuel Bill his heyers and Assigns forever sufficiently warrant and defend against himself his heyers and successors and against all and every other person whomsoever having, claiming or pretending to have or claim any Indian right, title or interest in or to the same or any part or parcel thereof.

In witnesse whereof the said Josiah and his councellors above sayd have hereunto put their hands and seals this thirtieth day of April in the year one thousand six hundred eighty-four.

EXPERIENCE FFISHER

Josiah, Indian Sachem, and his Councellors acknowledged this to be their Act and Deed, May 1st 1684 before me

WILLIAM STOUGHTON (Suff. Deeds, 13: 172, 173.)

How long before the next red or white Indian came along willing, for a "valuable consideration," to "give grant and enfeoffe" unto Samuel Bill or "any other man," is not recorded, and we presume that the above was the end of that business. We at this day can but faintly imagine the constant hot water the early settlers were kept in from various eauses, and not among the least of these was that satrap of English impertinence and power—Andros, who early won and constantly maintained the hearty disgust of all upright and right-thinking citizens.

Dr. N. B. Shurtliff, of Boston, says, in his article on the Islands of Boston Harbor, before referred to, that Mr. Samuel Bill remained in full possession of Spectacle Island until his decease, on the 18th of August, 1705, when it fell to his widow Elizabeth, by a provision of his will, which provided that she should enjoy the benefits of it during her widowhood, and at her decease it should go to his son Samuel. Mr. Bill also provided that, in case of the marriage of his widow, she should retain only her thirds in the real estate left by him. Mrs. Bill chose the latter alternative, and on the 22d of March, 1705–6, married Mr. Eleazer Phillips of Charlestown. In consequence of this marriage, the estate of Mr. Bill was amicably divided, and two-thirds of Spectacle Island, as well as two-thirds of the seventy-six sheep and two cows, and the whole of two negro men, a boat, one old mare, and the family hog, together with sundry tools, were apportioned to Mr. Samuel Bill, the heir apparent, the whole value of his portion, amounting to £444 18s. 8d. In the course of events, Mr. Phillips and his wife died, and the title became vested in Mr. Samuel Bill, his son, in accordance with the will of his father.

Samuel Bill's will bears date Aug. 13, 1705, and was proved Sept. 20, 1705.

Below is given an abstract of his will.

He gives to his wife Elizabeth the use of all his real estate as long as she shall remain his widow, but should she marry, then the use of only one-third part. To my son Samuel Bill, &c., I give all my island known as Spectacle Island (in the various deeds), and all my stock of cattle upon it, he paying to my son Richard Bill six pounds a year out of the income thereof, during his natural life. To Samuel he also gives two negro men. To Richard he gives his house and garden in Black Horse Lane, in Boston, "which was my father's," and also £200 current money, when he finishes his apprenticeship.

After the payments of debts, &c., the remainder shall be equally divided between his two sons, Samuel and Richard.

The Executors were his son Samuel and William Welstead, to the latter of whom he gave five pounds.

The witnesses were [Doctor] Oliver Noyes, Robert Staples, and John Vallentine. (Suff. Prob. 16: 46.)

After the marriage of the widow to Eleazer Phillips, which occurred before the settlement of the estate, we find that, at the adjustment of the same as provided for in the will, there appears in addition to the amount of the above inventory the sum of £194 29s., as being due said estate from one Capt. Thomas Savage.

The children of Samuel and Elizabeth Bill were:

72 † Samuel, b. Sept. 22, 1683; m. Sarah Shapley.

22.

JACOB BILL<sup>3</sup> (Thomas, John<sup>1</sup>), son of Thomas and Abigal (Willis) Bill, b. in Boston, Oct. 3, 1669, and married Theodosia——.

He resided in Black Horse Lane, Boston; was a mariner by profession. His wife was member of the Second Church, where he also attended. There is very little found relating to him in any of the public records, and that is not much more than we could expect, since his life was a seafaring one. His inventory, to be found in the Probate Records, shows the following:

House and land in Boston					£70
A negro man, "Cuffee".					£35
Other property					£36 9.
Total					£141 9.

He died about 1705, and left no will. His widow afterwards married one "John Ellett [Eliot] of Gt. Brittaine."

Children of Jacob and Theodosia Bill were:

- 74 † Thomas<sup>4</sup>, b. March 30, 1693; m. Ruth Belcher.
- 75 Abigal', b. April 11, 1697.
- 76 Susanna<sup>4</sup>, b. Aug. 7, 1700; m. (1) Thomas Mellen. (2) James Peraway.

23.

BENJAMIN BILL<sup>3</sup> (Thomas, John<sup>1</sup>), youngest son of Thomas and Abigal (Willis) Bill, b. in Boston about 1674 and married———.

He was early apprenticed to a Dea. Robert Cumbery, a cooper, of Boston, and it is supposed that in consequence of dissatisfaction he left the colony, removing to New York. His father's will, dated 1696, mentions him, and after this he disappears; but in our investigations we find a Benjamin Bill residing in New York City in 1695, and that he was also there in 1703, and at that period his family is represented as consisting of "one male, one female, two children, and one negress." After this we find, in the records of the Dutch Church, the names of his children, as baptized, viz.:

- 77 Abigal4, b. Nov. 13, 1695.
- 78 Benjamin', bap. June 27, 1705.
- 79 Susanna', bap. Oct. 31, 1705.
- 80 Mary4, bap. Jan. 3, 1711; m. James Jarvis, 1753.
- 81 Penelope<sup>4</sup>, bap. May 25, 1712; died in infancy.
- 82 Penelope<sup>4</sup>, bap. April 17, 1715; m. Collin Bussey, 1737.
- 83 John<sup>4</sup>, bap. Jan. 1, 1718; m. Mary Sleigh, 1743.

We learn the above facts from Valentine's N. Y. City Manual for 1863, and from a volume of Provincial marriage licenses issued by the Secretary of the Province of New York, and published under the patronage of the State, in 1865. There is also given in this latter work the following:

Lydia Bill; m. Henry Brookman, Nov. 22, 1760.

Benjamin Bill; m. Ann Smith, May 21, 1768.

Ann Bill; m. James Minott, Mch. 29, 1773.

These three persons must be of a later generation, and it is supposed they are the children of either Benjamin<sup>4</sup> or John<sup>4</sup> Bill, sons of Benjamin Bill<sup>5</sup>.

This entire family are lost to us, yet it can hardly be possible that they became extinct. The writer believes that the last named Benjamin Bill is the grandfather of Lydia (Bill) Sylvester, of Albia, Iowa, the mother of Esther Alice (Sylvester), the present wife of Edward Mitchell Bill'. The dates make it possible, and the circumstances, probable. First, Benjamin Bill, who married Ann Smith in 1768, we will suppose, had a son (Joshua is the name claimed by Mrs. Lydia (Bill) Sylvester as being her father's name) born in 1770; and that this son was Joshua, and settled after reaching manhood in or near Ontario County, New York (the place claimed as his residence). That he was married at about the age of 25, which would bring us to 1795. This is certainly reasonable. Now, Mrs. Sylvester gives the date of her own birth as being April 8, 1796. True, she claims to be the fourth child of her parents. That will not shake the conclusions arrived at in the least; for we might assume that her father, instead of being born in 1770, was born in 1769, and that instead of waiting till he was 25 before marriage, he was but 21 or 22, which is as likely as that he was 25; this would make it possible for her to have been the fourth child, but it may be she is mistaken on this point, as her parents died while she was but a child, and the family records have, in consequence of fire, become destroyed.

24.

SERGT. PHILIP BILL<sup>3</sup> (Philip, John), eldest son of Philip Bill of New London [Groton], born about 1658, at Pulling Point, in the "Town of Boston," as is supposed. He came with his father, Philip Bill, from Ipswich to Groton [New London], Ct., "about 1668." He married (1) ELIZABETH LESTER, daughter of Andrew Lester, of Groton. (2) MARY—.

We constantly experience the great loss of the ancient records of New London: in our sketches of the earlier members of the family in Connecticut, nothing scarce remains to us except disjointed and fragmentary scraps of dates and memoranda. If Arnold, cold-hearted and traitorous as he was, could have dreamed of the additional countless anathemas that were to be heaped upon his name for this wanton piece of incendiarism, by the children of that inhabitance, he surely would have hesitated before giving the order to destroy the town!

The place of residence in Groton is stated as being "near the Long Hill."

1698, November 24. Philip Bill conveys by deed to his brother Samuel Bill, lands. (Groton Town Record, 2, p. 67.)

1727, June 1. He gives a deed to his son Joseph Bill of Groton. This deed is witnessed by Thos. Bill. (Ibid. 2: 327.)

1733, December 24. Philip Bill, "in love and affection" for his son Samuel Lester, gives deed of land. (Ibid. 3:—)

1739, January 22. He deeds land to his son Thomas Bill. (Ibid. 4:192.)

The following is a very curious and certainly a very interesting paper. It is a relict of considerable antiquarian interest, and we subjoin it as found on the Groton Records.

To all people to whom these presents shall come Greeting. Know ye that I Philip Bill of Groton in the County of New London within the Colony of Connecticut Yeoman for divers good causes and consideration we thereunto moving Especially for the regard and good will I have to my beloved son Samuel Lester of the town County & Colony aforesaid have given granted confirmed & Delivered and by these present according to Due form of Law do give grant confirm & Deliver unto the s<sup>d</sup> Samuel Lester a Spanish Indian Girl of about Ten years of age called Dinah the s<sup>d</sup> Indian Girl to have & to hold to the proper use and behoof of him the s<sup>d</sup> Samuel his heirs Executors Admrs and assigns forever and I the s<sup>d</sup> Phillip Bill for myself & Executors & Admrs the s<sup>d</sup> bargained premises unto the s<sup>d</sup> Samuel Lester his Executors & Admrs & Assigns against all & all manner of persons shall Warrant & forever Defend by these presents In Witness whereof with the Delivery of s<sup>d</sup> Indian Girl I have hereunto set my hand & seal this 24 day of December one thousand seven hundred and thirty-three Phillip Bill.

In presence of

CHRIS AVRY
ROBERT ALLYN

Rec. Feb. 27 1733-4

Philip Bill must have been a man of good reputation, and possessing considerable influence. He held the office of constable, and was a Sergeant in the first company of trainbands formed in Groton. He was also ensign in 1722, and was familiarly known by his neighbors as "Sergeant Bill," and as "Ensign Bill." He was licensed February 23, 1719–20, to keep a house of public entertainment.

We find in the Patent of New London granted by the Colony, the name of Philip Bill; the date of said Patent is 1663, April 23, but it was not sanctioned until October 14, 1704. There is some reason for supposing this Philip was the elder Philip, but as he never came to New London till 1668, which was after the date of the petition, which, as we have said, was in 1663, and as the elder Philip died in 1689, before the Patent was sanctioned, we are persuaded that it is Philip the younger whose name appears in this document.

In either case, the name had to be inserted after the first date of the instrument, a copy of which we append.

Patent of New London sanctioned by the Governor and Company, 14th October, 1704.

To all persons to whom these presents shall come. The Govenor and Company of Her Majesty's Colony of Connecticut in General Court assembled send greeting:—Whereas we the said Gov<sup>r</sup> and Comp<sup>y</sup> by virtue of Letters Patent to us granted by his Royal Maj<sup>y</sup> Charles the Second of England &c. King, bearing the 23d day of April, in the 14th year of his reign, A. D. 1663, have formerly by certain acts and grants passed in Gen. Assembly given and granted to John Winthrop Esq. (Governor of Ct.) and forty-nine others—among whom appears the name of Philip Bill.

He continued to reside in Groton from 1668-9, till the close of his life. He died July 10, 1739, aged over eighty years. "The church bell (says Hempstead in his diary) tolled twice on that occasion." "We infer from this," says Miss Caulkins, "that it was customary at that day to have only a death-bell to announce decease, but no passing-bell to solemnize the funeral."

His will is dated June 22, 1739, and was proved August 2, of the same year.

In the name of God, Amen.

I Philip Bill of Groton in the County of New London, being weak of body but of sound mind and memory, and calling to remembrance my mortality, have thought fit to make this my last Will and Testament, and I do hereby make and ordain this my last will and testament revoking all others.

Imp*:—I resign my soul into the hands of God who gave it, beseeching him of his merey to receive it for the merits sake of Jesus Christ my only Saviour and Redeemer, and my body to the ground to be decently buried at the discretion of my Executors hereafter to be mentioned: and as for the temporal Estate wherewith it has pleased God to bless me (after my just debts are paid which it is my will may be done with all convenient speed) I give and bequeath as follows:—

I give and bequeath to my loveing Wife Mary Bill as and in lien of her right of Dower in my Estate the profits of the one-third part of my Real Estate during her natural life, and also the use of my Great Bible during her natural life, and I do hereby also order and enjoin my son Benjamin Bill that he find, procure and provide to and for my said loveing Wife during her natural life whatever is proper, suitable and necessary for her comfortable subsistence and well being in this world, and further it is my will that this be the whole that my said loveing Wife shall have or possess of my Estate.

ITEM—I give and bequeath to my son Philip Bill (if ever he return to this Town) Five acres of land below the steep hill to be set off near the Damm there to him and his heirs forever; but if my said son Philip nor any of his heirs (lawfully begotten of his body) never return or come to this Town of Groton, then and in such case I give and bequeath said five acres of land to my son Benjamin Bill his Heirs &c forever.

ITEM—I give to my son Joseph Bill all my wearing apparel, which is the whole of what I give him by Will he having had a portion of my Estate already given him by deed of Gift.

ITEM—I give and bequeath to my son Thomas Bill one Draft chain, and at my Wife's decease my Great Bible, which is all I give him by Will, he also having already had his portion of my Estate by deed of Gift.

Item—I give and bequeath to my son Benjamin Bill, his Heirs and assigns for ever the House and land where I now dwell in said Groton, together with the Barn & orchard thereon and appurtenances thereunto belonging and all other my lands in the Township of Groton, aforesaid and elsewhere not hereby otherwise disposed of together with all my moveable estate (not already hereby otherwise bequeathed) as my liveing Stock of Horse kind, eattle sheep and swine, together with all my farming utensils and Household goods of what name or denomination soever, and also all my stock of grain and Hay, and the crop that may be on my land at my decease, He paying the Legacies that I shall herein bequeath to my Daughters, and performing what I have hereby ordered and enjoined him in behalf of my loving wife as is above mentioned.

Item—I do give and bequeath to my loveing daughters Elizabeth Avery, Hannah Lester, and Sarah Leffingwell that is to each of them Three Pounds in money, to be paid to them by my son Benjamin Bill at my decease, this with a considerable portion already given them is their full portion in my Estate.

Lastly—I do hereby ordain and appoint my said son Benjamin Bill to be the sole Executor of this my last Will and Testament.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto Set my hand and seal this 22d day of June Anno Domini 1739.

Signed Sealed pronounced and declared by the Testator to be his last Will and Testament in presence of

27.

SAMUEL BILL<sup>3</sup> (Philip,<sup>2</sup> John<sup>1</sup>), second son of Philip Bill, of New London, born about 1665, in or near Boston, Mass., came with his father to Groton, Conn., then a part of New London, in 1669. He married for his first wife Mercy Haughton, daughter of Richard Haughton, of New London. He married for his second wife ELIZABETH———.

Samuel Bill and his first wife Mercy were admitted to the church in New London, Sept. 3, 1693. He was one of five members that composed the church in New London, who in 1700 signed the paper entitled "Complaint Against The Elder of the Church of Christ in New London." The Elder was Rev. Gurdon Saltonstall, who was pastor of the church at that time, and afterwards Governor of Connecticut. For this action all of the complaining members were suspended from the privileges of the church.

We find on the records several deeds of purchases, and of sale of land in Groton, made by this Samuel Bill; beside these there is very little left on the records relating to him, and we have found but few papers that give us any knowledge of him, or his family, except his will, which was proved Jan. 27, 1729–30, in which he gives to his wife Elizabeth his house, &c.; to his son Samuel twenty shillings; to his son Ebenezer, house, &e.; to his children, Philip, James, Joseph, John, Hannah, Merey, and Abigal, five shillings each.

His inventory amounted to about £90. [Wind. Prob. Records, Vol. 27: 159.]

His children were:

- 92 Hannah<sup>4</sup>, b. ——.
- 93 † Samuel<sup>4</sup>, b. about 1690; m. (1) Hannah ———. (2) Joanna Atwell.
- 94 † Philip<sup>4</sup>, b. about 1692; m. (1) Jane ———. (2) —————. Elizabeth ————. (3) Ruth ————.
- 95 † James4, b. about 1694; m. Mary Swodel.
- 96 A child, baptized Dec. 14, 1695.
- 97 † Ebeuezer<sup>4</sup>, b. 169-; m. Patience Ingraham.
- 98 † Joshua4, bap. June 5, 1698.
- 99 Jonathan<sup>4</sup>, bap. Sept. 8, 1700.
- 100 Mercy<sup>4</sup>, bap. Sept. 27, 1702; m. Joseph Marsh, of Lebanon, Sept. 25, 1722. Their son, Joseph Marsh, b. Jan. 12, 1727; m. Jan. 10, 1750, Dorothy Mason, who was a descendant from Maj. John Mason, the conqueror of the Pequots. Joseph and Dorothy Marsh settled in Lebanon, but in 1774, or thereabouts, they removed to Hartford, Vt. He was the first Lieut.-Governor of that State, and was also several years Judge of the County Court where he lived. He died Sept. 9, 1811. This family are the ancestors of the Hon. John P. Marsh, the distinguished scholar, and the present Minister of the U.S. at one of the European Courts.

JOHN BILL<sup>3</sup> (Philip,<sup>2</sup> John<sup>1</sup>), third son of Philip Bill, of New London; b. 1667; came with his father in 1669 to New London. He married, first, Mercy Fowler. Second, Hannah Rist [Rust], March 30, 1726. He early removed from Groton to the town of Lebanon, situated about 20 miles distant, where he seems to have spent the remainder of his life.

We find in the records of the old town of Norwich, a deed of a hundred acres of land, purchased of Joseph Elderkin of New London, being land bought by him of Captain John Mason, and forming a part of what was known as "Mason's Mile," situated in what is now the town of Lebanon.

We give herewith a copy of this deed:-

Whereas I Joseph Elderkin of Norwich in the County of New London in the Collony of Connecticut in New England, Weaver, have formerly sold one hundred acres of land which Land I have a deed for signed by Capt. John Mason of Lebanon, which land is lyeing in that (year) * * * called Masons mile, within the Township of Lebanon afforesaid, which land I sold to John Bill then of New London in the County and Colony afforesaid, and have received of s<sup>d</sup> Bill full satisfaction for the same.

This deed was a confirmatory deed of a previous one given by Mr. Elderkin. "Mason's Mile" was a tract of land in Lebanon, five miles in length and one in breadth, which was bestowed in 1695, by Owaneco, son and successor of Uncas, chief of the Mohegan Indians, on Rev. James Fitch, first minister of Norwich, and on his wife's brother, Capt. John Mason of Norwich, son of the famous Maj. John Mason, the conqueror of the Pequots. In Mr. Fitch's share of this tract was a large cedar swamp, which by the principle of association suggested to its owner the name of Lebanon for the whole township. (See Miss Caulkins' History of Norwich, page 86.)

We find Mr. John Bill was in 1712 a surveyor of highways, though we presume his ordinary occupation was that of husbandman.

There also appears several deeds of real estate granted by him and unto him from various parties, and at various dates.

He died in the early part of 1739. We find his will bears date April 21, 1736, and was proved January 28, 1739. [Wind. Prob. Vol. 2: 206,208.]

The children born in Groton of John and Mercy Bill were:

- 103 † John, baptized Dec. 16, 1696; m. Mary ----
- 104 Abigal, do Nov. 1, 1702; m. Nathaniel House. The children born in Lebanon were:
- 105 † James, b. Sept. 20, 1703; m. Keziah French.
- 106 Laurana, b.——; m. Feb. 1, 1726-7, David Lambert of Norwich, Ct.

30.

JOSHUA BILL<sup>2</sup> (Philip, John<sup>1</sup>), the youngest son of Philip Bill<sup>2</sup>, and a brother of the preceding, was born October 6, 1675, in that part of New London which was, in 1705, known as Groton, and which, in 1836, formed a part of what is now the town of Ledyard. He was baptized March 29, 1675–6.

Joshua Bill married for his first wife Joanna Potts, a daughter of William Potts of New London, on November 1, 1699. She was born in May, 1679, was admitted a member of the church at New London on May 9, 1701. She died November 3, 1718. For his second wife he married Hannah Swodel, a daughter of William Swodel of Groton, on 4th of October, 1719. She was born in December, 1697.

In our examinations of the Groton town records we were surprised at finding so frequent the name of this Joshua Bill; scarce a single public transaction can be found in which he is not a prominent actor, nor can a half dozen pages be turned in the earlier records of Groton without his name appearing. This would seem to testify that he was held in high esteem, and had the confidence of his fellow-townsmen. We are inclined to believe also that he was possessed of a superior education compared with others of those times. What his facilities were, or where he obtained his education, we cannot say; probably by laborious study at home, and the perusal of such text-books as came in his way, having a natural taste for these things.

As tending to prove the relationship of this family in Connecticut with the families at Pulling Point [in town of Boston], we subjoin the heads of the following document:

1706-7. Feb. 11. Joshua Bill of Groton, in the County of New London, in the Colony of Connecticut, in New England, blacksmith, for divers good considerations do grant, convey, &c. (by a mortgage deed), to Jonathan Bill, of Boston, in the County of Suffolk, &c his heirs &c all that messuage or tenement, with all the lands &c situate in Groton aforesaid, measuring by estimation forty acres, more or less, and is the same which Philip Bill, deceased, father of the said Joshua Bill, devised to him by will, being bounded northerly and southerly upon land of Samuel Bill, westerly upon the Long lots that come from the Great River [Thames], and easterly upon the Common. Also, forty acres more of land in said Groton, - - - - - and is the same the said Joshua Bill purchased from his brother Philip Bill, bounded northerly upon land of Samuel Bill, westerly by the long lots that come from the Great River, easterly by the Creek, southerly by a bound mark-stone, with all the barns and houses, orchards, &c., appertaining unto both and each of the granted premises, &c. Then follows a declaration that if said Joshua Bill shall discharge a debt due from him to one Jane Kind of Boston, which Jonathan Bill had become surety for, then the above mortgage deed of lands in Groton should be null and void, &c., &c.

It is clear that the Bills of Boston and those of Connecticut were well acquainted and near related.

The trade or occupation of Joshua Bill is shown by the foregoing instrument to have been that of a "blacksmith;" yet though that may have been nominally and probably actually in early life his business, still we know that the middle and later part of his life was spent as a public officer, his various positions requiring, necessarily, the chief portion of his time and attention.

We find him in 1719, April 16, acting as the Moderator of a town meeting holden on that day, to consider the propriety of the division of the "town Commons." A committee was appointed, of which he was one, to take such action as was deemed best. It seems a division of these lands was decided upon, for we find, on February 15, 1720, John Winthrop, Samuel Bill, John Seabury, and other Patentees of said town of Groton, protested against said division. But at a subsequent meeting of the town it was, after considerable discussion, decided that the lands be divided and disposed of, and the said committee were authorized to grant deeds of the same on behalf of the town.

The following document relating to the Pequot Indians is of considerable historical interest, and we give it entire:—

Whereas at town meeting holden in Groton february the 13 Day 1720-1, there was a Committee chosen to perambulate with ye proprietors ye - - - - to ye common or undivided Land in said Groton & also to set out to the Pequot Indians a suf-

To the descendants of this Joshua Bill the following paper will also be of peculiar interest, and especially to the family of the writer, who are so familiar with the localities named.

Wee the Subscribers being Select men for this year Anno Dom 1723 we do appoint Mr. Ralph Stoder to Assist Mr. Joshua Bill to lay a particular highway fore Rod wide from the meeting house to the pine swampe Road for the North people of the Town to come to meeting and also to make satisfaction to all the proprietors which the said way is laid out through their land which satisfaction is to be made in Common or undivided land we the s<sup>4</sup> Select men having sufficient power to lay out any particular ways when it is wanting in our town.

Selectmen.

The road laid out under this order is that now running from Meeting-house Hill—so called from the early location of a house of worship in North Groton—to the Great Pine Swamp near the Preston town line, and included in the Pequot reservation. This road is now the main traveled highway leading from Groton to Preston, and divides the town of Ledyard nearly in the center.

Meeting-House Hill, in North Groton, was located on a considerable of an eminence, and was the center of a people known as the North Society. This Society was a branch of, and for a long period was presided over by the pastor of, the church in the South Society. This connection continued until near the time of the pastorate of the Rev. Timothy Tuttle, when a church was established.

About one mile and a quarter north from Meeting-house Hill, on this highway, was the birthplace and early home of the writer. The church above named was where, on Sabbath days, we were wont to visit, and of its pleasant Sabbath School we were a member. The aged pastor whom we heard preach his fiftieth anniversary sermon was apparently as venerable to us when we first knew him as when we last saw him, which was but a few days prior to his decease.

The Rev. Timothy Tuttle was a native of New Haven County, Ct., and a graduate of Yale College. He is believed to be a descendant of Richard Tuttle, of Boston, who was a brother to Dorothy Bill, the wife of John Bill, the first settler of our family in America.

1721, Jan. 17. John Pelton deeds 300 acres of land to Joshua Bill. (Groton Records, Book I. p. 726.)

We find several deeds and conveyances of real estate, in which the name of this Joshua Bill appears. He was a Selectman for many years, and was also one of the Town Committee from 1719 to 1730.

1729, Dec. 27. Joshua Bill witnessed the will of Robert Allyn. They probably lived near each other, and must have been not only neighbors but intimate friends, for the records show various transactions between them, all confirming these suppositions.

During our researches in connection with the history of this Joshua Bill, we obtained traces of an old family Bible, which was reported to have belonged to him. By diligent inquiry among his descendants, we at last, to our great surprise and joy, located it, and obtained the leaves of the said Bible, containing the family record of Joshua Bill, written in his own hand. We have said it was to our "great joy," and so it was, for up to that we had been utterly unable to make out our ancestral line, but with it all was clear as noonday. The Bible itself is an ancient one, and was printed by Charles Bill, of London, about 1690. It is suggestive to our minds, and we query whether our early ancestors in Connecticut and in Massachusetts were not in frequent communication with their relatives in England. This Charles Bill, of London, could have been as near as second cousin to Joshua Bill, of Groton. But now for that old Bible record, an exact copy of which we append, as it appears, in the hand-writing of Joshua Bill:

The aCount of my self and my wifes and children age.

I my self was born the 16 day of October in the year 1675. I was maryed to my fust wife Joanna the fust day of November in the year 1699 and my fust son was born the 29 day of July in the year 1700 and died the 28 day of September my son Joshua was born the 28 day of September in the year 1707 my son Edward was born the fust day of December in the year 1710 my son Benaih was born the 3 day of March in the year 1713 my Daughter Mary was born the 6 day of Aprel in the year 1716 my fust wife was born in May in the year 1679 and died the 3 day of November in the year 1718.

I was mariyed to my second wife Octob 4 1719 Hannah who was born in december in the year 1697. Our son Phinehas was born the 3 day of September in the year 1720 our Daughter Naomi was born the 10 day of March in the year 1722. Our Daughter Orpah was born the 20 day of October in the year 1723 our daughther Hannah was born the Last day September in the year 1725.

Sarah Bill was boren in the year 1727 in September the 12 day Esther Bill was born in the year 1729 July the 9 day Our dafter Jonaan Bill was boren the seventh day of May in the year 1731 and dyed the fift of Juen our daufter Phebe was born October the 26 day 1733.

The latter part of the above record, commencing with Sarah Bill, was evidently written by some other person than Joshua Bill, but all of the prior portion bears evidence of his own hand, and also that it was written at one time.

The Bible from which the above was taken must have fallen to the possession of his son Phineas, and then to Phineas his grandson, born in 1751, September 8, who married Mercy Allyn, and in 1818 removed to Palmyra, New York. This family Bible passed next into the keeping of his daughter Mercy Bill, who married Capt. Park Allyn. By this connection there were twins, Park Carlos and Sarah Caroline Allyn, born September 8, 1809. This Sarah Caroline Allyn married Charles Allyn, of Palmyra, who subsequently removed to Clarkston, Oakland County, Michigan, and it was in her keeping that this sacred reliet was found.

He died in the year 1735.

His widow, Hannah, appeared before the Probate Court at New London, September 26, 1735, and was qualified to act as administratrix on the estate of her late husband, Joshua Bill, deceased.

The Inventory amounted to but £45 11s. 1d.

The children of Joshua and Joanna (Potts) Bill, his first wife, were:

- 108 A son, b. July 29, 1700; d. Sept. 28, 1700.
- 109 † Joshua, 4 b. Sept. 28, 1707. (See Joshua, No. 98.)
- 110 † Edward, b. Dec. 1, 1710; m. Zeruah ——, and lived in Colchester.
- 111 † Benajah, 4 b. March 3, 1713; m. Judith Waterman.
- 112 Mary, b. April 6, 1716.

Children by second wife, Hannah (Swodel) Bill, were:

- 113 † Phineas, b. Sept. 3, 1720; m. Mehitable Woodworth.
- 114 Naomi, b. March 10, 1722.
- 115 Orpah, b. Oct. 20, 1723. She, as a minor, was placed under the guardianship of Samuel Allyn, June 4, 1736.

- 116 Hannan, b. Sept. 39, 1725.
- 117 Sarah, b. Sept. 12, 1727.
- 118 Esther, b. July 9, 1729.
- 119 Joanna, b. May 7, 1731; d. June 5, 1731.
- 120 Phebe, b. Oct. 26, 1733.

44.

MEHITABLE BILL<sup>4</sup> (James,<sup>3</sup> James,<sup>2</sup> John<sup>1</sup>), the eldest daughter of James and Mary Bill, of Pulling Point [Boston], was born there about 1675; married first Thomas Selby, September 6, 1719; for her second husband she married William Burgess, about 1729–30. She was the second wife of Thomas Selby, and was, as we see, about 45 years of age when first married.

We find no record of any children by this connection.

After marriage she resided in Boston proper.

Her first husband died near 1727.

Administration was granted to the widow on the estate of her late husband. It is found from the records that a large sum was left to the widow, amounting to £4,463 3s. 1d. The inventory of her late husband's estate is quite curious and interesting, so much so that we take the liberty of transcribing a portion of the same.

Among the several articles we find:

12 pipes of Madeira Wine, valued at £27 10s. per pipe.

10 pipes of Madeira Wine, valued at £23 per pipe.

10 pipes of Madeira Wine, valued at £18 per pipe.

We are at a loss to know how to account for the differing values attached to them, but it is not unlikely that the town pump, then as now, had something to do with such matters!

The amount of plate inventoried was £211 19s. 6d., of which were 8 silver Punch Bowls, valued at15s. 6d. per ounce, amounting to £58 & 2d.

We have no knowledge of this family after this period.

45.

REBECCA BILL<sup>4</sup> (James,<sup>3</sup> James,<sup>2</sup> John<sup>4</sup>), sister of the preceding, born about 1680; married first, October 20, 1715, by Rev. Thomas Cheever, to Samuel Saunders, of Boston; second, to John Tenny. Her first husband followed the sea for a living, as did his father before him. He died in 1717. His inventory amounted to £200 6s. and 6d. Her second husband was also a mariner, and no account of his death is given, nor have we any account of children by either marriage.

MARY BILL<sup>4</sup> (James,<sup>3</sup> James,<sup>2</sup> John<sup>1</sup>), a sister of the preceding, born October 10, 1682; married August 31, 1704, by Rev. Thomas Cheever (her uncle), to Henry Hirst [Hurst?] of Boston. Very little is known of this family. From the will of her husband, dated in 1717–18, mention is made of their children. Mrs. Mary (Bill) Hurst died November 23, 1717, aged 35. She died before her husband, and before her father, and was buried on Copps Hill, Boston.

The following is the inscription on her gravestone. "Here ly's y' body of Mary Hirsst, wife to Hindreth Hirsst, dau of James Bill & Mehitab' his wife died Nov' y' 23, 1717 in y' 37 year of her age." This stone is near those of her grandparents, James & Mary Bill.

Their children were:

- 121 Mary Hirst<sup>5</sup> (Hurst), b. Oct. 10, 1705; m. (1) her mother's cousin, Josiah Bill. (2) Richard Clan.
- 122 Mehitable, b. Aug. 30, 1707; died young.
- 123 Mehitable, b. May 26, 1709; also died in infancy.

48.

HANNAH BLLL<sup>4</sup> (James,<sup>3</sup> James, John<sup>1</sup>), sister of the preceding; born Sept. 27, 1687; m. first, arch 30, 1713, by her uncle, Rev. Thomas Cheever, to Joseph Essex; second, April 27, 1720, to Ferdinando Bowd [Boad]. Her first husband must have died prior to Oct. 12, 1719, for we find her appointed administratrix on his estate. Of the second husband there is no information. It is evident, however, from the amount of the inventory of their estate, that they were in very humble circumstances, and must have lived in considerable obscurity.

This Hannah, and her sister Abigal, must have undoubtedly displeased their father at some period, and for some cause. What that cause was we are unable to say, unless it should be that they married unadvisedly, and without the approbation of their father. The reader will remember that in the will of their father, James Bill, he bequeathed them the trifling gratuity of £5 each, and adds: "This I do for good reasons, which are best known to myself."

It is believed there was a son, Ferdinando, by the second marriage, but we cannot speak positively on this point.

49.

ABIGAL BILL<sup>4</sup> (James, James, John), also a sister of the preceding; born about 1690; m. first, October 15, 1713, to Thomas Badaly, of Great Britain. For her second husband she married North Ingham. Her first husband died about 1719.

There was one son by the first marriage. He was baptized in the Second Church, July 24, 1715, and died soon afterwards.

Very little is known of the second husband, and nothing at all of the family beyond this period.

50.

HANNAH BILL, (Jonathan, James, John), daughter of Lieut. Jonathan & Frances Bill, of Boston, born about 1676, and was married Jan. 7, 1697–8, by her uncle, Rev. Thomas Cheever, to Joseph Belcher, of Rummey Marsh. They were both baptized, and admitted to full communion with the church in Chelsea, April, 1716, and three of their children, Nathaniel, James, and Hannah, were baptized May 6, 1716.

Mr. Cheever was at this time pastor of this church.

They had children:

- 124 Joseph<sup>5</sup> (Belcher), b. Oct. 25, 1698.
- 125 Nathaniel (Belcher).
- 126 James (Belcher), b. Oct. 30, 1707; died Dec. 1, 1723.
- 127 Haunah<sup>5</sup> (Belcher), b. Feb. 20, 1712-13.
- 128 Jonathan<sup>5</sup> (Belcher), b. Feb. 27, 1717-18.
- 129 Sarah<sup>5</sup> (Belcher), b. July 6, 1721.

51.

MARTHA BILL<sup>4</sup> (Jonathan, James, John), a sister of the foregoing; b. in Boston, about 1678; m. Jan. 18, 1699–1700, by Rev. Thomas Cheever, to Thomas Gyles, a native of Topsham, Maine, and a son of Thomas Gyles, Esq., of that place. Thomas Gyles the younger, the husband of Martha Bill, was a ferryman in 1727, and was probably employed on the ferry between Charlestown and Boston. After the death of his father he was put in possession of a small property, and was thereafter known as a "retailer." He lived in Fish Street, a section of the present North Street, Boston, in the house which had been given by Jonathan Bill to his daughters, Martha Gyles and Mary Waite.

The children of Thomas and Martha (Bill) Gyles were:

- 130 Hannah<sup>5</sup> (Gyles), b. Feb. 4, 1701–2.
- 131 Martha<sup>5</sup> (Gyles), b. July 9, 1704; m. Charles Warham.
- 132 Thomas<sup>5</sup> (Gyles), b. Sept. 29, 1709; died Feb. 1, 1713-14.
- 133 Mary<sup>5</sup> (Gyles), b. Dec. 6, 1714; m. Samuel Tolman.
- 134 James [Gyles], b. June 15, 1717.

52.

1729, June 13. Jonathan Bill and his brother Joshua Bill agreed on a division of land left them by their father. (See Suff. Deeds, 48: 136.)

1729, June 16. Samuel Tuttle, of Rumney Marsh, for £60, sells to Jonathan Bill, of Pullen Point, 5 acres of land in Rumney Marsh.

We also find records of other purchases and sales of real estate in which the name of Jonathan Bill appears.

Jonathan Bill died at Pulling Point, December 16, 1731.

We find among the papers that were formerly in the possession of Andrew Henshaw Ward, a document in which Ann Bill, widow, appears as the administratrix upon the estate of this Jonathan Bill. We quote from this paper as follows:

"Ann Bill, widow, in consideration of £30 to be paid her yearly, and every year during her natural life, by her two sons, Jonathan Bill and Charles Bill, of Pullen Point, yeomen, for the security of which payment she held a bond under their hands and seals, bearing even date with these presents, and for divers other good causes her moving thereto, hereby gives and sells unto her said two sons, and released to them in their full, quiet, and peaceable possession, now being in equal parts, and to their heirs and assigns, all her right to dower or thirds in the housing and lands of her late husband Jonathan Bill - - - - - - provided always that she, the said Ann Bill, reserves unto herself the use and improvement of the westerly chamber in the dwelling-house of her late husband, so long as she shall have necessity for the same.

"Witnesses-

"Joseph Belcher,
"James Blake."

The foregoing deed was never acknowledged or recorded.

Jonathan Bill was buried in North Chelsea. The following inscription was taken from his tombstone. "Here lyes buried the body of Mr. Jonathan Bill, aged 51 years, died Decem<sup>r</sup> y° 16, 1731."

The children by this connection, whose names we have ascertained, are:

135 Jonathan, b. Nov. 27, 1701; m. Hannah Bellamy.

136 Charles, b. March 22, 1710-11; m. Ruth Fuller.

53.

MARY BILL<sup>4</sup> (Jonathan, James, John), a sister of the preceding; born in Boston about 168–. She married for her first husband Samuel Worden, on July 25, 1706. She was again married to Thomas Waite on June 4, 1718.

1741-2, Jan. 27. Thomas Waite of Boston, shopkeeper, and Mary his wife, for £300, sell to Jonathan Bill of Chelsea, Yeoman, a dwelling-house and land situated in Fish Street bounded east on said street, measuring 18 feet, south on an alley passage 22 feet; west on land now or late of Thomas and Martha Giles, 27 feet, north on land of Jonathan Burnal, 35 feet 9 inches. (Suff. Deeds, 62: 203.)

There is no knowledge of any children, though not unlikely there may have been.

54.

JOSHUA BILL<sup>4</sup> (Jonathan, James, John), a brother of the preceding; born in Boston 168-; married in 1708, to Sarah Burnham, of Ipswich. She was born 1688, and died in 1731.

He inherited by will the southerly half of his father's farm at Pulling Point, his brother Jonathan having the other half. He seems to have spent his life there, though he owned lands in several other places in the Colony of Massachusetts. His daughter Anne was baptized at the Second Church in Boston, May 24, 1713, where, it is presumed, the parents attended public worship.

We find some fifteen different conveyances of land, in the records of Suffolk County, in which Joshua Bill is either grantor or grantee. The last of these bears date February 26, 1732, in which Joshua Bill, of Pulling Point, for £833, mortgages to James Pitts, merchant of Boston, for one year, 61½ acres of land in Pulling Point, bounded as follows: E. on land of Jonathan Bill, S. on land of Joseph Bill, N. and W. on the sea or harbor. (Suff. Deeds, Vol. 47, p. 126.)

We again hear of Joshua Bill in the year 1735, where his name appears in a deed of land granted to James Pitts, a merchant of Boston. After this we have no trace of him. It is evident that after a period of prosperity he lost all his property; accordingly we find no will of his, or settlement of estate, nor is it known when or where he died.

In the graveyard at North Chelsea is the following inscription on a tombstone.

"Here lyes Buried  $y^e$  body of Mrs. Sarah Bill, wife to Mr. Joshua Bill Who Died April  $y^e$  24th 1731 aged 43."

The names of but two children of theirs are known, viz.:

- 137 Sarah,<sup>5</sup> b. November 11, 1709; m. John Tewskbury, Nov. 5, 1733.
- 138 Anne,<sup>5</sup> b. March 6, 1712-13; m. Jacob Cole, Jan. 30, 1729-30.

56.

WILLIAM BILL<sup>4</sup> (Jonathan,<sup>3</sup> James,<sup>2</sup> John<sup>1</sup>), youngest son of Jonathan and Frances Bill, born April 7, 1690; married to Susanna Whittredge, February 23, 1711–12. She was born March 3, 1696, and was the daughter of Richard and Phebe Whittredge, of Boston. Very little is known of this family, except he must have died when near 30 years of age.

In his father's will, September 30, 1728, a legacy of £30 is left to his daughter Susanna, then 12 years of age. She appears to have been the only child of William Bill then living. His widow married John Hopkins, December 22, 1719.

The children of William and Susanna Bill were:

- 139 William,<sup>5</sup> b. Nov. 8, 1712; died Feb. 12, 1812–13.
- 140 William, b. March 27, 1714; probably died young.
- 141 Susanna,<sup>5</sup> b. May 8, 1716; m. Seth Foster, of Stoughton,Aug. 1, 1732.

63.

LYDIA BILL<sup>4</sup> (Joseph, James, John), the daughter of Joseph and Lydia Bill, of Pulling Point; born near 1685, and married William Rosse, November 15, 1705. This Lydia Bill is not mentioned in her father's will, dated January 31,

1717-18, and no doubt died previously to that time. Her children, Joseph and William, are named in that instrument; and a legacy of £5 each is left to them, to be paid "when they come out of their apprenticeship."

Their children were:

142 Joseph<sup>5</sup> (Rouse), b. July 14, 1706; m. Abigail Prior.

143 William<sup>5</sup> (Rouse), b. Nov. 8, 1707; m. Rebecca Ingalls.

JOSEPH BILL<sup>4</sup> (Joseph,<sup>2</sup> James,<sup>2</sup> John<sup>1</sup>), a son of Joseph and Lydia Bill, of Pulling Point, born August 26, 1687; married for his first wife, Mary Kilcup, of Boston, November 22, 1722. He married for his second wife, Rebecca Pepper, as believed, of Roxbury, August 5, 1736. He was the owner of lands at Pulling Point for many years, being engaged in the business of a husbandman.

We find quite a large number of sales and purchases of land, together with records of mortgages, quit-claims, &c., in which his name appears, but it is evident that, from some cause unknown to us, these large possessions at Pulling Point must have passed from his hands prior to his death.

There is no trace of the family after the death of Mr. Joseph Bill, the date of which is established by a gravestone in the Copp's Hill Burying-ground, having the following inscription: "Here Lyes Buried the Body of Mr. Joseph Bill, Aged 55 years. Died Feb., Ye 3d 1747-8."

65.

JOHN BILL (Joseph, James, John), a son of Joseph and Deliverance (Wakefield) Bill, of Pulling Point; born near 1690, and married Mary Warren, May 9, 1718, by the pastor of the New North Church. He lived in Boston, and was a "mariner."

1720, Nov. 30. John Bill, of Boston, mariner, and Mary, his wife, for £130 in Bills of Credit, sold to his brothers, Joseph and Josiah Bill, one-quarter of the farm of which his father died seized of, the whole containing 206 acres. (See Suff. Deeds, 35, p. 52.)

He inherited one-quarter of his father's estate, but he was not living at the final settlement of said estate, October 11, 1731, and must have died before July 21, 1734, when his brothers and sisters sold their house in Boston. His widow was again married. There is no record of any children of his, and no further traces of this family are found.

66.

ANNA BILL (Joseph, James, John), a sister of the preceding; born about 1695, and was published October 17, 1716, to Thomas Barnard, of Great Britain, but the bans were forbidden by her father, April 10, 1717, and the marriage did not take place. After the death of her father she was married to Thomas Smith, June 23, 1718, by the then rector of King's chapel, Boston. Nothing further is known of this family.

67.

JOSIAH BILL<sup>4</sup> (Joseph,<sup>3</sup> James,<sup>2</sup> John<sup>4</sup>), a brother of the preceding Anna Bill; born about 1697, and was married December 16, 1720, to Mary Hrist, daughter of Henry and Mary (Bill) Hirst.

His wife's grandfather, James Bill, gave her in his will a legacy of £150.

He died January 3, 1721-2, aged 25. His widow was afterwards married.

Nothing further is known of this family.

JEREMIAH BILL<sup>4</sup> (Joseph,<sup>3</sup> James,<sup>2</sup> John<sup>4</sup>), a brother of the preceding, born near 1700; married Hannah Foot, of Boston, March 7, 1726–7, by Rev. Peter Thatcher.

He resided at Pulling Point, and appears to have followed various employments, as we find him called "yeoman," "jackmaker," "husbandman," "brightsmith or tanner."

A half dozen conveyances of land, in which his name appears, are of too trifling importance to bear quotation, and we have nothing further to give of this family except the list of children, which were:

144 Hannah, b. Sept. 23, 1728.

145 John, b. Oct. 25, 1729.

146 Jeremiah, b. Sept. 14, 1732.

147 Susanna, b. April 27, 1736; m. John Riorden, Jan. 1754.

71.

HEZEKIAH BILL<sup>4</sup> (Joseph,<sup>3</sup> James,<sup>2</sup> John<sup>1</sup>) was the youngest son of Joseph and Deliverance (Wakefield) Bill; born about 1708, married Hannah Brown, June 8, 1730. His occupation appears to have been a boat-builder, and his residence was in Boston. It is thought his death must have occurred between 1730 and 1740. His widow, Hannah, survived him many years, and died in Boston, May, 1790, aged 85.

But two children are found on record, viz.:

148 Benjamin, b. July 20, 1732; m. Martha Cotton, Nov. 11, 1762.

149 Hannah, baptized Jan. 19, 1735-6.

72.

SAMUEL BILL<sup>4</sup> (Samuel, Thomas, John<sup>4</sup>), the son of Samuel and Elizabeth Bill, of Boston, born there, September 28, 1683, and was married to Sarah Shapley, daughter of John and Sarah Shapley, March 19, 1701–2. He was a large provision dealer in the city of Boston, where he spent the most of his life. We should judge him to have been an active, industrious, and for the most part a prosperous man. This we gather from the various records we have had inspected relating to him.

His residence in the city of Boston was on what is now the north corner of State and Washington Streets.

The great fire which occurred October 2, 1711, destroyed his dwelling and turned him out of doors, together with 110 other families. This was a most lamentable and destructive conflagration.

We find several purchases and sales of important pieces of property, situated in Boston, in which his name appears, but perhaps his most important real estate, it will be remembered, was Spectacle Island, situated in Boston Harbor, and to which previous reference has been made in the account given of his father, Samuel Bill. It will be exceedingly interesting to trace the further history of this Island.

In 1714 an Indenture was made, whereby Samuel Bill, of Boston, victualer, and Sarah his wife, for £200, to be at 5 per cent. interest, mortgaged to Andrew Fletcher, Addington Davenport, Thomas Hutchinson, John Wood, and Edward Hutchinson, all his Island, commonly called and known by the name of Spectacle Island, containing 60 acres on two heads. This mortgage was discharged May 4, 1720. (Suff. Deeds, 29: 25.)

Samuel Bill was a resident of the town of Boston, as we have seen, as was his father and grandfather before him.

Dr. N. B. Shurtliff, in his article in the Boston Sunday Times, from which we have before quoted, says:—

"Early in the last century, our wise and considerate rulers began to think earnestly of establishing a quarantine in Boston Harbor; and for that purpose the General Court of the Province, on the 11th of June, 1716, appointed a committee 'to investigate a suitable place for the erecting a hospital for infectious persons, with minutes for an Act for that purpose.' The committee attended to the duty assigned them, and on the 20th of the ensuing November reported on the subject, recommending, among other things, that an acre of land, with the necessary privileges, should be purchased at Squantum Neck. This part of the report was accepted, and an appropriation was made of one hundred and fifty pounds for the object, and for the erection of the necessary buildings, Samuel Thaxter and William Payne, Esquires, being the committee to carry the order into effect. But on the 11th of April, 1717, one hundred and five inhabitants of Dorchester, fearing the effects of having a pest-house so near them, remonstrated against the same, and another committee, with the same powers and instructions, and consisting of Adam Winthrop, William Payne, Samuel Thaxter, and Jonathan Dowse, Esquires, was appointed, and directed to use all convenient speed in selecting another place for the object. It was undoubtedly in consequence of this remonstrance, that, on the 15th of the following May, the philanthropic townsmen of Boston passed the following vote:- 'That the Selectmen be impowered to Lease out a piece of Land on Dere Island not Exceeding one acre, for a Term not Exceeding ninety-nine years, to be improved for the Erecting an Hospital or Pest House there for the reception & entertainmt of sick persons coming from beyond the Sea and in order to prevent the spreading of Infection.' It does not appear that Deer Island was taken at that time for the purpose; but it is certain, that on the 30th of July of the same year (1717) Samuel Bill and his wife Sarah, for £100 in bills of credit, did convey to the Treasurer of the Province, Jeremiah Allen, Esq., a portion of land, being part of the southerly end of Spectacle Island, so called, and is bounded northerly by said Bills land, ten feet to the northward of the cellar wall lately built there, to erect a house on for the Province to entertain the sick, and is on the cleft or brow of the southerly head or highland of sd island forty-four feet wide, and from thence to run on a line about south-southwest ninety feet, where it is also forty-four feet wide, and thence to continue the line on the easterly side streight down to the sea, and from sd ninety feet on the westerly side to widen gradually on a streight line to the sea or salt water, where it is to be sixty feet wide, together with the liberty of landing on the southerly beach point, and thence to pass and repass to and from the said granted land."

The Province continued to hold this portion of Spectacle Island for the purpose for which it was originally acquired until about 1735, when the General Court appointed a committee for the purchase of a more suitable place to which the Hospital might be removed, and the result of their deliberations was the selection of Rainsford Island.

Prior to this, however, in the year 1729-30, March 18, Samuel Bill, by an Indenture made between him and Richard Bill, Esquire (his brother), in consideration of £765, and also in consideration that the said Richard Bill hath undertaken to discharge the mortgage money with which the premises hereinafter granted stand chargeable, sells to said Richard Bill all that his said Samuel Bill's certain Island called Spectacle Island, containing by estimation 60 acres, more or less, with the dwelling-house, barn, &c., standing thereon, saving and reserving from this grant and sale, that part of said Island which the said Samuel Bill conveyed to Jeremiah Allen, Esquire, Treasurer of the Province, July 30, 1717, subject nevertheless to the payment of the principl money and interest now due and to become due upon two mortgage deeds on the granted premises, one of them given by the said Samuel Bill to John Clark Esquire and others commissioners of the one hundred thousand pound loan dated February 13, 1719, and recorded with Suffolk Deeds, vol. 34: p. 170. The other (mortgage) given by said Samuel Bill to Samuel Appleton, late of Boston, merchant, deceased, dated April 12, 1728, and recorded in vol. 42: p. 89. (Suff. Deeds, 44, 115.)

The original of the above-named Indenture between Samuel Bill and Richard Bill (brothers), came into the hands of the writer with the papers of the late Andrew Henshaw Ward, Esq., and is now in our possession. I herewith give a fac-simile of the signature of the said Samuel Bill, as written by him, and attached to the said document.

Sum: Ce Rice

Samuel Bill had now parted with all his landed estates, both in and out of Boston. The date of his death is unknown, but it must have occurred prior to February 13, 1738-9, when, in the conveyance of the Province interest in Spectacle Island to Richard Bill, of Boston, it is stated, "Samuel Bill and Sarah his wife" were both deceased.

Sarah, the wife of Samuel Bill, was buried July 15, 1720. The children of Samuel and Sarah (Shapley) Bill were:—

- 150 Samuel<sup>5</sup>, b. May 21, 1702; died young.
- 151 Joseph<sup>5</sup>, b. June 26, 1704; died July 22, 1705.
- 152 Joseph<sup>6</sup>, b. February 8, 1705-6.
- 153 Richard<sup>5</sup>, b. Dec. 2, 1708.
- 154 Benjamin<sup>5</sup>, b. Nov. 1, 1709.
- 155 Sarah<sup>5</sup>, b. Feb. 12, 1710–11; published to James Fawar, Oct. 29, 1729.
- 156 Ruth', b. March 18, 1711-12; published to Thomas Price, June 20, 1732.
- 157 Elizabeth<sup>5</sup>, b. June 2, 1713–14.
- 158 Mary, b. June 7, 1714–15; m. John Litten.
- 159 † Samuel<sup>5</sup>, b. 1720; m. (1) Mary Davis. (2) Grace Crawley.

75.3

Hon. RICHARD BILL<sup>4</sup>, Esquire (Samuel<sup>3</sup>, Thomas<sup>2</sup>, John<sup>4</sup>), the second son of Samuel and Elizabeth Bill; born in Boston, March 25, 1685, and was married, first, on June 30, 1709, to Sarah Davis, daughter of Major Benjamin and Sarah (Richards) Davis, of Boston. They were married by Rev. Benjamin Coleman, D. D., first pastor of Brattle Street Church.

Sarah, his wife, was born in 1683, and died April 24, 1727, aged 44.

His second wife was Mehitable Minot, whom he married October 1, 1733. She was born December 6, 1692, and was the daughter of Stephen and Mary (Clark) Minot, of Boston.

Richard Bill was a prosperous merchant, doing business on old Cornhill, near the post-office, in the city of Boston. He was a noted citizen of his time, and must have been well known through the entire colony of Massachusetts Bay. He was certainly the most conspicuous, as well as the most distinguished member of the family at this period. We find his name among the list of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company in 1707: in 1716 he was Ensign, and in 1720 a Lieutenant. He was afterwards Captain in another military organization. That he was a man greatly esteemed and much honored, we infer from the fact of his election as a member of the Colonial Council of the Province. This fact is established rom MS. records found in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, at Boston, of a meeting held May 31, 1737. He must have continued a member of this Council Board as late as February 5, 1741-2, for we find his name in the records of the various frequent meetings of the Board up to the latter date, after which it no longer appears. It was a custom of the Council to meet every few days, at this time. Massachusetts still preserves this relic of her early history, and is the only State that has to our knowledge an Executive Council.

In a volume recently published, relating to the Abenaki Indians of Maine and New Hampshire, a copy of a treaty is found, dated at Portsmouth, New Hampshire, July 28, 1714, in which the names of the various commissioners on the part of the Province are attached, and among the several witnesses we find a fac-simile of the signature of Richard Bill, from which we infer he must have been present, and not unlikely bore an active part in the negotiations, if not as commissioner, at least as an agent of the Province.

Report says of him, that he was a very pious and devout man, upright in all his dealings with his fellow-men, and highly honorable, and esteemed among them.

The writer, in 1861, while visiting Boston and vicinity, learned of the existence of a portrait of this Richard Bill, and, by diligent inquiry and search therefor, was at last rewarded by tracing the same to the family of Andrew Henshaw Ward, Esq., of Newton, the gentleman to whom special reference is made in the preface of this volume. It was several years after this, however, before we were enabled to view it; meanwhile it passed, in consequence of the death of Mr. Ward and his wife, into the hands of his grand-daughter, Mrs. Miles Washburn, of Newton Corner (near Boston). We were greatly surprised to find the portrait in such a perfect state of preservation, it having been carefully and choicely kept as a family relic for the last hundred years. It is a "three-quarter" portrait in length, and is believed to have been painted by the celebrated Copely. It certainly bears many distinguishing marks of his pencil.

The drapery consists of a large antique coat and long under jacket, both of red velvet, with ruffled shirt-front and an immense flowing wig, and otherwise arrayed in the costume of the notable men of his time. Through the kindness of Mrs. Washburn (the present possessor of this portrait, to whom we would here express our thanks), a loan was made us of the original, and, having commissioned the well-known artist, Mr. E. H. Emmons, of Norwich, Ct., to copy the same, have now in our possession a faithful transcript, and it is from this copy of ours that the photograph which adorns this volume was taken. It gives, however, but a very imperfect idea of the magnificent painting itself.

The times in which Richard Bill lived were stirring ones. The colonies, after having spent several generations under the government of England, had come to be jealous of their rights and liberties. The early records furnish many documents, in the shape of petitions and other papers, asking for redress for the many grievances to which the people of the colonies were subject. This not being granted, a spirit of rebellion grew, which finally culminated in the sundering of the ties with the mother country.

He had for compeers and for neighbors such men as Samuel Adams, John Hancock, Andrew Oliver, the Hutchinsons and the Winthrops, and others of lesser note, whose names appear all along the pages of the colonial and legislative history of Massachusetts. There are a large number of deeds or conveyances of land, in which he appears as an interested party. He became possessed of large landed estates, both in the city and harbor of Boston.

We again have occasion to refer to Spectacle Island, which, in 1738-9, February 17, William Foye, Province Treasurer, by virtue of a resolve of the General Court, passed at the session in Nov., 1736, for £130, conveys to Richard Bill, of Boston, all the interest of the Province of Massachusetts Bay in and to Spectacle Island,* including the buildings where the Hospital now is, being the same premises which were conveyed to Jeremiah Allen, Treasurer, by Samuel Bill and Sarah his wife, both deceased, by their deed of July 30, 1717. (Suff. Deeds, 57: 162.)

By the above-mentioned conveyance, Richard Bill came in full and absolute possession of the whole island, he having acquired the title of the remaining portion on the 18th of March, 1729–30, from his brother, Samuel Bill.

On the 16th of January, 1741-2, Richard Bill, Esq., of Boston, in full for the good-will and affection which I bear toward my son-in-law, Joshua Henshaw, Junior, of Boston, merchant, and Elizabeth his wife, my daughter, conveys to said Joshua Henshaw and Elizabeth the house and land in Sudbury Street, Boston, now in the tenure and occupation of the said Henshaw, fronting to Sudbury Street on the S. S. E., there measuring forty feet; * * * * on the South West, on land of Thomas Cooper, late deceased, there measuring 99 feet; N. W. on Bartholomew, three-needles nineteen and a half feet, &c. (Suff. Deeds, 62: 256.)

On the 18th of February, 1742–3, Richard Bill sells the whole of Spectacle Island to Joshua Henshaw, Jr. Thus this island passed out of the hands of the Bill family, which, for more than three-quarters of a century, had been in their possession. Since this transfer in 1742, above named, Spectacle Island has been given up to agricultural uses, though, for quite a period, it was a frequent resort of pleasure parties,

It is from this deed, last named, that we have had made, on wood a fac-simile of the signature of Richard Bill, which we herewith append. This bold signature of his is significant of the uprightness of his character, which was a marked trait through all his life.

Richard Bill:

As a matter of curiosity, and at the same time to justify the use of the titles given this eminent member of our family, we copy the acknowledgment attached to an indenture in favor of Andrew Oliver. It appears as follows:

Suffolk ss.: Boston, Nov'r 30th, 1741.

The Hon. Richard Bill, Esqr., Personally appeared and acknowledged the aforewritten Instrument to be his free Act and Deed.

Before me,

Sam'l Sewall, Just. Pacis.

We find him selling his house and land where he lived, on Sudbury Street, measuring  $83\frac{1}{2}$  by  $111\frac{1}{2}$  feet; also, his two-thirds of a house on the corner of Water and Devonshire Streets; also, the house on Prince Street that was bequeathed to the said Richard Bill by his father, Samuel Bill, deceased. (Suff. Deeds, 62:255.)

It is exceedingly manifest that, from some cause, the financial affairs of Richard Bill had fallen into a state of hopeless confusion. It appears that he was compelled to part with all his real estate, and that the proceeds arising from its sale was wholly inadequate to meet the demands of his creditors.

About the end of the year 1741, he and his partner, Samuel Sewall, made an assignment for the benefit of their creditors. On the 1st of March, 1742, the assignees declared that, to that date, they had received of Richard Bill the sum of £2,869 Ss. 2d.

At his death, his estate was able to pay but 13s. and Sd. on the pound.

Richard Bill and Jacob Holyoake, of Boston, were executors of the will of Lewis Vassall, of Braintree, who died September 15, 1743. He was also appointed guardian of Anna Vassall, eldest child of Lewis Vassall, November 20, 1751.

He and Joshua Henshaw were also executors of the will of Col. John Vassal, Nov. 7, 1752. Concerning the first wife of Richard Bill we have the following account, copied from the Boston News Letter of Thursday, April 27, 1727:—

"On Monday last [24th inst.], Mrs. Sarah Bill, the consort of Mr. Richard Bill, merchant, and only surviving daughter of the late Maj. Benjamin (and Mrs. Sarah) Davis, died in the sorrows, or rather sickness, of child-bed. She was visibly adorned with those ornaments which are in the sight of God of great price, which made her much valued in her life, and lamented in her death, by all that knew her." 1 Tim. ii. 9, 10. (Genealogical Reg. vol. xiv. p. 233.)

His second wife, Mehitable, died Aug. 7, 1741. We have not the exact date of Richard Bill's death. Administration on his estate was granted Nov. 25, 1757, to his son-in-law, Joshua Henshaw, Esq., of Boston.

The inventory was taken Oct. 26, 1757, by Jeremiah Green, William Coffin, and William Story. The amount was £440 13s. 2d, old tenor. (Suff. Prob. 52, 386, 387.)

1759, April 20. Joshua Henshaw, Esq., Administrator of the estate of the Hon. Richard Bill, Esq., late of Boston, renders his first account of administration. In his list of expenses appears the item of £3 10  $9\frac{1}{2}$ , as the charge for the coffin.

The children of Richard and Sarah (Davis) Bill, were:

- 160 Elizabeth, b. Sept. 8, 1710; died Aug. 12, 1712.
- 161 † Elizabeth, b. Sept. 9, 1712; m. Joshua Henshaw.
- 162 William, b. Aug. 31, 1715; died May 3, 1718.
- 163 Sarah, b. April 15, 1727; m. Edmund Grice Dolbeare, March 13, 1755.

THOMAS BILL (Jacob, Thomas, John), son of Jacob and Theodosia Bill; born in Boston, March 30, 1693, and was married June 6, 1723, to Ruth Belcher.

He was a resident of Boston, and was known as a "boat-builder." His name appears in several real-estate transactions, as is found in the records of the town of Boston, but they are not apparently of sufficient importance to warrant their being reproduced in this connection. After 1730 we find no further notice of Thomas Bill. Ruth, his widow, died April 15, 1775, as per her grave-stone found in the Granary Burying-ground.

Their children were:

- 164 Abigail, b. Dec. 10, 1723.
- 165 Jacob, b. May 24, 1725; m. Dorcas Brown of Charlestown, Jan. 3, 1747-8. This Jacob with his family appeared at Concord in 1752, but after this they are lost to us.
- 166 Thomas, b. Dec. 29, 1729.
- 167 Sarah, b. Dec. 11, 1731.
- 168 John, b. March 27, 1734.

JOSEPH BILL' (Philip, Philip, John), a son of Philip and Elizabeth Bill of Groton, Conn.; born near 1695, and was married in Nov. 1716, to Bethia Packer, a daughter of John Packer, of Groton. This family resided for a time in Groton. After this we hear of them in the northern portion of the town of Preston, in what is now known as Griswold, where his father owned lands, and where he also made several purchases. How long he resided in this section of Preston we do not know, but we conclude many years, since, after a second search of the town records of both Preston and Norwich, we are unable to learn any thing of him after 1745. Little is known concerning this family beyond the record of their three children, which are as follows:

169 Philip, b. in Groton, Oct. 22, 1717.

170 Joseph, b. in do. Aug. 26, 1720.

171 Jacob, 5 b. in do. Feb. 8, 1723.

90.

THOMAS BILL<sup>4</sup> (Philip, Philip, John), son of Philip and Mary Bill of Groton, Conn.; born Sept. 26, 1705; married Abigail ———.

We find this family living in Groton as late as 1745, afterwards in New London, or that part of New London called Montville.

1730-1, Feb. 13. Thomas Bill of Groton for £20 buys of Daniel Leffingwell of Norwich fifty rods of land on the east side of Shetucket River, the boundary beginning on the —— at Simon Tracey's corner and extending N. 22 rods. Then running by land of Nathaniel Giddings two rods and 12 feet with a house on the lot. (See Norwich Deeds, vol. 6, p. 280.)

1741-2, Feb. 6. Daniel Leffingwell of Norwich for £650 sells to Thomas Bill of Groton 30 acres of land on the east side of the Shetucket River. (Groton Records, vol. 8, p. 385.)

We append herewith the will of Thomas Bill in full, as taken from New London Prob. Records:—

In the name of God, amen. I Thomas Bill of New London in the county of New London in the Colony of Connecticut in New England being sick but of sound disposing mind and memory thanks be given to God therefor but calling to mind my mortality and knowing that it is appointed unto man once to die, do make and ordain this my last will and Testament in the manner following:

First of all I commit my immortal soul into the hand of him who gave it hoping thro the burdens and Death of his only begotton son, the Lord Jesus Christ, to receive the free and full pardon of all my sin and an inheritance among the Blessed; my body I commit to the grave to be decently buried at the discretion of my executrix hereinafter named hoping in the resurrection of the just.

And as touching such worldly estate wherewith it hath pleased God to prosper me I give and dispose of the same as follows: viz—imprimis, I will that all my just debts and funeral charges be in time convenient after my decease fully paid by my Executrix hereinafter named—Item, I give and bequeath to my beloved wife Abigail all my personal Estate to be disposed of as she shall think fit; Moreover I give to her the improvement of all my real estate until my sons Jabez, Charles, and William come to the age of 21 years, they to receive their portion when and as they come of age. All this I do for my wife upon condition of her bringing up the children which are not yet of age and of paying the legacies which I herein order her to pay and with this view that she may do for her daughters what she shall think equal and just between them.

Item, I give to my daughter, Anna, 10 shillings, to be payd her at my decease which together with what I have given her already is the full of her portion—

Item, I give to my daughter, Lucretta, 10. s. to be payd her at my decease which together with what I have given her already is the full of her portion—

Item, I give to my daughter, Priscilla, £50 money, old Tenor, to be payd her by my Executrix in two years after my decease which together with what I have already given her is the full of her portion—

Item, I give to my daughter, Abigail, Fifty Pounds money Old Tenor to be payd her by my Executrix in two years after my decease which together with what I have already given her is in full of her portion—

Item, I give to my daughter Bethshua One hundred Pounds money Old Tenor to be payd her by my son Jabez in one year after he comes of age which together with what I have already given her is in full of her portion—

Item, I give to my daughter, Philena, One hundred Pounds money, Old Tenor, to be payd her by my son Charles in one year after he comes of age which together with what I have already given her is in full of her portion—

Item, I give to my daughter, Susanna, One hundred Pounds money Old Tenor to be payd her by my son William in one year after he comes of age which together with what I have already given her is in full of her portion—

Item, I give to my sons Jabez, Charles, and William all my Real-Estate Houses and Lots to them and their heirs forever, to be equally divided between them when and as they come to the age of 21 years: this upon condition of their complying with my Will in paying their sisters the Legacies which I have ordered them to pay as above expressed—

Item, I do hereby constitute and appoint my Dearly Beloved Wife, Abigail, sole Executrix of this my last will and Testament nothing doubting of her faithfulness in fullfiling the same. Moreover I do hereby revoke disannul and make void all other or former wills at any other time heretofore by me made declaring this and this only to be my last will and Testament.

In confirmation of which I hereunto set my hand and seal this sixth day of November, Anno Domini, One thousand seven hundred and fifty three.

Thomas Bill. [L.S.]

BENJAMIN BILL<sup>4</sup> (Philip,<sup>8</sup> Philip,<sup>2</sup> John<sup>1</sup>), a son of Philip and Mary Bill. Born in Groton, Aug. 6, 1708. Married Sarah Davis. This family were residents of Groton, and it is supposed they lived near Allyn's Point, in what is now known as the town of Ledyard. We find his name appended as a witness to the will of Robert Allyn, Esq., of Groton, in the year 1729.

In 1744-5, March 9, Benjamin Bill, of Groton, sells land to Ensign Thomas Bill of Groton, his brother. (See Groton Records, vol. 4, p. 192.) He was also a witness to a deed given by Thomas Bill to his brother-in-law Samuel Lester in 1733.

We give herewith his Will in full.

In the name of God, amen.

I, Benjamin Bill of Groton, in the county of New London, Colony of Connecticut in New England being weak and much indisposed in body yet of sound disposing mind and memory thanks be given to God therefor and calling to mind the mortality of my body and knowing it is appointed for all men once to die do make & ordain this my last Will and Testament. That is to say first and principally I recommend my soul into the hands of the God who gave it and my body in the earth to be buried in a decent manner, at the discretion of my Executor, hereinafter named; and as touching such worldly Estate wherewith it hath pleased God to bless me with in this life I dispose of in the following manner and form.

Imprim<sup>3</sup> —After all my just debts and funeral charges are first met out of my Estate I will and bequeath unto my true and loving Wife Sarah Bill the whole use and improvement of all my housing and lands in the manner following, that is to say, the use of the improvement of one-third during her natural life and the use of all the rest until my son Benjamin shall arrive at the full age of 21 years and then to one-half of the remainder until my son Christopher shall arrive at the full age of 21 years.

Item, I give and bequeath unto my son Benjamin Bill and to his heirs and assigns forever the one-half of all my housing and lands upon condition that my said son Benjamin pay to my daughter Abigail Bill, my wife's eldest daughter, one hundred Pounds old Tenor Bills within one year after my said son shall arrive to the age of 21 years.

Item, I give and bequeath unto my son Christopher Bill and to his heirs and assigns forever the other half of my housings and lands to be divided among my said sons according to quantity and quality and use of one-third of the whole excepted, to my Wife as above given to her upon condition that my said son Christopher pay to my Daughter Catherine Bill one hundred Pounds Old tenor Bills within one year after he shall arrive at the full age of 21 years. And I further order my two said sons Benjamin and Christopher to pay my said daughters Prudence Tabitha and Deborah Three hundred Pounds Old tenor bills that is to say One hundred Pounds old tenor bills to each of them: That is to say; my son Benjamin to pay to my Daughter Prudence One hundred Pounds old tenor bills and Fifty Pounds old tenor Bills to my Daughter

Tabitha Bill within one year after my said son Benjamin shall arrive at the full age of 21 years and my son Christopher to pay to my Daughter Tabitha Bill Fifty Pounds old tenor Bills and one hundred Pounds Old tenor Bills to my Daughter Deborah Bill within one year after my said son Christopher shall arrive to the age of 21 years.

Item, I give and bequeath unto my aforesaid Daughter Abigail Bill one hundred Pounds old tenor Bills to be paid to her as herein before ordered.

Item, I give to my Daughter Prudence one hundred Pounds old tenor Bills to be paid to her as before ordered.

Item, I give and bequeath unto my Daughter Catherine Bill one hundred Pounds old tenor bills to be paid to her as above ordered.

Item, I give and bequeath unto my Daughter Tabitha Bill one hundred [Pounds] old tenor Bills to be paid to her as above ordered.

Item, I give and bequeath unto my Daughter Deborah one hundred Pounds Old tenor bills to be paid to her as above ordered; and I do appoint my said Wife Sarah Bill my sole Executrix to this my last Will and Testament and I do hereby disallow of all other former wills by me made and allow this and this only to be my last Will and testament.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal. Groton June the 17th day 1754.

Bonjamin Bill [L. s.]

Signed, sealed, published pronounced and declared by the said Benjamin Bill to be his last will and testament in presence of > Luke Perkins Sam<sup>ll</sup> Lester Asa Woodworth.

The above will was proved Jan. 10, 1758, before Gurdon Saltonstall, Judge of Probate.

Mr. Lester, one of the witnesses to the above Will, was a brother-in-law of the testator, and is one of the ancestors of that numerous family that for so long a period have resided in both the towns of Ledyard and of Groton. The names of Perkins and of Woodworth still abound in New London County.

The inventory of Benjamin Bill's estate amounted to the sum of £745 10s. 6d. (New London Prob. vol. 6: 62, 89.)

The children of Benjamin and Sarah (Davis) Bill, as named in the will, were:

- 184 Abigail, b. ——
- 185 Catherine, b. ——
- 186 Prudence, b.
- 187 Tabitha, b. —— Mr. Giles Bailey, the present town

SAMUEL BILL' (Samuel, Plulip, John), the eldest son of Samuel and Mercy (Haughton) Bill, was born in New London, about 1690. He married for his first wife HANNAH——, who died May 7, 1740, aged 48.

For his second wife he married Joanna Atwell, on the 27, of Nov. 1740.

We experience the same difficulty with regard to this family that we have with every other for whose history we have had to depend on what remains of the New London records.

From an expression in his will, and from an incident related to us by his great-grandson, Mr. Edward Bill of New York, we infer that his life was a sea-faring one.

Mr. Edward Bill relates the following, as told him by his father, of this Samuel Bill, viz.:

He was the owner and master of a small sloop which was employed in the trade between the towns near the mouth of the Connecticut River. In one of his cruises he fell in with a brig of considerable size, and on boarding her found that she was fully armed, and with more than the usual complement of men. He expressed surprise, and in answer to his questions was told: "We never know whom we are to meet; and it is best to be prepared both for friend and foe. We like to be independent. Now, sir, as you are a sailor, and profess to be well acquainted with the coast and islands hereabouts, we will state our business. We wish you to pilot us into some cosy nook or sheltered place, free from observation, where we can clean the bottom of our vessel, make some necessary repairs, and get a supply of fresh water."

He piloted the vessel into a small harbor, not far from the mouth of the Connecticut River, supposed to be what was then known as Thimble Island, where they drew his small vessel up on the beach, and took off his rudder and sails, to prevent his too speedy departure. They kept him there a prisoner for some days, until they were ready to depart, when, after paying him handsomely for his trouble and detention, they bade him good-by, and, with a fair wind, left for sea. He [Samuel Bill] supposed her to be a pirate, as at this time vessels of this character infested our coast.

In 1738 and 1742, respectively, Samuel Bill gives to his sons,

Samuel Bill, Jr. and Ephraim Bill, land which he had bought of the First Society in New London, to be equally divided between them. (See New London Deeds, vol. 12, p. 141.)

As a matter of considerable interest to his descendants, we transcribe in full his will, as it appears in the Probate Records of New London:—

I ye Name of God amen:

Sam<sup>1</sup> Bill of New London in ye County of New London sends Greeting: and know ye, that I ye set Sam<sup>1</sup> Bill being in Perfic helth and sound mind & memmory, & being bound to Sea, & considering the Dangers thereof, ye Sartaintye of Death & unsartaintye of this Life think it my Duty to dispose of what Estate I have in this Life and as to my body I give it to ye Earth from whence it was Taken, to be Decently buried at ye discretion of my Executors hereafter mentioned & my Sole I bequeth to God who gave me being, not Douting but that at ye End of ye world my Sole and body by ye Power of God will be Reunited and by ye medeation of Christ made Parfitly Blesed for Euer and as to my warly Goods, I Despose of as follows, first that my house and Land be sold by my Executrix hereafter mentioned, & my just Debts all first to be paid, and then out of y° Product of s⁴ house my wife shall have paid her fifty Pounds old Tener bills, and also I Give my Loueing Wife all my moueable Estate of what sort or Denomination whatever

- 3<sup>1y</sup>. As to my other Three Children viz Sam, Ephraim, and Sarah, I have alredy Ginen them there full Portion—
- 4<sup>ly</sup>. I appiont my Loueing Wife my sole Exectrix of this my Last will and Testament and I do Revoake all former or Other Wills by me made or Suffered to be made alloweding Ratifying and confirming this and no other to be my Last will and Testement.

And in confirmation I have hereunto set my hand and fixed my seal this fust day of July A. D. 1747.

At a Court of Prob<sup>t</sup> holden March 1, 1753, app<sup>d</sup> George Rich<sup>d</sup> Junr. & Guy Rich<sup>d</sup>, and made Solem oath that they saw Sam<sup>l</sup> Bill testa<sup>r</sup> to y<sup>e</sup> above Inst. sign & seal & heard him pronounce & Declare it to be his Last Will and Testament, and that he was then as they Judg<sup>d</sup>, of sound mind & memory & y<sup>t</sup> they with N. R. sign<sup>d</sup> as Evidence to it in presence of s<sup>d</sup> Test<sup>r</sup>.

The above will was proved at a Court of Probate, holden March 1, 1753.

The inventory of his estate was sworn to by Joanna Bill, September 10, 1753. (N. L. Prob., vol. 5: 124, 127.)

1754, August 1. Joanna Bill, relict of Samuel Bill, and Executrix of his will, for £475, sells to Benjamin and Eliza Appleton his house and land, lately belonging to the said Samuel Bill, deceased, having a front of three rods. The boundary line begins at the northwesterly corner of Samuel Latimer, bounded west on the Town street, east on land of John Bolles, thence to Latimer's corner, the place of beginning. (N. L. Deeds, vol. 16: 70.)

The children of Samuel and Hannah Bill were:

189 †Samuel, b. 171-; m. Martha Wheeler.

190 Sarah, b. ——; m. William Newport, July 7, 1737.

191 † Ephraim, b. Aug. 15, 1719; m. Lydia Huntington.

192 Mercy<sup>5</sup>, b. 17—; m. ——— Smith, and was admitted to the church at N. L. in 1741.

94.

PHILIP BILL<sup>4</sup> (Samuel, Philip, John<sup>1</sup>), a brother of the preceding; born in New London about 1692, and was married in 1714 to Jane ————, who died in child-bed, July 21, 1731. His second wife was Elizabeth ————; his third wife, Rutil —————.

Soon after his marriage he settled in Lebanon, near his uncle, John Bill, who had emigrated thither some twenty years prior. He continued to reside in Lebanon the remainder of his life. His brothers, James and Ebenezer, and his father also, went to Lebanon not far from the same time.

Philip Bill was the owner of lands in Groton, which had been deeded to him by his father. He also made purchases of considerable extent in the town of Lebanon—in that portion known as the New Parish.

His will was dated June 24, 1754, and was proved December 24, 1762. He calls himself Philip Bill of Lebanon, and gives to his wife Ruth one-third of his estate, during her natural life. To his son Elisha, whom he appoints executor, he gives all the real estate, except the reserve already mentioned, on condition of his paying the debts and pecuniary legacies.

His inventory, on December 22, 1762, amounts to £171 11s. 9d.

The children of Philip Bill were, by his first wife:

- 193 Zipporah,<sup>5</sup> b. in Groton, Feb. 16, 1715; m. Jabez Chappell.
- 194 Lucy,<sup>5</sup> b. in Groton, Dec. 25, 1717; m. ——— Rood [or Rude].
- 195 † Elisha, b. in Groton, Feb. 7, 1719; m. Lydia Woodward.
- 196 † Philip, b. in Lebanon, Dec. 21, 1723; m. Mary Tilden.

- 197 † Solomon,<sup>5</sup> b. in Lebanon, April 25, 1726; m. Sarah Sizer.
- 198 Mercy,<sup>5</sup> b. in Lebanon, Jan. 6, 1729; m. Joseph Simmons.
- 199 Elijah, b. in Lebanon, July 17, 1731; died young.
  The children by his second wife were:
- 200 † Jonathan, b. in Lebanon, Sept. 15, 1735; m. Elizabeth Dunham.
- 201 Sybil, b. in Lebanon, March 6, 1740; m. ———— Hutchinson.
- 202 † Samuel, b. in Lebanon, July 4, 1744; m. (1) Martha Goodwin. (2) Sarah Mills.

95.

JAMES BILL<sup>4</sup> (Sannel, Philip, John), son of Samuel and Mercy Bill; born in New London, about 1694, and married Mary Swodel, daughter of William Swodel, of Groton, and sister of Hannah Swodel, who was the second wife of Joshua Bill, an uncle of this James.

It is supposed that, soon after his marriage, he removed to Lebanon, where his uncle, John Bill, and his brothers, Philip and Ebenezer, his sister Mercy, and his father, had already settled. In 1719, however, James Bill bought a farm in Hebron, an adjoining town, and resided there at least twelve or fourteen years. In 1743 we find him again in Lebanon, where he remained till at least 1751.

The children of James and Mary Bill were—born in Lebanon:

- 203 † James, b. Dec. 31, 1717; m. Mary ———.
- 204 † Jedediah, b. July 18, 1719; m. Hannah Foster. Children born in Hebron are:
- 205 Mary, b. July 2, 1721. She or her sister, Experience,m. Joshua Eells.
- 206 Nathan, b. June 27, 1723.
- 207 Experience, b. Oct. 10, 1724.
- 208 † Jonathan, b. Aug. 3, 1731; m. Esther Owen.

About 1755, his son James removed to New Jersey, and it is not impossible that the father went with him.

This fact of the removal to New Jersey is established by deed, dated December 14, 1756, wherein these words occur: "James Bill, late of Lebanon, now of Wantage, Sussex County, New Jersey, for £400, quit-claims to Hezekiah Newcomb, of Lebanon, one hundred acres of land in the village of Lebanon, formerly belonging to my father, James Bill."

This deed was recorded May 10, 1804. (Lebanon Deeds, vol. 19: 338.)

The removal of James Bill<sup>5</sup> (b. 1717) to New Jersey, about the time above named, is certain; and it is quite probable that his brother Jedediah<sup>5</sup> also removed thither at the same period. Whether their father died in Lebanon, or joined his sons in New Jersey, we are unable to determine, though diligent efforts have been made to procure reliable information.

The history of this New Jersey branch of the family is wrapped in something of uncertainty, but yet enough is known to trace them for several generations.

During their residence in New Jersey they became members of the Society of Friends, or Quakers, in that region, and we find that Daniel Bill, a son of the aforesaid James or Jedediah, during the Revolution, refused to take up arms in consequence of his peculiar religious faith, though he consented to serve his country in the capacity of a commissary in the army. About this time he removed to Surrey County, in North Carolina, in the neighborhood of a large settlement of those peculiar people. From North Carolina he removed to Marshall County, Tennessee, taking his family with him, where he died in 1820. We find that the above-named Daniel left a son, Isaac Bill, who was born in North Carolina, and, after the death of his father, removed from Marshall to Maury County, Tennessee, where he also died, leaving four sons and three daughters. His occupation was that of a planter. He left several children, but the name of one only is known to us, that of John H. Bill, who was born in Tennessee, and now resides at Bolivar in that State.

He is a man of learning and liberal culture, has traveled extensively both in this country and in Europe, and, prior to the late war, possessed large wealth; and notwithstanding the heavy losses he has sustained during the late contest, he is still in comfortable circumstances.

97.

EBENEZER BILL<sup>4</sup> (Samuel,<sup>3</sup> Philip,<sup>2</sup> John<sup>1</sup>), a brother of the preceding; born in Groton [New London], about 1695; was married September 8, 1726, in Lebanon, to Patience Ingraham. He removed to Lebanon in 1722, and remained there for upwards of a score of years. We find his wife, Patience, was admitted to the church there February 29, 1736, and that he was a surveyor of highways in that town in 1741.

By his father's will, he inherited his father's house and land in Lebanon. It appears that about the year 1751 he sold a house and farm, containing one hundred acres, to his eldest brother, James Bill. After this period this family is lost to us in the Lebanon records, and the next we hear of them is in the Province of Nova Scotia, whither, it is supposed, he must have removed prior to the Revolution, or about 1755–'60, as the removal of the "French Neutrals," so called, from said province occurred about this time, and their places were partly filled by emigrants from Great Britain and from the New England Colonies.

The descendants of this family in Nova Scotia have attained considerable eminence and distinction, as will be seen hereafter.

The children of Ebenezer and Patience (Ingraham) Bill were:

209 † Samuel, b. in Groton, Sept. 25, 1719; m. Sarah Bond.

210 Bridget,<sup>5</sup> b. in Lebanon, Dec. 14, 1727; removed to Nova Scotia.

- 211 Beulah, b. in Lebanon, April 30, 1730.
- 212 Hannah, b. in Lebanon, August 10, 1732.
- 213 Jonathan, b. in Lebanon, ———, 1734; died Aug. 24, 1734.
- 214 Ebenezer, b. in Lebanon, July 11, 1737.
- 215 † Thomas,<sup>5</sup> b. in Lebanon, Feb. 28, 1741–2; m. (1) Anna Phelps. (2) Elizabeth Gager.
- 216 † Asahel, b. in Lebanon, April 7, 1748; m. Mary Rand, of Nova Scotia.
- 217 Eunice, b. in Lebanon, July 7, 1751.

98.

JOSHUA BILL' (Samuel, Philip, John), a brother of the foregoing; was born in New London [Groton]; baptized June 5, 1698. We have no exact knowledge of this Joshua Bill, further than that he was living at the date of his father's will, Oct. 28, 1728. What became of him we are unable to determine, except it is he whom we find living at Jamestown, Rhode Island, in May, 1741, at which time he was admitted a Freeman.

Again, in 1750, we find a Joshua Bill, of South Kingstown, Rhode Island, was plaintiff in an action of debt, at Norwich, Connecticut, against N. Lathrop of that place.

March 6, 1755, a Joshua Bill was ensign in the first company formed in a regiment raised in Rhode Island, to march to Crown Point, to resist French invasion. Whether any or all of these items refer to this Joshua, or to his cousin Joshua, the son of Joshua Bill of Groton, who was a direct ancestor of the writer, we cannot positively determine, since but faint traces remain to us of either of them. We have spent hours, and almost days, in cogitating and pursuing these two Joshuas, with a view to determine, if it were possible, their whereabouts and history, but, up to this, all attempts have proved abortive.

101.

JOHN BILL' (Samuel, Philip, John'), a brother of the preceding; born in New London [Groton], about 1705. He was living at the date of his father's will, Oct. 28, 1728. Who he married is unknown. It is supposed that he settled in the town of Norwich, not far from the landing.

We have no account of any children, or of his decease.

103.

JOHN BILL<sup>4</sup> (John, Philip, John), the eldest son of John and Mercy (Fowler) Bill; was born in New London [Groton], 1696; baptized December 16, 1696, and married Mary——.

He removed to Lebanon with his father in 1703, and there resided during the remainder of his life.

He was admitted to the church in Lebanon, June 6, 1725. His wife was admitted July 1, 1733.

All their children were baptized in Lebanon.

His will is dated Feb. 10, 1745-6: proved June 25, 1746. We append a copy of said will, as taken from the Windham

Prob. Records, vol. 3, p. 272:

In the name of God, Amen, I, John Bill, being on a bed of sickness, and apprehensive that my departure is at hand, but of sound mind and memory, do recommend my soul to God, who gave it, and my body to burial in decent christian burial at the discretion of my Executors, and as to my worldly substance I do dispose of it in the manner following, (viz.) After my honest debts and funeral charges are paid out of my moveable estate, I do give and bequeath as follows:

Imp<sup>r</sup>. To my loving wife, Mary Bill, all my household goods, and also the improvement of my whole estate for the space of four years after my death, in consideration of her bringing up the children, and after the said term of four years, I give to her the improvement of one-third part of my whole estate, personal and real, so long as she continues my widow.

Item. I give and bequeath to my loving son, Simeon Bill, a double part or portion of my estate, viz. two-eighth parts, excepting as hereafter.

Item. I give and bequeath to my loving sons, Jonathan Bill, Judeth Bill, John Bill, Elijah Bill, equal parts of the remainder of my estate, excepting as hereinafter mentioned.

Item. I give and bequeath to my loving daughters, Mercy Bill, Mary Bill, and Martha Bill, to each of them fifty pounds per y° old tenor, as money now goes, to be paid to my daughter Mercy at the expiration of four years after my death, with the lawful interest, and to each of the others, Mary and Martha, when they arrive at the age of eighteen years, and it is my will that this be paid by my five sons, each one paying his proportion according to what I have given them, and I do hereby appoint my brother, Benajah Bill, and Mr. James Vinno, my neighbour, Executors of this my last will and testament. In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal this 10th day of Feb., 1745-6.

In presence of

John Newcomb, James Bill, of Goshen. Eleazar Whelock.

He was buried in the cemetery in the town of Columbia, where is a gravestone with the following inscription: "Here lies y° body of the Well beloved Mr. John Bill, who died Feb's, y° 4th, 1746, aged about Fifty years." His widow survived him nearly half a century. Her will was proved Sept. 27, 1795. The witnesses to her will were Benajah Bill, Eliphalet Bill, and Mary Bill.

The children of John and Mary Bill, all born in Lebanon, were:

218 † Simeon, b. Nov. 8, 1723; m. Martha ————.

219 † Jonathan, b. Feb. 6, 1725-6; m. (1) Mary ————. (2) Phebe ————.

220 Mercy, b. May 25, 1728; d. young.

222 † John, 5 b. June 6, 1733.

- 223 Jonathan, 5 b. Aug. 18, 1734-5.
- 224 Mercy,<sup>5</sup> b. Sept. 17, 1735; m. (1) Stephen Harding Williams. (2) ——— Corbet.
- 225 † Elijah, b. May 1, 1736; m. Patience Barbor.
- 226 Joseph, 5 b. June 1, 1738.
- 227 Mary, b. Dec. 16, 1741; unmarried, living 1795.
- 228 Martha, 5 b. Oct. 23, 1743; unmarried, and living in 1795.

105.

Lieut. JAMES BILL' (John, Philip, John), second son of John and Mercy (Fowler) Bill; was born in Lebanon, Sept. 20, 1703, and married in 1727, to Kezia French, a daughter of John French. He resided in the south part of Lebanon, in what is known as "Goshen Society," where he spent his whole life. He seems to have been, from all we learn, a highly respectable and worthy man. He was admitted to the First Church in Lebanon, April 25, 1725. He was of the thirty persons who united in organizing the church in Goshen Society, Nov. 26, 1729, to which church his wife was admitted in 1730.

His name appears very frequent among the various records of the town, from which we learn that he was a Surveyor of Highways for many years; also a Grand Juror.

1735, Aug. 25. James Bill and Kezia Bill, his wife, sign a quit-claim or release, dated at Norwich, of a certain portion of John French's estate, wherein occurs these words: "Our honored father, John French." In 1745-6, Feb. 10, as we have already seen, he was a witness, together with John Newcomb and Rev. Eleazar Wheelock, to the will of his brother, John Bill of Lebanon.

In 1750, Nov. 14, his name appears in the Lebanon deeds, as having sold a piece of land in Goshen [Lebanon], to Noah Webster.

The Lebanon town record says, "Lieut. James Bill died Nov. 9, 1781, aged 78 years, on the 20th of Sept. last." His will is dated March 20, 1781, proved Nov. 27, 1781. By this will he gives to his wife Kezia one-third of his real estate during her natural life, and her personal estate forever. To his eldest son, Amos, he gives £80. To my grandson, Abiel, the only surviving son of my son Peleg, deceased, he gives £5. To his son James £5, and lands in Chatham. He appoints his son Oliver, Executor, and gives him land in Goshen. To his daughters, Lurana Woodruff, Lucy Abel, Kezia Pratt, and Betty Williams, I give lands which I bought of P. Marsh, and E. Carpenter.

The inventory of his estate amounted to £583 11s. 10d. (Wind. Prob. Rec. 10: 448.)

Kezia Bill, widow of Lieut. Joshua Bill, made her will May 20, 1783: proved March 13, 1786. She describes herself as residing in Exeter Society [Lebanon], and she gives to her eldest daughter, Lurana, a gold necklace; and to her daughters Lucy, Kezia, and the heirs of Betty, each, three-quarters of the residue. The witnesses to her will were Mrs. Patty Bill, and Mary Bill. (Ibid. 12: 24.)

In the cemetery in Exeter Society, in the town of Lebanon, half way down the inclosure, at the right hand of the path under an apple-tree, is a gravestone with this inscription: "In memory of Lieut. James Bill, Who Died Nov. 9th, 1781, in the 79th year of his age.

"My flesh shall slumber in the ground,
Till the last trumpet's joyful sound:
Then burst the chains with sweet surprise,
And in my Saviour's image rise."

At the right hand of this gravestone is another with this inscription:

"In memory of Mrs. Kezia, Reliet of Lieut. James Bill, Decest, who departed this life, Feb. 12, 1786, in the 83d year of her age. Our rest together is in the dust."

The children of Lieut. James and Kezia Bill were:

229 Lurana, b. Aug. 29, 1728; m. James Woodruff.

230 † Amos, b. ---

231 † Peleg, b. Jan. 8, 1733; m. Jerusha ———

232 † James, b. Feb. 20, 1736; m. Asenath Norton.

233 † Oliver, b. Oct. 27, 1737; m. Martha Skinner.

334 Lucy, b. ——; m. Dea. Daniel Abel [1]; she died aged 90.

235 Kezia, b. March 14, 1741-2; m. Col. David Pratt, of Spencertown, N. Y.

236 Betty, b. Sept. 5, 1746; m. Isaiah Williams. She died prior to 1783.

BENAJAH BILL, 'Esq. (John, 'Philip, John'), son of John and Mercy (Fowler) Bill, was born in Lebanon, about 1715; married Mary ———. There is no record of his birth, or baptism, or marriage, so far as known. That he was a son of John Bill, of Lebanon, is established by the will of the latter. He inherited the greater part of his father's estate. His name occurs frequently in the town records, from which we judge he was an active, intelligent, and highly capable man. We find him filling the office of Surveyor of Highways in 1744; constable and collector of taxes, from 1750 to 1760; and selectman for an equal number of years. He was also Justice of the Peace in 1772. We append below his signature at this period, found on a document bearing date 25th of Aug. 1772.

Benajah Bill Juffus of Peace

For this original signature we are indebted to Mr. John Newcomb, of Elgin, Illinois.

Benajah Bill, in exchange of lands, sells to S. Thomas four acres of land at Ten Mile Run, by the bridge, near Webster's grist-mill, reserving the brook that runs through said Bill's land to Ten Mile Brook, which water now turns said Bill's Spinning-mill wheel; bounded E. by the Hartford road, &c. (Lebanon Deeds, 10: 80.)

He, and his wife Mary, were members of the church at "Lebanon Crank" [Columbia], and, according to the records of that church, both died in 1776.

No will is found, but a division of his estate to the heirs was made April 21, 1778.

The heirs were: Eliphalet Bill of Lebanon; John Howell Wells of Hebron, and wife Mary; and Ruby Bill of Lebanon. (Wind. Prob. 10: 445-9.)

Their children were:

237 Lucretia, b. July 26, 1743; d. same year.

238 Mary, b. Nov. 27, 1744; m. John Howell Wells.

239 Eleazar, b. March 16, 1746-7; d. Aug. 22, 1747.

. 240 Benajah, b. June 11, 1749; d. Sept. 4, 1749.

241 † Eliphalet, b. Aug. 25, 1750; m. Dorothy Mason.

JOSHUA BILL<sup>4</sup> (Joshua, Philip, John<sup>1</sup>), son of Joshua and Joanna (Potts) Bill, of Groton; born Sept. 28, 1707. He gave a deed to John Ledyard, April 8, 1732, of lands originally granted to his grandfather, William Potts, by the town of New London, Feb. 23, 1701–2. (Groton Town Records, Book 3, p. 63.)

The remarks applied to Joshua Bill, son of Samuel, and a cousin of this Joshua, are also applicable to this Joshua Bill, to which the reader is referred.

110.

EDWARD BILL (Joshua, Philip, John), son of Joshua and Joanna (Potts) Bill, of Groton; born Dec. 1, 1710; married Zeruiah ————. He settled first in Colchester, about 1732. In 1740, he appears in East Hampton, which was a portion of Chatham.

Edward Bill was one of 26 petitioners, north of the Neck in Chatham, who in Oct. 1738, petitioned for an act of incorporation as a parish.

We know of but one child of Edward Bill:

243 Jonathan, b. in Colchester, May 5, 1733; m. ---

BENAJAH BILL4 (Joshua, Philip, John ), a son of Joshua and Joanna (Potts) Bill, of Groton; was born March 3, 1713, and married, March 18, 1762, Judith Waterman, daughter of William and Margaret [Tracey] Waterman. It is said that she was a cousin of Benedict Arnold, though whether this is a fact we are unable to determine. She died July 5, 1783, aged 48.

Chancellor Walworth, in his Hyde Genealogy, gives the name of this Benajah as Beriah, which undoubtedly is an error. This family resided at Norwich.

Their children were:

244 Judith, b. March 13, 1763; m. — Tinker.

245 Uriah, b. March 1, 1765; m. Elizabeth Shroud, Oct. 10, 1790.

PHINEAS BILL<sup>4</sup> (Joshua,<sup>3</sup> Philip,<sup>2</sup> John<sup>1</sup>), a son of Joshua and Hannah Bill; was born in that part of Groton which is now included within the town of Ledyard, Sept. 3, 1720. He married Mehitabel Woodworth. At the age of 15 years his father died, when he was placed under the guardianship of B. Davis, March 14, 1737–8.

1745, May 2. John Allyn gives a deed to Phineas Bill of Groton. (Groton Town Records, 5: 38.)

He resided in the southwestern portion of the now town of Ledyard, about equidistant from the village of Unionville, so called, and Allyn's Point, in said town. Indeed the exact place of residence has been established, and must have been in what is now, and has been for the last century, known to the neighboring inhabitants as the "Phineas Bill House." He was a cooper by trade, and an industrious and honorable man, and, though in humble circumstances, enjoyed the respect and confidence of his neighbors. He died of cancer, in the family of his eldest son, Phineas, in Feb. 1780, at the age of 60 years.

At a Prob. Court held at Stonington, Dec. 25, 1784, his widow Mehitabel was allowed £18 out of his estate. She survived him many years, dying in Groton [Ledyard], July, 1813, aged 90, and was buried by the side of her husband. With a view to determine their place of burial, we have caused searches to be made in the various burial-places in that locality, without success. We feel confident however that a renewal of the search might prove entirely satisfactory.

The children of Phineas and Mehitabel Bill were:

246 † Phineas, b. Sept. 8, 1751; m. Mercy Allyn.

247 Mehitabel, b. —; m. William Spink, of Colchester.

248 Mary, b. —; m. (1) Richard Dayton, of New London.
(2) Alpheus Chapman, of Montville. She left no children by either husband.

249 † Benajah, b. June 29, 1760; m. Content Park.

250 † Joshua, b. May 14, 1762; m. Abigail Miner.

251 Gurdon, b. — 1766; d. Sept. 1781, aged 15.

252 A daughter, name unknown; m. Emanuel Simons.

135.

In 1738-9, Jan. 10, the town of Chelsea was incorporated, embracing in its boundaries Pulling Point. He attended and was admitted a member of the New North Church, in Boston, March 17, 1740-1. His three children, Mary, Hannah, and Ann, were baptized there, May 20, 1741. Jonathan Bill died Oct. 19, 1761, aged 60; and was buried in North Chelsea. He left no will. John Tewksbury, of Chelsea, the husband of his daughter Ann, was appointed administrator on his estate, Oct. 30, 1761, with Jonathan Belcher and John Sergeant as sureties. (Suff. Prob. 59: 176.)

The inventory of his personal property was as follows:

Two wiggs, 20s.; beaver hat, 26s. 8d.; hilted sword, 40s.; great Bible, 12s.; books, 30s.; 100 bushels of corn, at 3s.—£15; negro man, £13 6s. 8d.; 32 ounces silver [plate], £10 3s. 4d.; 100 best sheep, at 8s.—£40; 76 other sheep, 5s. 4d.—£20 5s. 4d. A schooner, tackle, and appurtenances—£50. Total, £276 18s. 5d. (Suff. Prob. 59: 226.)

The appraisal of his real estate, made May 9, 1763, is as follows:

lows:

CHARLES BILL<sup>5</sup> (Jonathan, Jonathan, James, John )

Hannah Bill, the widow of Jonathan Bill, was married to a son of Jonathan and Ann (Allen) Bill, of Pulling Point; born there, March 22, 1710–11; married Ruth Fuller, of Lynn, May 18, 1782. He also resided at Pulling Point [Chelsea], where he possessed a handsome property, which had been left him by his father, but which, probably from careless management, must soon have passed from his hands. It is supposed he died prior to May 12, 1755, and that his widow, Ruth, with a portion of her children, removed to Woburn, near Boston.

Their children were:

257 Charles, b. April 14, 1734.

258 Ann, 6 b. July 10, 1736.

259 Jonathan, b. July 17, 1738; m. Mary Bentley, in Boston, Nov. 11, 1762; he died Nov. 23, 1822.

260 † Benjamin, b. Nov. 17, 1741; m. Elizabeth Watts.

SAMUEL BILL<sup>5</sup> (Samuel, Samuel, Thomas, John), presumed to be youngest son of Samuel and Sarah (Shapley) Bill, of Boston, was born July, 1720, and married first, Mary Davis, published June 18, 1740. He married for his second wife Grace (Norcross) Crawley, July 12, 1769. She was born March 27,1724, and was the eldest of tenchildren of Philip and Sarah (Jackson) Norcross, of Newton. Her first husband, whom she married in 1744, was Gershom Hyde, of Newton. He died prior to April 5, 1756, and his widow, Grace, administered on his estate. She had five children by this connection. In 1756–7, the widow, Grace Hyde, became the wife of Abraham Crawley, of Watertown. He died about 1768, having had by Grace also five children. [Bond's Watertown, pp. 188, 378.] The widow, Grace, was also appointed administratrix on his estate, Sept. 6, 1768. Soon after this, as we have seen, Samuel Bill married widow Graee Crawley, and he is now called "Samuel Bill of Dedham."

The children of Samuel Bill, known to us, are:

263 † Richard, b. ——-

263½ † Nathaniel,<sup>6</sup> b. in Roxbury; m. Jane (Damon?), of Chelsea. They moved to Dedham, where they died about 1837.

161.

Joshua Henshaw, Jr., her husband, was born in Boston, Aug. 3, 1703, and was the son of Joshua* and Mary† (Webster) Henshaw. He was a merchant of Boston, as was his father, and attained considerable eminence in public life. He was a Selectman of the town of Boston, also a representative to the General Court, and one of a committee to distribute a public fund of £3,000 among the sufferers by the Great Fire, in 1760–1. He was one of the Committee, in 1766, that waited on Governor Bernard in reference to the seizure of John Hancock's Sloop Liberty; also one of a committee to instruct the representatives of the town in regard to the oppressive measures of the British Government, in 1769.

In 1768 he was chosen a member of the Executive Council, and at a later period took an active part with the many distinguished patriots of those times in behalf of the rights of the people.

He removed from Boston in 1774 to Leicester, and from thence to Dedham, and resided with the family of Hon. Samuel Dexter, where he died, Aug. 5, 1777.

His wife, Elizabeth [Bill] Henshaw, was a noted lady of her time. Tradition informs us of her great beauty and grace of manners, of her gentle disposition and benevolent character, sharing with her distinguished husband the respect and confidence of all who knew them.

She inherited many of her father's nobler traits, and her life was an example to all. She died at Boston, whither she had removed after the decease of her husband, Sept. 2, 1782, aged 70 years.

It is related that at her marriage there were many of the most distinguished citizens present to do honor to the occasion; also, that her bridal outfit had been imported from Europe, as well as her bridal presents, which were by no means insignificant or unimportant in those times, the chief of them being a complete and solid silver tea-service. One of these pieces is still in existence, and is, as believed, in the possession of one of the Henshaw family living at or near Boston. Her portrait was painted, as is supposed from its appearance, prior to her marriage, and is in the possession of Mrs. Miles Washburn, who also has, as we have before stated, the original portrait of Hon. Richard Bill, the father of this Elizabeth.

The children of Joshua and Elizabeth (Bill) Henshaw were:

264 Sarah (Henshaw), b. Jan. 16, 1736.

265 Richard Bill (Henshaw), b. June 10, 1737.

Andrew (Henshaw), b. ———, 1751. He died in Boston, Dec. 1782, without issue. At the special request of Sarah Henshaw, above, of Shrewsbury, Andrew Henshaw Ward, who was born there, May 26, 1789, received his name in memory of her deceased brother, Andrew Henshaw, and this accounts in part how he (Ward) came in possession of the two portraits of Richard Bill and that of his daughter. Though it is true Mr. Ward married a Miss Henshaw, what relation, if any, she was to the family of Joshua Henshaw we have not learned.

JABEZ BILL<sup>5</sup> (Thomas, Philip, Philip, John), son of Thomas Bill of Groton; born about 1745. He was a Lient. in the army of the Revolution, and at the close of the war he settled in the town of Hancock, Berkshire Co., Mass. He died in Verona, N. Y.

His descendants, if any, are unknown to us.

173.

CHARLES BILL<sup>5</sup> (Thomas, Philip, Philip, John), a brother of the preceding; was born in Groton, in 1746, and married Rhoda Leffingwell, of Norwich, Ct. 1761, April 14, Charles Bill, son of Thomas Bill, being more than fourteen years of age, chose William French to be his guardian (New London Prob. Records, vol. 6, p. 132). We find him in 1773 selling lands in the town of New London. In 1801, he removed with his family to Meredith, Delaware Co., N. Y., where he continued to reside for a considerable length of time, but about 1825 he returned to Norwich, Ct., where he died soon afterwards. He had quite a large family of children, who were raised chiefly in Delaware Co., N. Y., at which place they remained after the removal of their father.

Their names were:

- 267 † Charles, b. ——; m. Lydia Pratt.
- 268 † Andrew, 6 b. March 6, 1775; m. Susan Smith.
- 269 Parthenia, b. ——

WILLIAM BILL<sup>5</sup> (Thomas,<sup>4</sup> Philip,<sup>3</sup> Philip,<sup>2</sup> John<sup>1</sup>), a son of Thomas Bill of New London; born 1748, in that portion of New London which is now known as Montville. He married Sarah Ashley, of Westfield, Mass.

In 1769 he sells to Amos Bowles, of New London, two lots of land near the lands of Thomas Bill, for the sum of £153 2s. 6d. (New London Deeds, 19: 269.) Soon after this date he removed to Washington, Berkshire Co., Mass., where he spent the remainder of his life. In the "Documentary History of the State of N. Y.," Vol. 4: p. 670, is a petition signed by William Bill and others, and dated December 3, 1770, entitled a Petition of the Inhabitants on the West side of the Connecticut River, in the Province of New York, to John, Earl of Dunmore, Governor, of the said Province of New York.

He is said to have possessed a remarkable memory, and could repeat entire chapters from the Bible. He died Sept. 1832[4].

Their children were:

274 Sarah, b. about 1773; m. Thomas Kagwin, of Montgomery, Mass.

275 Louisa, b. near 1775; m. Amos Haskin, of Washington, Mass., where they lived and died.

276 † Bela, b. about 1779; m. Lydia Horton.

277 Anne, b. Aug. 5, 1781; m. Elisha Sibley, of Hinsdale, Mass. They lived in Rush, Genesee Co., N. Y.

278 † Charles, 6 b. April 11, 1783; m. Anna Grant.

279 † Jere, b. Feb. 2, 1788; m. Sophia Milliken.

280 Sophia, b. June 11, 1788; m. Dea. Henry Pitt, of Hinsdale, Mass. She is living at this date, and has children: Charles, William, Cynthia, and Beulah.

Capt. BENJAMIN BILL<sup>5</sup> (Benjamin,<sup>4</sup> Philip,<sup>3</sup> Philip,<sup>2</sup> John<sup>1</sup>), a son of Benjamin and Sarah (Davis) Bill; born in Groton, about 1740, and married Sarah He[o]lmes.

We find on the Groton Town Records, vol. 10, p. 44, the following sale of land, viz.: Benjamin Bill, and Christopher Bill, his brother, of Groton, Aug. 13, 1778, sells to Daniel Knowles, of Charlestown, Rhode Island, lands in Groton, receiving therefor the sum of £1,500.

This family lived in Groton, where he died March 17, 1813. Their children were:

- 281 † Benjamin, b. about 1765; m. Amy Ball.
- 282 † Philip, b. about 1767; m. Hannah Abell.
- 283 Richard, b. June 28, 1776; m. ———. He lived in what is now known as Mystic, subsequently he removed to Pennsylvania, where he left but one daughter, who also died at about the age of 22: unmarried.
- 284 Catherine, b. ——; m. James Packer, of Stonington; m. Man Stoningto
- 285 Sabra, b. ——; m. Joshua Smith, of Groton. This family also removed to Pa., where they died.
- 286 Eunice, b. ——; m. Hezekiah Abell, of Bozrah, Ct. He was a grandson of Simeon and Lydia (Gifford) Abell, of Norwich. He died at Colchester, Sept. 30, 1854. They had two sons and five daughters. One of these, Hezekiah, m. May 8, 1834, Mary Ann Bill, of Franklin, and settled at Colchester, where they were living in 1859.

189.

SAMUEL BILL<sup>5</sup> (Samuel, <sup>4</sup> Samuel, <sup>3</sup> Philip, <sup>2</sup> John<sup>1</sup>), a son of Samuel and Hannah Bill, of New London; born about 1715, and on May 10, 1737, was married to Martha Wheeler, a daughter of John Wheeler, of Long Island, New York. He received from his father, July 10, 1738, one-half of a piece of land that he had purchased of the First Society of New London. We find him selling, in 1744, to his brother Ephraim Bill, for £310, a house near Col. Salstonstal's land. Samuel Bill owned the "Covenant," and had his infant son Samuel baptized April 29, 1739. This family resided in New London. He died March 5, 1779. His widow, Martha, died July 21, 1785. Her will is dated New London, Aug. 11, 1780, in which she gives all her estate to her son Daniel, and daughter Mary Hempstead. (N. L. Prob. vol. 1, p. 179.)

The children of Samuel and Martha (Wheeler) Bill were:

287 Samuel, b. April 12, 1739.

288 John, b. April 7, 1741; d. Nov. 27, 1747.

Ephraim Bill lived, when married, in a small one and a half story frame house on Shetueket Street, near the old bridge leading to Preston, where now is located the new iron free bridge, leading to Laurel Hill, formerly a portion of Preston, but now constitutes a part of the town of Norwich, having been set off from the town of Preston about 1860. This house where Ephraim Bill lived was afterward removed across the street. This building was for many years one of the old land-marks of Norwich. Before the Revolution it was occupied by Gen. Jedediah Huntington, and in 1785 Jabez Huntington, his son, commenced business there, and since that period it has been used as a store by various mercantile firms until 1865, when it was demolished to make room for a more modern structure.

Capt. Ephraim Bill, having married the only daughter of Capt. Joshua Huntington, inherited, through her, a piece of property at the "Point," the buildings on which have been leveled and the present steamboat freight depot takes their place.

During the war of the Revolution he was active and zealous in the cause of his country and its defense, and was appointed to the responsible office of military and marine agent of the colony of Connecticut, and in that capacity displayed great industry, integrity, and perseverance. Among many transactions reported in the history of that period are the following:—

In August, 1775, he was appointed, with Benjamin Huntington, to oversee and direct the building of a Battery at Waterman's Point. In February, 1776, he was ordered to Saybrook, to superintend the ship-of-war "Defense," of 14 guns, that was being built there by the Colony; orders were drawn in his favor, by the colonial authorities, to the amount of £550, to enable him to purchase and complete her rigging and outfit; also a draft for £300, in his favor, to be expended on the ship "Oliver Cromwell."

He was also directed to take charge of the prize-ship "Sally" and schooner Hannah and Elizabeth, and distribute the proceeds. In his charge as military storekeeper he had large supplies of various stores belonging to the Colony.

His father-in-law, Joshua Huntington, conducted a large and successful mercantile business, as did his son-in-law, Ephraim Bill. They had a warehouse at Norwich Landing, and both were distinguished for their liberality and enterprise; and doubtless the town of Norwich owes more to these two men than any others that business was made to center in that place, now so flourishing.

His name appears, in 1782, with a list of merchants who protest "against illicit traffic with the enemy."

A church, 37x40 feet, was erected at Norwich Landing in 1766, and Pew No. 12 was occupied by Ephraim Bill and Hugh Ledlie.

Among the interesting reminiscences of the town, he often related that, when he was a boy, he accompanied his father in a boat from New London to Norwich, on their way to Lebanon, to visit their relatives; and at that time there were only two houses and one warehouse at the Landing.

As regards that branch of the family at Boston and vicinity, it was related by Capt. Ephraim Bill, that during one of his annual visits to Boston, for the purpose of purchasing a supply of stores, a fine-looking gentleman, dressed in red velvet and ruffled shirt, the fashion among the more noted people of those times who lived in the cities, came into a store where he was trading, and after a brief interview with the proprietor left. After his departure the storekeeper remarked: "I wished I had thought to have introduced you to the gentleman who has just gone out—it was Mr. Richard Bill, one of our most influential merchants."* This must have been the Richard Bill whose portrait illustrates this volume.

We have seen from an account of his father, that he received a piece of land in New London as a gift, in connection with his brother Samuel, who also received a similar portion; but after his removal to Norwich he sold, on July 12, 1748, this property to Joshua and Jane Appleton. (N. L. Deeds, vol. 14, p. 38; vol. 15, p. 114.)

1753, April 20. Ephraim Bill and wife Lydia sold to Eliphalet Dyer, of Windham, land wharfage at Norwich Point, west of Capt. Bushnell's wharf and warehouse, formerly belonging to Joshua Huntington, receiving therefor the sum of £150: again, he and his wife sells for £1,964 14s., to Jabez Hunt, 75 aeres on Hucklebery Plain; also 30 aeres at Salt Rock; also land on Sawpit Hill; and lands at New Hartford. (See Norwich Deeds, vol. 9, pp. 379, 472.)

His children married into some of the first families of the town, and their descendants are widespread and numerous.

He died Nov. 24, 1802, aged 83 years; and was followed to his grave by a large number of mourning relatives and friends. His wife, Lydia (Huntington) Bill, died Sept. 23, 1798, aged 71 years.

We append a copy of his will.

In the name of God, Amen. I Ephraim Bill of Norwich

in the County of New London state of Connecticut in New England, being well in health and perfect mind and memory, knowing it is appointed for all men once to die do think it convinient to make this my last will and testament which I do in manner following.

First and principally I give my soul to God its author, humbly beseeching his acceptance of it through the alone merits of my redeemer and my body to the earth for decent burial at the discretion of my friends.

And as to what worldly substance it has pleased God to bless me with I give and bequeath in the following manner, after all my just debts and funeral charges are paid.

Item. I give and bequeath to my eldest son Gurdon Bill one half of my lott of land on the little plain, between the house of the Rev. Walter King and the house of Capt. Solomon Ingraham being the Northerly side of said lott to be divided from the rest of said lott by a line running from the road to the rear of said lott in such manner as to give him one half of the front and one half of the rear as nearly as may be to him and his heirs forever.

Item. I give and bequeath to my youngest son Silvester Bill one half of my lot on the little plain above described being the northerly side of said lot and to be divided from the other side of said lot by a line drawn in such a manner as to give him one half of the front and one half of the rear as nearly as may be to him and his heirs forever.

Item. To each of my children, viz. Gurdon Bill, Silvester Bill, Lydia Howland, Elizabeth Coit and Hannah Lathrop, I give and bequeath one fifth part of all my estate both real and personal save what is herein otherwise disposed of to them and their heirs forever, provided nevertheless they be all living at that time or in the case of the death of any or either of them that they leave children, in that case are to be considered as the representative or representatives of their father or mother and to receive such part of my estate as their father or mother would have done if living but should any of my children aforesaid die without children, then that part of my estate bequeathed to him, her or them so dying without natural heirs to go to my surviving children equally among them or to their heirs in case of the death of any such of my children who shall leave heirs.

Finally—I hereby constitute and appoint my loving sons Gurdon Bill and Silvester Bill executors of this my last will and testament, and do hereby revoke and make null and void all other wills, heretofore made by me and confirm this to be my last will and testament in confirmation whereof I have hereunto set my hand and affixed my seal this seventh day of October, One Thousand Eight Hundred.

EPHRAIM BILL. (L. S.)

eldest son of Philip and Jane Bill, of Lebanon; born in Groton, Feb. 7, 1719; married Lydia Woodward, June 25, 1744.

He removed with his father to Lebanon in 1723, where it is supposed he spent his life.

1754, June 24, Philip Bill, for £800, conveys to his son Elisha a tract of land "on the northeast side of my farm." (Lebanon Deeds, vol. 9: 521.)

There are various records of purchases and sales of real estate, in which his name appears as either grantor or grantee. The date of his death is unknown. That of his widow occurred May 24, 1786.

Their children were:

- 308 † Calvin, 6 b. May 8, 1745; m. Lois Gibbs.
- 309 Rachel, b. July 2, 1747.
- 310 † Elisha, b. April 7, 1749; m. Christiana Baxter.
- 311 † Azariah, b. April 27, 1751; m Elizabeth Daggett.
- 312 † Reuben, b. June 21, 1753; m. Amy Fuller.
- 313 Lydia, b. April 26, 1756.
- 314 Aaron, b. Sept. 10, 1759; d. Oct. 27, 1769.

196.

PHILIP BILL<sup>5</sup> (Philip,<sup>4</sup> Samuel,<sup>3</sup> Philip,<sup>2</sup> John<sup>1</sup>), a brother of the preceding; born in Lebanon, Dec. 31, 1723; married at Hebron, March 4, 1747, to Mary Tilden. In the Hebron records there are various transfers of property with which his name is connected; very little is however known of this family, except the fact of one child, whose name was:

315 Joel, b. in Hebron, April 14, 1748.

197.

SOLOMON BILL<sup>5</sup> (Philip, Samuel, Philip, John), a son of Philip and Jane Bill; born in Lebanon, April 25, 1726; married Sarah Lizer, Jan. 19, 1761. We find him a resident of Middletown, Ct., about 1788. He was put under arrest, and confined to the limits of the town. The exact reason of his arrest is unknown to us, but it is supposed to have some connection with the fact of his being a member of what at that time was known as the "Strict Congregational Church," the members of which had become more or less obnoxious to the inhabitants.

His children were:

- 316 Asa, b. Aug. 2, 1761; d. March 22, 1780.
- 317 Sarah, b. Feb. 10, 1763; m. Tristram Hall, of Rhode Island.
- 318 Mary, b. Nov. 8, 1764; m. (1) Joshua Buffum. (2) —— Lane; both of Salem, Mass.
- 319 Martha, b. Feb. 15, 1766; m. Obadiah Johnson, and lived in Mexico, N. Y.
- 320 † John, b. March 28, 1769; m. (1) Fanny Rogers. (2) Anna Star.
- 321 Lois, <sup>6</sup> b. April 14, 1771; d. Sept., 1822.

JONATHAN BILL<sup>5</sup> (Philip, Samuel, Philip, John), a son of Philip and Elizabeth Bill; born in Lebanon, Sept. 15, 1735; m. March 3, 1756, to ELIZABETH DUNDAM. He was called Jonathan Bill, Jr., to distinguish him from his second cousin, Jonathan Bill, born Feb. 6, 1725–6, and son of John Bill.

After 1786, this family entirely disappear.

202.

SAMUEL BILL<sup>6</sup> (Philip, Samuel, Philip, John), a brother of the preceding; born in Lebanon, July 4, 1744; married for his first wife Martha Goodwin, Sept. 25, 1756. For his second wife he married Sarah Mills (?), March 29, 1789. This family lived in Middletown, Ct.

His children were, by his first wife, Martha:

- 322 Jonathan, b. Aug. 15, 1767; m. Lucy Paddock, July 3, 1797.
- 323 Samuel, b. Dec. 25, 1786.

  His children by second wife, Sarah, were:

324 Sally, b. June 5, 1789.

325 Polly, b. June 20, 1791.

326 Harriet, b. April 22, 1793.

203

JAMES BILL<sup>5</sup> (James, Samuel, Philip, John), eldest son of Samuel and Mary Bill; born in Lebanon, Ct., Dec. 31, 1717; m. Mary——.

This family resided in Lebanon until about 1755, when they removed to Wantage, New Jersey, as would appear from the following deed, to which reference has heretofore been made. (See account of his father.)

1750, Dec. 14. James Bill, late of Lebanon, now of Wantage, Sussex Co., N. J., for £400, quit-claims to Hezekiah Newcomb 100 acres of land in the village of Lebanon, formerly belonging to my father, James Bill. (See Lebanon Deeds, 19: 338.)

He had the following children:

327 Anna, b. Nov. 23, 1744.

328 Azariah, b. April 15, 1748; baptized July 17, same year.

204.

JEDIDIAH BILL<sup>5</sup> (James, Samuel, Philip, John), a brother of the preceding; born in Lebanon, July 18, 1719: married Hannah Foster, April 10, 1740. It is supposed he removed with his brother James, above, to New Jersey.

His children, born in Lebanon, were:

329 Israel, b. Nov. 4, 1740.

330 Sarah, b. Jan. 31, 1743.

331 Dan, b. May 5, 1744.

332 Jedidiah, b. March 1, 1746.

333 Esther, b. Dec. 29, 1747.

208.

JONATHAN BILL<sup>5</sup> (James, <sup>4</sup> Samuel, <sup>3</sup> Philip, <sup>2</sup> John<sup>1</sup>), a son of James and Mary Bill; born in Hebron, Ct., August 3, 1731; married Esther Owen, Aug. 1, 1749. After a brief residence in Lebanon, he removed to Salisbury, Ct., where he died.

Their children were:

- 334 Mary, b. in Lebanon, May 6, 1750; m. Hezekiah Colburn.
- 335 † Roswell, b. in Salisbury, Dec. 29, 1753; m. Rebecca Burgess.

209.

SAMUEL BILL<sup>5</sup> (Ebenezer, <sup>4</sup> Samuel, <sup>3</sup> Philip, <sup>2</sup> John<sup>1</sup>), the eldest son, as is supposed, of Ebenezer and Patience (Ingraham) Bill, of Lebanon, Ct.; born in Groton, Sept. 25, 1719; was married Sept. 16, 1742, to Sarah Bond, at Hebron, a town adjoining Lebanon. She was born May 28, 1719. It is supposed that he removed with his father and his brothers to Nova Scotia, and afterwards returned to Connecticut, though we are not certain upon this point; but we are certain that a few years prior to the Revolution he removed from the town of Hebron (where he had first settled after marriage), with all his children, to Gilsum, N. H., where he died.

1748, Jan. 28. Samuel Bill quit-claims 45 acres of land in Hebron, in exchange for other lands. (Hebron Deeds, vol. 3, p. 212.)

Their children were:

- 336 Samuel, b. in Hebron, Aug. 7, 1744; died young.
- 337 † Sarah, b. in Hebron, Jan. 30, 1746-7; m. Ebenezer Kilburn.
- 338 † Elizabeth, b. in Hebron, Feb. 5, 1748-9; m. John Rowe.
- 339 † Ebenezer, b. in Hebron, Jan. 19, 1750-1; m. Rachel Root.
- 340 † David, b. March 2, 1753; m. (1)——. (2) Susan Locke.
- 341 † Patience, b. July 26, 1757; m. Gen. Daniel Wright.
- 342 Rachel, b. Jan. 7, 1760; m. Jonathan Church. They lived in Gilsum, where he died April, 1826. She died, same place, Jan. 3, 1841. They had children: Olive, Rachel, and Betsey.

343 † Samuel, b. Feb. 27, 1763; m. Lydia Mack.

215.

Lieut. THOMAS BILL<sup>5</sup> (Ebenezer, <sup>4</sup> Samuel, <sup>3</sup> Philip, <sup>2</sup> John'), a son of Ebenezer and Patience (Ingraham) Bill; born in Lebanon, Feb, 28, 1741–2; married for his first wife, Anna Phelps, Dec. 19, 1765. She died July 4, 1773. For his second wife, he married Elizabeth Gager, widow of William Gager.

He resided in the north part of Lebanon, which was then called "The Crank," now in the town of Columbia. It is reported that he removed with his parents to Nova Scotia; if so, he could not have remained there long; indeed, there is some doubt as to his ever having gone there.

He was an Ensign in the Connecticut company at the battle of Bunker Hill, under the command of Gen. Israel Putnam. He was in "General Orders" commended for his great courage, and bravery in battle.

1779 Abijah Lincoln, for £2,000, sells to Thomas Bill lands he bought of S. Gary. His name appears very often in the Lebanon town records, but we have no space for them, as in themselves they seem unimportant.

He died in 1805, and of his family we have no account.

216.

ASAHEL BILL' (Ebenezer', Samuel', Philip', John'), a son of Ebenezer and Patience (Ingraham) Bill; born in Lebanon, Ct., April 7, 1748.

He removed with his father to Nova Scotia about 1755, where he was married to one Mary Rand, a supposed native of that Province, though this is not certain.

Asahel Bill, soon after his marriage, settled on a magnificent tract of land in central Cornwallis, afterwards called Billtown. He was highly respected for his integrity of character and for his truly Christian life. By his industry and frugality he accumulated what was then considered a large property. His influence was always on the side of virtue and of truth. As such he was much beloved and honored in his life, and in death deeply lamented. His wife was a truly Christian woman, and trained her household in the nurture and admonition of the Lord.

Their children were:

- 344 Meltiah, b. ---; died in infancy.
- 345 Asahel, b. ——; died in infancy.
- 346 † John Mahen, b. ——; m. (1) Sarah De Wolf. (2) Jane Bentley.
- 347 † Caleb Rand, b. ——; m. Rebecea Cogswell.
- 348 † Sarah, b. ———; m. James Calkins.
- 349 Charlotte, b. —; d. in infancy.
- 350 Rebecca, b. ; m. Samuel Rockwell, and had eight children.
- 351 † Mary, 6 b. Nov. 25, 1794; m. Stephen Eaton.
- 352 Lavinia, b. ——; m. Thomas Hemming.
- 353† Ingram Ebenezer, b. Feb. 19, 1805; m. Isabella Lyons.

218.

SIMEON BILL (John , John , Philip , John ), eldest son of John and Mary Bill; was born in Lebanon, November 8, 1723; married Martha——.

His father gave him by will a tract of land in Lebanon, which he afterwards sold to his brother Jonathan. (Lebanon Deeds, 7: 110.)

After his marriage he removed to Sheffield, Mass. They had children:

- 354 Lucretia, b. Aug. 7, 1755; d. young.
- 355 Zilpah, b. Sept. 3, 1757; m. Foskett, and removed to Vt.
- $356 \dagger \mathrm{Hosea},^{6}$ b. Aug. 22, 1759 ; m. Sarah Kellogg.
- 357 Zeruiah, b. May 13, 1763; m. David Ferry.
- 358 Adonijah, b. July 15, 1765; died unmarried.

JONATHAN BILL<sup>5</sup> (John<sup>4</sup>, John<sup>3</sup>, Philip<sup>2</sup>, John<sup>1</sup>), a brother of the preceding; born in Lebanon, February 6, 1725-6, and was married, first, to Mary ———; second, to Phebe ———.

He was a large and prosperous farmer in Exeter Society, Lebanon.

There are eight transactions in real estate on record in which he figures, and which afford ample evidence of his prosperity, above referred to.

He died April 29, 1796. He was buried in the Exeter Society Cemetery, where his gravestone may now be found, with the following inscription: "In memory of Mr. Jonathan Bill, who departed this life April 29, 1796, in the 71st year of his age."

His children were:

- 359 Lucy, b. Feb. 25, 1752; m. Thomas Clark.
- 360 Joseph, b. Feb. 8, 1754; was a soldier in the Revolution, and died on or near Lake Champlain.
- 361 † Jonathan, b. April 21, 1756; m. his cousin, Asenath Bill.
- 362 † Eleazer, 6 b. Feb. 24, 1758; m. (1) Elizabeth Cole. (2) Betsey Fitch.

JUDAH BILL, (John, John, Philip, John), a brother of the preceding; born in Lebanon, Feb. 6, 1730-1.

This son is called Judith in his father's will.

He was living in 1795, the date of his mother's will. He removed from Lebanon and is lost to us.

222.

JOHN BILL<sup>5</sup> (John, John, Philip, John), a brother of the preceding; born in Lebanon, June 6, 1733.

He was living in 1795, though he had removed from Lebanon prior to that date, and his family are unknown.

225,

ELIJAH BILL<sup>5</sup> (John, John, Philip, John), a brother of the preceding; was born in Lebanon, May 1, 1736, and married Patience Barber.

After selling his real estate left to him by his father, he was married and removed to Harwinton, Ct.

His children were:

363 † Elijah, b. December, 1762; m. Nancy Scott.

364 Eliphalet, b.

365 Comfort, b. ——; m. Hezekiah Hubbard.

366 Mehitable, b.

367 Roswell, b.

368 Mary, b.

369 Sarah, b.

230.

AMOS BILL<sup>5</sup> (James, John, Philip, John), the eldest son of Lieut. James and Keziah (French) Bill; was born in Lebanon, about 1730, and married——.

It is supposed, from the fact that Amos Bill and Jerusha Bill being witnesses to the execution of a deed of land given by Dea. John Newcomb to Jonathan Trumbull, that she was the wife of Amos Bill. Of course it is mere conjecture, yet it is quite probable that his wife's name was Jerusha.

He removed from Lebanon to the adjoining town of Colchester somewhere about 1760. To Cornellis 12, 8,

His children, as known from the Lebanon records, were.

370 Jerusha, bap. Dec. 17, 1758.

371 Bethiah, bap. May 20, 1759.

It is quite likely he had other children, born in Colchester.

231.

PELEG BILL<sup>5</sup> (James, John, Philip, John), a brother of the preceding, Amos Bill; was born in Lebanon, Jan. 8, 1733, and married Jerusha——.

He lived in Colchester, where he owned a small tract of land, and was a soldier in the old French War, and was stationed near Lake George. No record of his death is found, but it is presumed he never returned from his campaign.

His widow, Jerusha Bill, was married to Lemuel Clark, of Mansfield, Ct., March 9, 1763. By this connection there were several children who stand related to "President Edwards," "Grace Greenwood," and others of note.

The children of Peleg and Jerusha Bill were:

372 Jerusha, bap. July 25, 1756.

373 † Abiel, bap. June 18, 1758.

232.

Deacon JAMES BILL' (James, John, Philip, John), a brother of the preceding; was born in Lebanon, Feb. 20, 1736, and married Asenath Norton, July 13, 1758. She was born Dec. 1, 1738, and was the daughter of the Rev. John Norton, of Middletown, of which Chatham formed at that time a part.

He lived in East Hampton, a parish in the town of Chatham, where he removed in 1763, to lands given him by his father in that year, where he spent the remainder of his life.

Dea. James was highly respected among his neighbors, and was a man of no little character. He was a Justice of the Peace for a considerable length of time, and was chosen a representative to the State Legislature twelve consecutive sittings of that body, commencing with the fall session of 1782. There were at that period two annual sessions.

He died July 25, 1823, aged 87. His wife died Jan. 2, 1810, aged 71.

Their children were:

374 Asenath, b. Nov. 13, 1759; m. Jonathan Bill (No. 361).

375 Lucy, b. Dec. 3, 1761; m. Apollos Arnold.

376 James, b. Feb. 4, 1764. He removed, it is supposed, to New York, and represented Albany in the State Legislature, was afterwards County Clerk of Greene County in that State, and again he appears as a Judge in Oswego County. We have been unable to get any trace of his descendants.

- 377 Elvira, b. Feb. 22, 1766; m. Eleazer Skinner. Died in Steuben, N. Y.
- 378 Erastus, b. July 6, 1768; m. (1) Charlotte ——. (2)
  Sally Hall. This family lived in Southwick,
  Mass. They had a son Erastus, b. 1805, who m.
  (2) Eliza Miller, and lived in Westfield, Mass.
- 379 Norton, b. July 14, 1770; m. Sally Buell. He was a young physician of great promise. Died Jan. 6, 1798, in Chatham, aged 27 years. She died April 17, 1794, aged 20 years. They had two children, Sally and Julius. He removed to Ohio, where he died.
- 380 Clarissa, b. Aug. 18, 1772; m. her cousin, Oliver Bill.
- 381 Achsah, b. Nov. 1, 1774; d. July 8, 1775.
- 382 Achsah, b. Aug. 26, 1776; d. May 3, 1812.
- 383 Amos, b. June 9, 1779; m. Hannah Ingham. They lived and died in Poland, N. Y.
- 384 Abner, b. Aug. 11, 1781; d. Dec. 27, 1809, at Canandaigua, N. Y.

The descendants of this large family of children are quite lost to us, and it seems incomprehensible that it should be so. We are informed by the town clerk of Chatham that the "sons of James Bill have not resided in Chatham for about sixty-six years," or not since in 1800. It must be that in the State of New York there are lineal descendants of some of these sons. Every effort was put forth to find them out, but without success. Perhaps of all the families we have traced, this is left in the most obscurity."

233.

OLIVER BILL' (James, John, Philip, John), son of Lieut. James and Keziah Bill, and a brother of the preceding Dea. James Bill; was born in Lebanon, Oct. 27, 1737, and was married to Martha Skinner, Sept. 3, 1763.

He lived in Goshen Society, Lebanon, where he spent a long and useful life, enjoying the respect and confidence of his townsmen.

He held many public offices, which we judge he must have filled with honor to his town and credit to himself. He held the position of Tithing-man, Assessor, Highway Surveyor, Constable (for five years), Grand Juror, &c.

1767, April 13. Oliver Bill and others were allowed by the town to build a dam on the Great Brook coming out of the Great Meadow.

His father, in 1759 and 1763, conveys to his son Oliver parcels of land in Groton. (Lebanon Deeds, 10: 91, 92.)

1773. Daniel Webster, for £50, sells to Oliver Bill 15 acres and 72 rods in Lebanon: also 5 acres on the road to Colchester. (Ibid., 12: 185).

He was buried in the cemetery, in Exeter Parish, Lebanon, near the grave of his father and mother. His gravestone has the following inscription: "In affectionate remembrance of Mr. Oliver Bill, who died May 23, 1828, in the 91st year of his age." Close by is the grave of his wife, with this inscription on her gravestone: "In affectionate remembrance of Mrs. Martha, wife of Oliver Bill, who died March 22, 1805, in the 63d year of her age."

The children of Oliver and Martha (Skinner) Bill were:

- 385 Martha, b. Jan. 10, 1765; m. Moses Clark. Died at Grand Rapids, Mich.
- 386 Apama, b. Oct. 22, 1766; m. Frederic Clark. Died at Madrid, N. Y., 1857.
- 387 Betty, b. Feb. 27, 1768; m. Abner Clark. Died at Madrid, N. Y., 1843.
- 388 † Earl, 6 b. Nov. 5, 1770; m. (1) Sarah Jackson. (2) Olive Baker. (3) Susan Johnson.
- 389 † Cyrus, 6 b. Oct. 17, 1772; m. Eunice Taintor.
- 390 † Oliver, 6 b. Oct. 29, 1774; m. Clarissa Bill, his cousin.
- 391 Jerusha, b. July 29, 1776; m. Dea. Nathaniel Johnson, and resided at Trenton, N. Y.

392 † Amos, b. June 10, 1779; m. Clarinda Porter.

ELIPHALET BILL<sup>5</sup> (Benajah, <sup>4</sup> John<sup>3</sup>, Philip, <sup>2</sup> John<sup>1</sup>), the son of Benajah and Mary Bill; born at "Lebanon Crank" [Columbia], August 25, 1750. He married Dorothy Marsh about 1772. She was born April 20, 1752, and was the daughter of Joseph [who was the son of Joseph and Mercy (Bill) Marsh] and Dorothy (Mason) Marsh, of Lebanon; afterward he removed to Hartford, Vt., the place of residence of Hon. Joseph Marsh, his father-in-law.

It is said that many families in Lebanon sold their farms and removed to Vermont about the time the Rev. Eleazer Wheelock founded Dartmouth College, at Hanover, N. H. This divine was for many years the pastor of the people living in the northern portion of Lebanon.

Mr. Bill was a farmer and a man of considerable note, and occupied several public stations of importance.

1778. He sells to Asa Aspinwall a farm of 70 acres near Dr. Lathrop and Dr. Story. (Lebanon Deeds, 13: 58.)

There are several transactions in real estate on record in which he was an interested party.

Eliphalet Bill died at Cabot, Vermont, whither he had removed, September, 1825, aged 75. His widow, Dorothy, died at Orange, Vt., March, 1835, aged 83.

The children of Eliphalet and Dorothy (Mason) Bill, born in Lebanon, were:

394 † Benajah, b. near 1773; m. Hannah Udall.

395 † Eliphalet Mason, 6 b. Sept. 6, 1775; m. Rhoda Pitkin.

396 † Mary, b. about 1777; m. Thomas White Pitkin.

397 Dorothy, b. about 1779; m. Olmstead Gates. This family removed to Canada West; they had one son, Ogden (Gates), who resides at Longueil, C. W.

Children born at Hartford, Vt.:

398 Roswell, b. about 178-. He studied medicine, and became a practising physician in New Chester, N. H. He died in 1812, at his father's, deeply lamented.

399 Betsey, b. Dec. 8, 1791; m. (1) Josiah Fifield, Nov. 14, 1816. She was his second wife. He died at Albany, Vt., Oct 1, 1850. They had no children. She m. (2) Zenas Smith, May 9, 1858, and was also his second wife. They now live at West Topsham, Vt., having no children.

400 † Dyer, b. April 7, 1794; m. (1) Ruth Richardson. (2) Ruth P. Coburn.

401 † Almira, b. Sept. 23, 1799; m. (1) Samuel Smith. (2) [Amos Sanborn.

PHINEAS BILL<sup>5</sup> (Phineas, Joshua, Philip, John), the eldest son of Phineas and Mehitable (Woodworth) Bill, was born in that portion of Groton which is now Ledyard, on September 8, 1751. He married Mercy Allyn, the grand-daughter, as is believed, of Robert Allyn, Esquire, one of the early settlers on the east side of the Thames River. She was born November 16, 1751.

He was by trade a cooper, and lived in what is now known as the "Phineas Bill House," situate in the town of Ledyard. He inherited this property at the death of his father, in 1780. His occupation was, in those days, far more remunerative than that of husbandry, from the fact that the city of New London was largely engaged in the whale fisheries, thus creating an extensive demand for casks. The whaling business was for many years so profitable, that it absorbed, in various ways, the attention and labors of the surrounding population.

In 1818 he removed with his family to Palmyra, New York, where he afterwards lived upwards of twenty years.

In the account given of his grandfather, Joshua Bill,3 we related how we traced and obtained a knowledge of his old Family Bible, &c. We may properly add a word here relating to it. This valuable and interesting relic was naturally left to the possession of this Phineas Bill by his father, Phineas Bill, since he continued to live where his father had lived and died, thus not only becoming the possessor of the homestead, but also of all the family papers and household relics, and it is not improbable that this Bible was left to him especially, since he was the eldest son. On his removal to Palmyra he carried this treasure with him, and, dying before his wife, it came under her control, since he left no will. At her death, which occurred some four years subsequently, she placed it in the keeping of her grand-daughter, Sarah Caroline Allyn, the daughter of Park and Mercy (Bill) Allyn, in whose family she lived after the death of her husband, Phineas Bill.<sup>5</sup> Thus we see how this ancient relic of the Bill family has passed from out the keeping of any bearing the family name. It is a precious relie, and the writer hopes that, at some future period, it may be restored to the family, and ever kept among the male descendants as long as time shall last, for the reason that these things serve to connect the latest with the earlier generations, and link them together in memory. Nothing searce serves so much among earthly things to hold the living to truth and virtue as some precious memento of dear ones departed, and this ancient relic above named is thrice hallowed in view of the birth and death of at least three generations, unto whose lives it proved ever a joy and a consolation.

Phineas Bill died at Palmyra, January 25, 1839, aged 87 years, 4 months, and 17 days. His wife, Merey (Allyn) Bill, died at same place, on April 11, 1843, aged 91 years, 4 months, and 25 days.

They had fourteen children, all born in Groton, but we have learned only the names of the following:

403 † Richard Dayton, b. Nov. 25, 1772; m. Tabitha Allyn.

404 Avery, b. ———, 1774; m. in Wilmington, N. C., which place he made his residence. His occupation was a sailing-master. He died at Wilmington, Nov., 1811, aged 37. It is believed he left several children, the descendants of whom are scattered in various sections of the South. There was, during the war, a Lieut. Bill, taken as a rebel prisoner, and for a time confined at Fort Warren, Boston Harbor; at least, such was the published report, though we were unable to prove the fact, since the officers of the said fort refused to give any information.

It is known to the writer that, during his travels several years since in the eastern portion of Tennessee, he learned of a family of Bills living in the southwestern portion of Virginia. It is also known to us that, prior to the war, and while we were living at Louisville, Ky., we met there a Mr. Bill, who resided in Florida. We took his name and address, but in our removal from that city, in 1861, the memorandum was lost, and the name cannot be given, but, possibly, this Avery Bill may have been the ancestor of the several families indicated above.

- 405 † Mercy, b. Oct. 7, 1776; m. (1) Allyn Turner. (2) Park Allyn.
- 406 Lucy Maria, b. —— 1779; d. in Groton, April 22, 1801.
- 407 Isaac, b. ———; m. a widow, whose name is unknown.

  He lived for a while in Troy, N. Y., became very intemperate, and finally died at Hartford, Ct., about 1835.
- 408 † Nancy, b. Jan. 17, 1785; m. Eldridge Havens.
- 409 Benjamin Franklin, b. ——; m. a western lady; removed to Louisiana, as is supposed, where he died about 1840, leaving several children.

410 Tabitha, b. — 1790; d. May, 1794.

411 † David, b. ---; m. Hannah Babcock.

BENAJAH BILL<sup>5</sup> (Phineas, Joshua, Philip, John), the second son of Phineas and Mehitable (Woodworth) Bill; was born in Groton, June 29, 1760, and was married in 1782, Jan. 17, to Content Park. She was born Feb. 4, 1761.

In the earlier part of his life he lived on what is now known as "Meeting-House Hill," in the present town of Ledyard, though formerly a part of Groton. He followed the trade of a cooper, as did his father and brothers. Later in life he removed to Lyme, Ct., about 20 miles west from his previous residence, and there he engaged in husbandry.

He died at Lyme, May 22, 1842, in his eighty-second year. Content, his wife, died May 27, 1845, aged 84.

Their children, born in old Giron, were:

- 412 Polly, b. Dec. 29, 1782; m. Nov. 3, 1803, Samuel Newton, of N. H. had one son, Isaac Sherman (Newton), b. Nov. 14, 1804. He is now living in or near Akron, Ohio.
- 413 † Lodowick, b. Oct. 9, 1784; m. Betsey Geer.
- 414 Eunice Park, b. Jan. 27, 1788; m. S. Newton, widower.
- 415 † Alexander Tullius Franklin, b. Nov. 27, 1790: unmarried.
- 416 † Sarah, b. May 7, 1793; m. (1) Amos Williams. (2) Jacob Gallup.
- 417 † Elisha Satterlee, b. March 1, 1796; m. (1) Olivet Geer. (2) C. L. A. W. Barber.
- 418 † Nelson Horatius, b. Sept. 24, 1798; m. Betsey Stark.
- 419 Park Allyn, b. July 1, 1801; m. Maria Barrows, of South Mansfield, Ct. She was born April 17, 1798. They removed to Saquoit, Oneida County, N. Y., where they now live. No children.
- 420 Lyman Edgecomb, b. April 13, 1805; m. Nov. 5, 1828, Maria Hugh, of Bozrah, Ct. They removed to Tennessee, where they still reside. They have had three children, one of whom is reported as killed while fighting for the rebellion; another lives in Memphis, who, during the war, visited the North, and foolishly boasted that his next visit would only be after the South should be recognized as an independent power. It is thought by some he will not be this way very soon! The other is a daughter of brilliant mental powers, and a pleasing person. We learn she was recently married. Our letters of inquiry have never been answered by this family.

421 An infant, that died soon after its birth.

JOSHUA BILL<sup>5</sup> (Phineas, Joshua, Philip, John), the third son of Phineas and Mehitable (Woodworth) Bill; was born in that part of the old town of Groton which is now Ledyard, on the 14th of May, 1762. He married Abigail Miner, who was born Dec. 15, 1759.

The life of Joshua Bill was not an eventful one, yet it can be truthfully said to have embraced many estimable traits of character. As a man, he was of a quiet and unobtrusive disposition, though not lacking in the elements of energy or force on occasion. His occupation and the demands of a large family on his time quite absorbed his labors and attention. In early life he learned the trade which was his father's, and this gave him and his family, together with agricultural pursuits, a good living. He settled not far from the place of his birth, about equidistant between it and "Meeting-House Hill"—a place before referred to—in the town of Groton [Ledyard].

He was a man of strictly temperate habits, and possessed fine social qualities and exhibited eminent Christian virtues. His home was ever a cheerful and a happy one.

He was a soldier of the Revolution, and was wounded in the leg, while serving his country, by means of a cannonshot, which caused him much suffering and trouble. In the later part of his life, through the exertions of his son, Gurdon Bill, a pension was granted him by the Government of eight dollars per month.

He died on the 20th of December, 1841, in the 80th year of his age, at the house of his son Gurdon, in Ledyard, and was buried in the family burying-ground, on the farm belonging to his son above named. His wife Abigail died Feb. 14, 1839, aged 79.

Their children were:

422 † Gurdon, b. Jan. 18, 1784; m. Lucy Yerrington.

423 † Sabrina, b. Jan. 14, 1786; m. Samuel Taylor.

424 † Sarah, b. Sept. 16, 1787; m. Robert Chapman.

425 † Phineas, b. Sept. 16, 1789; m. Fanny Gallup.

426 † Abigail, b. Aug. 29, 1791; m. Samuel Taylor.

427 † Betsey, b. Aug. 24, 1793; m. John Darrow.

428 Fanny, b. March 9, 1795; m. Jesse Bedent, of Poquetonnock, a village situate on the northwest boundary line separating the towns of Ledyard and Preston. She died in about three months after her marriage, and was buried near her birthplace.

429 † Avery, b. Oct. 1, 1796; m. Betsey Barnes.

430 Nancy, b. June 2, 1798; d. Oct. —, 1799.

BENJAMIN BILL<sup>6</sup> (Charles, Jonathan, James, John<sup>1</sup>), a son of Charles and Ruth (Fuller) Bill, of Chelsea, Mass.; was born there, Nov. 17, 1741, and married 1761, April 16, Elizabeth Watts, who was born March 9, 1742, the daughter of Richard and Sarah Watts, of Chelsea.

He was a resident of Chelsea, and died there prior to Aug. 14, 1774, at which time his widow, Elizabeth, was published to John Watts, to whom she was aftewards married. This John Watts was lost at sea, and Elizabeth, the now widow of both Benjamin Bill and John Watts, died in Boston about 1828.

The only child of Benjamin and Elizabeth (Watts) Bill, so far as known, was:

431 † Benjamin, b. Jan. 19, 1762; m. Tabitha Nichols.

263.

RICHARD BILL (Samuel, Samuel, Samuel, Thomas, John), the supposed son of Samuel Bill, yet an unusual cloud of doubt rests on this supposition. There are one or two reasons for giving this person a place here. The contradictory statements and the faint recollection of his descendants, even with the grandchildren, with whom we have corresponded, tend to give great uncertainty as to the place of this Richard, yet it is our belief he belongs here.*

He married Abigail Kenney, the daughter of Dea. Moses Kenney, March 31, 1768.

Their children were:

432 † Gardner, b. near Boston, Sept. 19, 1773; m. Arpatia Church.

433 † Davis, b. about 1775.

CHARLES BILL<sup>6</sup> (William, Thomas, Philip, Philip, John<sup>1</sup>), the second son of William and Sarah (Ashley) Bill; was born in Washington, Mass., April 11, 1783, and married Anna Grant, of Montgomery, Mass., Sept. 8, 1815.

He was a man of some poetic talent, as we learn. He wrote poetry with great ease, and had his advantages been more than what is picked up at country schools, he might have turned his attention wholly to literature with credit to himself. He certainly possessed fine natural talents, and for a while taught school.

He was a resident of his native town up to the time of his death, which event was caused by the fall of a tree, in 1823, which he was cutting down.

The children of Charles and Anna (Grant) Bill were:

457 John, b.

458 Charles, b.

459 William, b.

460 Sabrina, b.

461 Juliette, b.

JERE BILL<sup>6</sup> (William, Thomas, Philip, Philip, John), a brother of the above Charles Bill; born Feb. 2, 1785, at Washington, Mass.; was married May 19, 1814, to SOPHIA MILLIKEN, of the same town.

He was famed as a school-teacher, having taught thirty terms, to the entire satisfaction of the public. There is evidence in the various members of this family of a high degree of literary culture.

His residence was in the town of his birth, where he died on 29th May, 1844. His widow died July 2, 1863, aged 71. Their children were:

- 462 William Ashley, b. March 12, 1815; m. June 1, 1840, C. Maria Clark, of Vt. He resides in Chicago; where for many years he has prosecuted an extensive wholesale boot and shoe trade, under the firm name of Fargo & Bill. His firm was the first to introduce in the Northwest the manufacture of heavy boots and shoes. Since the war he has withdrawn from said firm and entered into the manufacture of leather; a large stock company having been formed for that purpose, of which he was chosen President. He has one child only: Edwin Layton, b. June 20, 1847.
- 463 Henrietta Sophia, b. Aug. 12, 1820; m. Oct. 23, 1849, to William Avery Wright, of Montgomery, Mass. They have only one child:

  Jere Bill (Wright), b. Sept. 24, 1851.

BENJAMIN BILL<sup>6</sup> (Benjamin, Benjamin, Philip, Philip, John<sup>1</sup>), the eldest son of Capt. Benjamin and Sarah (He[o]lmes) Bill, of Groton; born about 1765; married to Amy Ball, May 8, 1791.

It is supposed this family lived in Groton. They had one child, named—465 Fanny, b. —; m. Feb. 3, 1822, Peter L. Hurlburt, of Groton. They lived at Gale's Ferry, Groton, which, in the division of that town, in 1836, was included in Ledyard. They both died there. She died in 1866, having survived her husband several years. They had several children.

282.

PHILIP BILL' (Benjamin, Benjamin, Philip, Philip, John'), a brother of the preceding; was born in Groton, in 1767, and was married to Hannah Abell; she was born April 15, 1773, daughter of Simeon and Lydia (Gifford) Bill, For Simeon and Lydia (Gifford) Bill, For Simeon and Lydia (Gifford) Bill, Philip, of Bozrah, Ct.

He lived for a while in Bozrah, afterwards in Franklin, an adjoining town. His occupation is supposed to have been that of a husbandman.

He died March 11, 1813, aged 46, and was buried in Bozrah. His inventory, dated April 1, 1813, amounted to $3,048.30, including 68 acres of land. It is from this inventory that we learn he was a resident of Franklin. (Norwich Probate Records.)

His widow survived him 46 years, and died April 15, 1859, aged 86. They had children:

466 Benjamin, b. —, 1798. Never married. He was a merchant in Franklin many years, and acquired a handsome property. He died March 17, 1855, aged 57.

467 Martha Abell, b.

Hannah Bill<sup>8</sup> (Abell), unmarried.

292.

DAVID BILL<sup>6</sup> (Samuel,<sup>5</sup> Samuel,<sup>4</sup> Samuel,<sup>3</sup> Philip,<sup>2</sup> John<sup>4</sup>), son of Samuel and Martha (Wheeler) Bill, of New London; was born October 2, 1751; married TEMPERANCE HARRIS, in 1776.

This David Bill removed to Boston, where he was living in 1776, June 25. He removed from there, as is supposed, but to what place is unknown, except it be New London, where, it is believed, he had children:

471 Mary, b. about 1777.

472 † David, b. about 1779; m. Mary P. Gallagher.

293.

DANIEL BILL<sup>6</sup> (Samuel,<sup>5</sup> Samuel,<sup>4</sup> Samuel,<sup>3</sup> Philip,<sup>2</sup> John<sup>4</sup>), a brother of the preceding; born in New London, December 1, 1755; m. Joanna——.

He lived in Groton. He must have died prior to 1823, as at that time his estate was distributed to his heirs. His children were:

473 Patty, b. ----; m. Orlando Hedden.

474 Jemima.

475 Mary, '——; m. —— Edgecomb. Had a daughter:

Bill, of Norwich. She was born July 7, 1753; married Joseph Howland, of Norwich, May 26, 1772. He was born October 11, 1750.

Joseph Howland was for forty years one of the most enterprising merchants of Norwich, and his name is identified with many of the early enterprises of that town. He finally removed to New York with his family, where his descendants have become eminent in the commercial circles of that metropolis. The names of "Howland and Aspinwall" are widely known in both hemispheres among business men.

He died at New York, March 11, 1836. She died there, May 1, 1838.

The children of Joseph and Lydia (Bill) Howland were:

- 476 Lydia† (Howland), b. Oct. 3, 1773; m. Levi Coit, of Norwich, Feb. 5, 1794. He was for many years a merchant of New York. He died Jan. 5, 1851. She died Jan. 7, 1852.
- 477 Abigail (Howland), b. Aug. 17, 1776; m. George M. Woolsey, Sept. 26, 1797. She died March 4, 1833. He resided in England the latter part of his life, and was interested in mercantile affairs.
- 478 Susan (Howland), b. May 20, 1779; m. John Aspinwall. He died Oct. 6, 1847. She died Dec. 23, 1832. They were the parents of William H. Aspinwall, the present distinguished and benevolent merchant of New York. A brief outline of the career of this eminent descendant of Lydia (Bill) Howland will surely be welcome. He was, at an early age, placed in the counting-room of his uncles, G. G. and S. S. Howland, who were extensively engaged in a foreign commission business. His opportunity to become a thorough merchant was improved, and, in the retirement of his uncles, a new firm was formed, consisting of William Edgar Howland and William H. Aspinwall, under the firm-name of Howland & Aspinwall. They soon became a leading, prominent house, and were largely engaged in the Pacific coast trade; and on the opening of the California markets, and at the commencement of the gold excitement, they were among the first to enter this new field, and during the years that followed, fortunes were rolled in upon them. In 1848, Wm. H. Aspinwall retired from business, giving place to his son and cousin, who still continue the firm-name and business. His efforts and time, after withdrawal from the firm, were given to the Panama Railroad and Pacific Mail Steamship Companies, which companies were largely indebted to his perseverance, character, and firmness, in carrying them forward to a successful completion. The name of Aspinwall was given to the terminus of this railroad, on the Isthmus, in his honor.

At his New York residence he has a large and extensive gallery of paintings, to which, with his usual liberality, the public often have free access.

Capt. GURDON BILL*6 (Ephraim, Samuel, Samuel, Philip, John), son of Capt. Ephraim and Lydia (Huntington) Bill, was born in Norwich, Aug. 26, 1757; and married Betsey Backus Tracy, Dec. 24, 1797. She was born March 20, 1781, and died July 31, 1847.

His early days were spent at Norwich, in procuring the elements of an education such as those times afforded, but as he grew up a spirit of adventure and the prospect of gain held out by a seafaring life tempted him to select that as his future occupation. Among the many voyages, we find recorded the following. In November, 1784, he commanded the "strong built double brigantine Little Joe"—owned by Howland and Coit, and named after Mr. Howland's son. In her he made a voyage to London. In 1785 he made two voyages to different ports in Europe in the ship "Centurion." In December, 1798, he sailed for the West Indies in the schooner "Hannah." She was seized by the French, carried into Guadaloupe, and there confiscated. He was an enterprising and successful shipmaster, and contributed much to the revival of commerce, after the prostration caused by the Revolution, at the ports of Norwich and New London. He was an officer, a lieutenant of marines, in 1798, in the U.S. Navy, and the particular favorite of Commodore Truxton. Capt. Bill gave the name of this gallant officer to his eldest son.

In 1801, at the earnest solicitation of his wife, he abandoned his dangerous life on the sea.

His residence was in a house standing on the "Point;" has since been taken down to give place to railroad uses.

An incident of his life is related by his family, that whilst at sea, during the troublesome times about 1798, he was taken prisoner by the French. On entering his place of confinement, the first person he met was Jesse Breed, his townsman and near neighbor in Norwich. They managed to escape, and met again under very peculiar circumstances;—going to Paris, they were relieved and sent home by the American Minister.

He took an active and leading part in all matters tending to the education of the young.

The Chelsea Grammar School, organized in 1806, and incorporated in 1821, situate in Norwich, was chiefly indebted to his exertions that it had an existence. The original proprietors of this school, who purchased the land and built the house, were: Gurdon Bill, Jabez Huntington, Dwight Ripley, Charles Rockwell, James Lanman, and ten others. He was a member of the Society of Cincinnati, of which Gen. Washington was President and Gen. Knox Secretary.* He was also a member of the Masonie fraternity.

His course of life was exemplary, and he left a good name as an inheritance to his children. He lived at a time when men worked hard, and were satisfied with gaining the necessaries of life, and did not waste their gains on luxuries. He was a devoted husband and father, and his loss was much felt by all.

He died at Norwich, March 6, 1815. After his death his widow married Jonathan Little.

The children of Gurdon and Betsey Bill were:

ELIZABETH BILL<sup>6</sup> (Ephraim, Samuel, Samuel, Philip, John), a daughter of Capt. Ephraim and Lydia (Huntington) Bill, of Norwich, was born May 14, 1767, and married Daniel Lathrop Cott, of Norwich, Nov. 23, 1786. He was born Sept. 20, 1754, at New London.

In early life Daniel L. Coit went to Norwich to reside, and was placed in a drug-store with his uncle.

After a few years he was admitted a partner, under the firm name of "Lathrop & Coit." He continued to do business for many years there. After his retirement from business he devoted himself to the education of his children, to the employments of agriculture, and the pursuits of science, for which he had a natural taste. He was a man of large information and distinguished intelligence. He was indeed one of the sterling men of his time.

His residence in the upper part of Norwich was adorned by two beautiful elms in its front, planted by Capt. Erastus Perkins, in 1754, and long reckoned among the old land-marks of the town. These venerable elms are now standing, in 1867.

He died at Norwich, Nov. 27, 1833. His widow, Elizabeth, died there, March 7, 1846.

The daughters of this family were uncommonly fortunate in their marriage connections.

Their children were:

- 497 Daniel Wadsworth (Coit), b. Nov. 29, 1787; m. Hannah F. Coit.
- 498 Lydia<sup>7</sup> (Coit), b. Aug. 25, 1789; m. in 1811, James L. Kingsley, Professor in Yale College. She died 1861.

- Maria' (Coit), b. June 13, 1793; m. in 1823, Pelatiah Perrit, long an eminent merchant in New York, and for many years was the President of the Chamber of Commerce of that city. He was a very distinguished man, and was well known for his large benevolence and great kindness of heart. During one of the visitations of cholera in New York, he voluntarily placed himself on the committee to visit the sick, and care for their wants and relieve their necessities. He died in New Haven, Ct., in 1865.
- 501 Eliza<sup>7</sup> (Coit), b. Aug. 23, 1796; m. in 1820, William Coit Gilman, of Norwich, well known for his many virtues and eminent Christian character. He has a grandson, Daniel Coit Gilman, a Professor in Yale College, and well known in the world of letters.
- 502 Joshua<sup>7</sup> (Coit), b. Aug. 25, 1800; never married.

HANNAH BILL* (Ephraim, Samuel, Samuel, Philip, John), a sister of the foregoing; was born Sept. 21, 1769, and married Sept. 21, 1791, to Thomas Lathrop, of Norwich.

He was an old resident of Norwich. His agreeable manners and social qualities emphatically pointed him out as one of the "gentlemen of ye olden time." He resided in one of the finest situations in the town, was blessed with affluence, and did much to relieve the destitute. He spent a quiet and peaceful life, and died ————. She died a widow, at Norwich, Jan. 27, 1862, aged 92 years, having survived her husband many years.

The children of Thomas and Hannah (Bill) Lathrop were:

- 503 Lydia Austin¹ (Lathrop), b. Sept. 21, 1792; m. May 7, 1816, Aaron Porter Cleveland, of the firm of Salisbury & Cleveland, importers of Boston. He is believed to have been a native of Ct. They had one son, Thomas Lathrop⁵ (Cleveland); he is m. and resides at Batavia, Ill.

Capt. SILVESTER BILL (Ephraim, Samuel, Samuel, Philip, John), the youngest son and child of Capt. Ephraim and Lydia (Huntington) Bill; was born at Norwich Landing [Norwich], Aug. 1, 1771, and married for his first wife, Mary King, Oct. 29, 1797. She was born Dec. 27, 1776; daughter of Capt. Thomas and Susanna King, of Norwich.

At an early age, he was for a short time a clerk with Mr. Thomas Fanning, in a store somewhere between the town and the "landing." His employer induced him to remove to Charleston, S. C., and from there he went to the interior of the State and took charge of a plantation.

After remaining there a while, he found that the business and the people with whom he had to associate were neither suited to his tastes or habits, and he returned to his native place. At that period a large trade was carried on by the merchants of Norwich and New London with the West India Islands; and, following the example of his father and brothers, he commenced a seafaring life. As soon as he became capable he was placed in command of different vessels, at different times. As mate of a ship he was in France during the great excitement of the French Revolution, when the news arrived from Paris of the death of Robespierre; and again, as captain of the armed ship "Hope," it was his fortune to be at Jeremie, St. Domingo, when the blacks revolted, and massacred a large portion of the white inhabitants on the island. He was instrumental in saving many persons and their effects. In 1804 he removed to Troy, N. Y., where he resided several years. On the 23d January, 1809, his wife, Mary, died, and in the succeeding winter the hotel in which he was interested was burnt: this changed his plans of life, and induced him to again seek his fortune on the ocean. At the breaking out of the war in 1812 he was at Bahias, in Portugal, anxious to return home. The sloop-of-war "Hornet" came off that port, and being in want of a sailing-master, the situation was offered him and accepted. His knowledge of the coast was important, and a prize was made shortly after. He was detailed to take command of her, and endeavor to take her safely home. In this he was successful, and soon after joined his ship, while on her return voyage. The "Hornet" attempted, after her arrival, to go to sea with the frigate "Macedonian" and other vessels, through Long Island Sound, but, meeting a superior British fleet, were driven into New London harbor, and up the river Thames to Allyn's Point, where, on the east side of the river, on a commanding hill, a defensive battery was erected.*

After the war was over he settled in New York, and was married to the widow Mary Ferris.

In 1814 he went south, and located at Blakely, Ala., and at Pensacola and Mobile. About 1830 he returned to New York. His second wife died on the 16th March, 1839, and he soon after removed to New Brunswick, N. J. There he spent the remainder of his life. Old age with its attendant evils came quietly upon him, and his system gradually gave way, till he died on the 16th Jan., 1862, in the full possession of his mental faculties, and in the 91st year of his age. His remains rest in Greenwood Cemetery.

Silvester Bile

His life was one of persevering industry and integrity, and although not marked by any great event, yet was he blessed with the assurance of having at all times acted from a sense of duty, ever keeping in mind the golden rule, of doing unto others as he would have them do to him.*

His first wife, and the mother of his children, Mary (King) Bill, was a lady of pleasing address and affable manners—an exemplary and warm-hearted friend, a devoted daughter and mother, and a loving, affectionate wife. In the prime of life and in the midst of her usefulness she was suddenly taken from her young family, to their irreparable loss. The following are extracts from a touching obituary notice which appeared in one of the Troy papers, shortly after her death:—

"Few instances of mortality excite more sympathetic sorrow than the late sudden death of Mrs. Bill. Her character was such as friendship delights to contemplate—'it is like the recollections of the days that are past, sweet, yet mournful to the soul'—and the loss society sustains in her death will long be remembered.

"To her personal attractions and native elegance of manners were united a mind cultivated by education, and an unaffected sensibility and benevolence of heart which embellished rather than fascinated society, and gave her the true friendship of a numerous acquaintance. Her attention was ever called to the complaints and necessities of the wretched. Few have ever lived who held higher claims to their blessing.

"Blessed spirit, thou art at rest.—'No angel arm could save thee from the grave; legions of angels can't confine thee there.' No more shall we hear thy voice, no more awake at thy call. Farewell! future time shall hear of thee."

The children of Silvester and Mary (King) Bill, born at Norwich, were:

Hon. CALEB RAND BILL <sup>6</sup> (Asahel, <sup>5</sup> Ebenezer, <sup>4</sup> Samuel, <sup>3</sup> Philip, <sup>2</sup> John <sup>1</sup>), a son of Asahel and Mary (Rand) Bill, and brother of the preceding; was born in Cornwallis, Nova Scotia, and married Rebecca Cogswell.

He is a resident of Billtown, Cornwallis, Nova Scotia, and is a farmer, though the most of his life has been spent in public office. He is a sedate, thoughtful person, of good sound practical judgment, has a superior capacity for business, in which he has been greatly prospered, having amassed a vast property in the very heart of his native province, where he exercises a generous hospitality. He has long been one of the Queen's justices, and during the last few years has been honored by his constituents with a seat in the Provincial Parliament, at Halifax.

A few years since, a brother of the writer was traveling through Nova Scotia and called on this Mr. Bill, and was his guest for several days, and has given me a very interesting account of the surrounding people and country.

Cornwallis is, for the most part, a level section of country, situate in a beautiful valley, possessing a rich alluvial soil; and though the spring does not advance as rapidly as in New England, perhaps, yet the sheltering coast-line range of hills or mountains, bordering the Bay of Fundy, breaks off the winds, and gives this whole valley, of many miles in extent, a warm and genial climate, favorable to the growth of all grains and roots to great perfection; probably no locality on the continent can surpass this for the great excellence of many of its crops.

While we write, the Province of Nova Scotia has by royal Proclamation been incorporated, together with the Provinces of New Brunswick and the two Canadas, into one general government, styled "The Dominion of Canada," the act to take effect, by the terms of the Queen's Proclamation, on the first of July, 1867. By the terms of the act of the British Parliament, the Queen was authorized to appoint to the first Senate such persons as she should choose, and we find that among the twelve Senators nominated by the Queen on behalf of Nova Scotia is the name of Caleb Rand Bill. This is no small compliment, and is confirmation from a high quarter of our estimate of his general character. We are proud to note this high mark of approbation from the most eminent crowned head of the earth to one of our kinsmen.*

The children of Caleb Rand and Rebecca (Cogswell) Bill were:

592 William C., b. ---.

593 Nancy, b. ——; married and lives in Nova Scotia.

594 Eunice, b. ——; married and lives in Nova Scotia.

SARAH BILL<sup>6</sup> (Asahel, Ebenezer, Samuel, Philip, John<sup>1</sup>), a sister of the preceding; was born in Cornwallis, N. S., and was married to James Caulkins, in 1803.

In 1823 this family removed to the United States, settling in Niagara County, New York. After a few years they again changed their residence, and this time to Mount Vernon, Ohio, where they still live.

Mr. Caulkins was an industrious man and the father of a numerous family; he died Feb. 3, 1844.

The children of James and Sarah (Bill) Caulkins, born in Nova Scotia, were:

- 595 Asahel' (Caulkins), b. Aug. 12, 1804; m. ——; lives at New London, Ohio.

MARY BILL<sup>6</sup> (Asahel, Ebenezer, Samuel, Philip, John<sup>1</sup>), a sister of the foregoing; born in Cornwallis, N. S., Nov. 25, 1794, and married to Stephen Eaton, on June 20, 1815.

This family came to the United States in company with Mr. Caulkins's family, above named, in 1823, and settled in the same county with them, in the State of New York. Mrs. Eaton is remembered by those who knew her as a most noble woman and much beloved. The section where they settled was not perhaps at that time as free as many others from a debilitating climate, owing chiefly to the uncleared condition of the country, and its naturally low, wet character. Then too the duties of both men and women in a frontier life are far more arduous and trying to their constitutions, and these things proved too much for one of her delicate structure, and on the 7th of May, 1842, at Porter, Niagara Co., N. Y., her gentle spirit took its flight to its everlasting home beyond the skies.

Their children born in Nova Scotia were:

- 606 † Douglas W. (Eaton), b. Aug. 23, 1816; m. (1) Rhoda Hopkins. (2) Wealthy M. Moss.
- 607 Asahel Bill' (Eaton), b. May 12, 1818; m. Maria B. Palmer, and resides at Wilson, N. Y.
- 608 Ingraham Ebenezer' (Eaton), b. Jan. 30, 1821; m. Susan Hopkins, and lives at Wilson, N. Y.

Children born in the United States were:

- 609 † Stephen<sup>7</sup> (Eaton), b. Aug. 27, 1823. Resides in California. He has several children.
- 610 Jacob (Eaton), b. March 27, 1826; d. June 3, 1842.
- 611 Mary E. (Eaton), b. March 24, 1829; m. Rev. Allen R. McDongall, April 13, 1853. They reside in Canada West.
- 612 Edward Manning† (Eaton), b. Oct. 3, 1831; m. Harriet Hopkins, and lives at Wilson, N. Y.
- 613 Adoniram Judson' (Eaton), b. July 20, 1835; m. Henrietta F. Peet, of Porter, N. Y., Oct. 23, 1860. They reside at Porter, N. Y.

Rev. INGRAM EBENEZER BILL (Asahel, Ebenezer, Samuel, Philip, John), the youngest child of Asahel and Mary (Rand) Bill, and a brother of the foregoing; was born in Cornwallis, N. S., on 19 Feb. 1805, and married, April 20, 1826, ISABELLA LYONS, born Jan. 28, 1806.

He entered the ministerial office at the early age of 23, and for a period of twenty-three years was the pastor over the Baptist Church at Nictaux, in Nova Scotia, a congregation numbering between five and six hundred members. He presided with great acceptance to that people, between whom and himself there still remain tenderest chords of respect and affection. Subsequently he was called to the pastorate of the Germain Street Baptist Church in the eity of St. John, in the adjoining province of New Brunswick.

In both of these spheres of labor, his ministry was eminently successful in winning souls to Christ. In addition to these pastoral labors he has preached the Gospel extensively throughout the provinces of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, and the Island of Prince Edward, also in most of the principal cities of the United States, from Maine to Alabama.

Many years since he visited England, and while there occupied pulpits in Liverpool, Manchester, and London.

He has taken a very active part in originating and earrying forward the educational and missionary interests of the Baptist denomination in all the maritime Provinces.

During the last twelve years he has conducted, as editor, the "Christian Visitor," the organ of the associated Baptist churches of New Brunswick, and a highly influential journal.

His health ultimately gave way under the pressure of severe physical and mental exertion, and for eight months he was unable to preach, and he resigned the pastorate of the Germain Street Church, and has so far regained his health by this course as to still be able to continue his connection with the before-mentioned paper, and, of late, preaches occasionally. His autograph is given below.*

The children of Rev. I. E. and Isabella (Lyons) Bill were:

- 614 Asahel, b. May 14, 1827. He was a youth of great promise, but while a student in Acadia College contracted a lung disease, and was cut down by death, July 20, 1848, at the age of 21.
- Ann, b. April 27, 1829; m. Thomas McHenry, Esquire, Sept. 14, 1851. Mrs. McHenry was truly a woman of exalted attainments and diversified talents; commanding the respect and calling forth the admiration of all who knew her. Her life was an unceasing unfolding of Christian and womanly virtues; and her death, which occurred on the 17th Nov., 1865, was a practical and powerful testimony to the truth as it is in Jesus. She left six daughters and one infant son, which has since died.

JONATHAN BILL 6 (Jonathan, 6 John, 4 John, 2 Philip, 2 John), the son of Jonathan and Mary Bill, of Lebanon; born April 21, 1756. He married his second cousin, ASENATH BILL, who was born Nov. 13, 1759, the daughter of James Bill, of Chatham. [See No. 232.]

He was a soldier in the war of the Revolution, was at the battle of Bunker Hill, and with Arnold in that remarkable expedition to Quebec, and he also suffered the hardships of Valley Forge.

After the close of the war he was married and removed to Southwick, Mass., where he remained till after 1800, about which time he removed to the vicinity of Poland, Chautauque County, New York, where he died about 1845. His wife died there in 1836, July 31.

Their children were:

ABIEL BILL (Peleg, James, John, Philip, John), a son of Peleg and Jerusha Bill, of Colchester, was baptized June 18, 1758. He was married, but to whom is unknown. He owned lands in Lebanon, and must have lived in that or in some one of the adjoining towns, probably.

The supposed names of his children were:

639 † Chester.

640 Peleg.<sup>7</sup> This son gave a deed of land to W. Bliss in 1820. (Lebanon Deeds, vol. 26.)

Dr. EARL BILL<sup>6</sup> (Oliver, James, John, Philip, John), the eldest son of Oliver and Martha (Skinner) Bill, of Lebanon. He was born there, Nov. 5, 1770, and married, for his first wife, Sarah Jackson, in 1804; she was the daughter of a Lieut. Jackson of the Revolution. She died in 1818. His second wife was Olive Baker, a widow, who died in 1823, only two years his companion. His third wife was Susan Johnson, whom he married in 1824. She died in February, 1864.

He was a graduate of the Berkshire Medical School, Mass. After finishing his course there, he pushed for what was at that time "the West." He settled in the town of Steuben, Oncida County, New York. This town had received its name in honor of Baron Steuben, of Revolutionary fame. The country was of course new, and the habits of the people rude and independent, and for the young physician to have cast his lot in that then distant settlement, was at least evidence of enterprise and courage in commencing his professional life.

In 1814 he removed to the village of Remsen, situate about eight miles from his former residence, which was now known as "Starr's Hill." Here he remained for many years practicing his profession, always enjoying the confidence and respect of his fellow-citizens of all classes. Not till he had obtained the advanced age of 86 years did he relinquish the profession which he had adorned for more than half a century, and in the discharge of the duties of which he had endeared himself to at least two generations, by his kindness, self-denial, and medical skill. He died in the family of his son, Gen. Horace Newton Bill, at Cleveland, Ohio, on the 16th May, 1864, aged 94 years.

His body reposes in the burial-ground of a son, at Oak land Cemetery, Sandusky, Ohio.

Doctor Bill was in some respects a peculiar character. He was a practical philosopher, never borrowing trouble, always bearing himself with an habitual calmness and cheerful resignation to the will of Heaven. He was a true and sincere Christian, as well in deportment as in profession; naturally of a quiet and forgiving spirit, he seldom had differences with his fellow-men.

His son writes of him, that his recollection of his father extended over near half a century, and yet he never saw him angered but once, and then the provocation was very great. Truly this is saying much, and yet the life of this good man testifies to its truthfulness. Attached herewith is a fac-simile of his autograph, at an advanced age.

This family resided at Middle Haddam, a parish in the town of Chatham, till 1815, at which time they removed to Brooklyn, N. Y., where, up to 1845, he was engaged in the dry-goods trade. He died in 1852, and was buried in Greenwood Cemetery.

Their children were:

- 649 Sophia Maria, b. May 27, 1801; d. in 1819.
- 650 Charles Edward, b. March 6, 1803. He was married and has had several children, but, it is believed, no son. This family reside in Brooklyn, N. Y., and he has been called upon by the writer several times for facts and information pertinent to this volume, but in each case a promise was made to furnish them, and yet no material has been given us. Why this, we are utterly unable to comprehend. Charles Edward Bill is probably the wealthiest member of the Bill family in America, being reputed as worth from one to two millions of dollars!
- 651 Caroline, b. March 7, 1805; m. in 1822, George A. Hicks. She d. in 1853. They had children: George A. (Hicks), resides in Brooklyn, N. Y. Eunice (Hicks), m. H. P. Morgan, and resides in Brooklyn.

Doet. Bill studied medicine in Hartford, Vt., and in 1804 he removed from there to Orange, Vt., where he built up a large and extensive practice as a physician in that and the surrounding towns. At this time the country was so new that public roads in that section had little or no existence; the chief travel was necessarily on horseback or on foot, and for twenty odd years he pursued his profession under these trying circumstances.

In the spring of 1839 he removed from Orange to the town of West Topsham, Vt., where he continued in the practice of medicine to the time of his decease, which occurred on 21st Sept., 1854, having spent nearly half a century in the public service. He died suddenly, of heart disease.

His wife Rhoda died at Barre, Vt., April 8, 1859, aged 85 years.

He had so much business of his own that he never sought political preferment, yet in 1815 he consented to be placed in nomination for the office of representative, and was duly elected. He held the post of surgeon's mate over ten years in the State militia.

The children of Doctor Bill are all living, Jan. 1, 1867. The eldest was born in Hartford, and the others in Orange, Vt. They are as follows:

669 † Carlos Pitkin, b. Nov. 20, 1803; m. Mary Ann Jenness.

670 Daniel Marsh, b. June 15, 1805; m. Louisa Ball, at Topsham, Aug. 25, 1861. They reside at West Topsham, Vt.

671 † Frances Maria, b. twins; born (m. Carlos Carpenter.

672 † Julia Emily, b. Aug. 9, 1808; m. (1) Jonathan Houghton. (2) Chauncy Goodrich.

673 † Roswell Mason, b. April 19, 1810; m. Merinda Nelson.

396.

MARY BILL<sup>6</sup> (Eliphalet,<sup>5</sup> Benajah,<sup>4</sup> John,<sup>3</sup> Philip,<sup>2</sup> John<sup>1</sup>), a sister of the foregoing, Doct. E. M. Bill; was born in Lebanon, near 1777, and was married at Hartford, Vt., to her cousin, Col. Thomas White Pitkin, a son of Thomas White and Rhoda (Marsh) Pitkin, of that place.

He was a farmer, and lived and died in the place of his nativity.

They had children:

- 674 Thomas White (Pitkin). He lives in Hartford, Vt.
- 675 Mary (Pitkin), —; m. Oro Wood, at Hartford, Vt., and resides there.
- 676 Eliza (Pitkin). Resides at Hartford, Vt.
- 677 Lucius<sup>1</sup> (Pitkin); m. Ellen Wood. He is a lawyer, and resides in the city of New York.

Doct. DYER BILL<sup>6</sup> (Eliphalet, Benajah, John, Philip, John), the youngest son of Eliphalet and Dorothy (Marsh) Bill; was born at Hartford, Vt., April 7, 1793 or 4, and in Sept. 14, 1814, he married Ruth Richardson, of Strafford. She was born Oct. 9, 1792, and died Aug. 13, 1829. His second wife was Ruth P. Coburn, whom he married on 7th January, 1830. She was born at Cabot, Vt., Jan. 30, 1803.

He studied medicine with his brother, Doct. Eliphalet Mason Bill, at Orange, Vt., where he entered the practice of his profession; from there he removed to Cabot, in the same State, and in 1819 removed to Albany, Vt., where he now lives. He has acquired an enviable reputation as a physician, and in consequence has had an extensive practice.

He has on various occasions held offices of trust and honor, whenever the people called and he found it not inconsistent with his professional employment. He has been a Justice of the Peace a number of years, and has several times represented the town of Albany in the State Legislature. In 1866 he was a member of said legislative body.

The children by first wife were:

- 678 † Louisa M., b. in Orange, Dec. 15, 1815; m. Winthrop Howard.
- 679 † Josephine, b. in Albany, April 4, 1820; m. (1) Joseph T. Howard. (2) Charles C. Doty.

- 687 Dwight Strong, b. Aug. 3, 1839. Resides in Maryland.
- 688 George Augustus, b. Jan. 1, 1841. Is a clerk in Boston.

She died at the same place, in Jan. 26, 1866.

Her children (all by first husband) were:

405.

MERCY BILL<sup>6</sup> (Phineas,<sup>5</sup> Phineas,<sup>4</sup> Joshua,<sup>3</sup> Philip,<sup>2</sup> John<sup>1</sup>), a sister of the preceding; was born in Groton, Oct. 7, 1776, and married first to Capt. Allyn Turner, who died at sea, leaving no children. Her second husband was Park Allyn, whom she married Jan. 3, 1807; he was born April 15, 1776, a son of Elder Park Allyn, of Groton.

The last husband was also a seafaring man, and he attained to the command of a vessel, and was known as Capt. Allyn. He likewise died at sea, in the month of November, 1815, and was buried in the ocean.

She removed with her father's family, about 1818, to Palmyra, N. Y., and died there, Aug. 29, 1822.

The children of Capt. Park and Mercy (Bill) Allyn, born in Groton, were:

- 710 Park Carlos' (Allyn), b. Sept. 3, 1809. He was a jeweler by trade; d. in Genesee, N. Y., about 1856, leaving a widow and three children.
- 711 Sarah Caroline† (Allyn), b. Sept. 3, 1809. She m. Charles Allyn, of Palmyra. They now reside in Clarkston, Oakland County, Mich. These two children, Park Carlos and Sarah Caroline, were twins.
  The latter was brought up in the family of her grandfather, Phineas Bill, and his old family
  Bible came into her possession. See account of Phineas Bill, <sup>4</sup> her grandfather, No. 113.

408.

NANCY BILL<sup>6</sup> (Phineas, Phineas, John, Philip, John), a sister of the foregoing; was born in Groton, Jan. 17, 1785, and married Eldridge Havens, of Groton, Dec. 11, 1808.

This family resided in Groton up to about 1818, when they removed to Palmyra, N. Y. All their children were born in Groton. She died April 8, 1830. He died Feb. 17, 1859.

They had children:

- 712 Avery Eldridge<sup>7</sup> (Havens), b. Sept. 26, 1809; m. July 6, 1836, Susan S. Power, of Woodstock, Vt. He d. July 28, 1837. No children.

411.

DAVID BILL<sup>6</sup> (Phineas,<sup>5</sup> Phineas,<sup>4</sup> Joshua,<sup>3</sup> Philip,<sup>2</sup> John<sup>1</sup>), a brother of the preceding; was born in Groton, about 1787, as is supposed.

It is said he married Hannah Babcock, of Mystic, a village on the eastern boundaries of the town of Groton.

Very little is known as to the residence of this family; it is thought they removed to Central York State.

The children born in Groton belonging to this family were:

- 715 James Henry, b. —; d. in Palmyra, N. Y., June 27, 1837.
- 716 Frances Maria, b. —; d. in Albany, N. Y., in 1841.

which is now included in the town of Ledyard, Oct. 9, 1784. He married Oct. 20, 1805, Betsey Geer, of the same town; a descendant of the Rev. John Wight, a clergyman of some distinction.

After he was married he removed to Lyme, a town west of the Thames River from Groton, where he still continues to reside.

He is a man of marked traits of character. His uprightness and fidelity in all business transactions, his unusual social qualities, added to an eminently practical mind, form some of these traits referred too. His frugal life and industrious habits have brought together an ample fortune; and in view of his having commenced life under adverse circumstances, it furnishes encouragement to those who, similarly situated, go forward with hesitancy.

His life has been somewhat a public one, having borne the offices of constable, deputy sheriff, justice of the peace, and judge of probate, which latter office he held until disqualified by age. He has also represented his town in the State Legislature. His occupation is nominally that of a farmer, yet for many years he has been an extensive dealer in the purchase of wool.

It is over half a century since his marriage, and still this hale and cheerful couple of octogenarians have to all appearances a considerable lease of life remaining unto them. He is the father of a large family, and has more than forty grand-children and great-grandchildren living within half a mile of his own residence.

A portrait of Judge Lodowick Bill accompanies this sketch. A fac-simile of his autograph, as taken from a letter addressed to the writer when in his $3d year, is appended.

_ Sodowill Bill

The children of Lodowick and Betsey (Geer) Bill were:
719 Eliza, b. March 25, 1806; d. in Groton, Dec., 1809, and was buried in the old churchyard just east of the residence of Gurdon Bill.

720 † Julia Ann, b. Sept. 25, 1807; m. John G. Hughes.

721 Polly, b. Sept. 25, 1809; m. Asa P. Edgecomb, of Groton, June 25, 1827. She d. June 10, 1829, and left one son, David (Edgecomb), who d. in 1863, leaving one daughter, Nina (Edgecomb), now living in Brooklyn, N. Y.

His residence was for a while in New London.

At the breaking out of the war in 1812 with Great Britain, he engaged with great earnestness in the contest. He was appointed recruiting officer, and stationed at New London. His energy and impulsive character, aided by the general stagnation in business consequent on the war, enabled him in a brief space of time to enlist a company of soldiers. He was assigned to the U. S. Twenty-third Regiment, under the command of Col. Cutting. He was, prior to this consolidation, commissioned ensign, July 6, 1812, and as first lieutenant, Aug. 13, 1812. He received high encomiums from his superiors for the zeal and ability with which he served the Government, and especially was he thus complimented by a Col. (or Mr.) Washington, a descendant of Gen. George Washington, who held at that time some important office under the Government, and visited New London during or near the close of said war. Mr. Bill was afterwards appointed Deputy United States Marshal for the District of Columbia.

At the commencement of the Florida war, in 1835, he again rallied to the defense of his country, and ere it ended he died, in Pensacola, May 22, 1837.

He was a man noted for some eccentricities of manner, but yet was greatly honored for his patriotic and noble qualities. To say that he was ardent, impulsive, and energetic would be saying nothing that his character would contradict; had he lived in this age of steam and electric forces, he would have been more in his true time and place.

SARAH BILL<sup>6</sup> (Benajah,<sup>5</sup> Phineas,<sup>4</sup> Joshua,<sup>2</sup> Philip,<sup>2</sup> John<sup>1</sup>), a sister of the preceding; was born in Groton [Ledyard], May 7, 1793; and married, first, Amos Williams, junior, Feb. 4, 1816. They lived in the first house south of Gurdon Bill's residence, in what was then North Groton.

They had no children. He died June 21, 1828. Her second husband was Capt. Jacob Gallup, whom she married Oct. 15, 1830; he died Nov. 11, 1852. They lived in the town of Ledyard, and his occupation was that of a farmer. Capt. Jacob Gallup was a worthy representative of the olden time; a man of unsullied honor, of great energy and firmness, possessing an inflexible will, yet, withal, in his family relations he was kind and tender-hearted and overflowing with good-humor; in his intercourse with his fellow-men he was often stern and punctilious. He gave to the writer, who knew him very well, always an idea of Andrew Jackson, in his mental composition, and we may add, what was quite true, that his personal appearance and stature were not unlike.

He represented his town in the lower branch of the State Legislature just about as often as he would consent to serve in that capacity!

Mrs. Gallup was distinguished for many charming traits of character. Her personal beauty and elegance of manners, with great gentleness of spirit, combined with rare social qualities and her never-failing good sense, were not among the least of these. Visitors at that hospitable mansion never departed but with blessings on her, and on her generous and courteous husband.

After the death of her second husband and the marriage of her only daughter, she removed to Montville, Ct., and resided with this daughter, to whom she was now more than ever most devotedly attached. Since the death of this only child, her ambition and spirits have become much chastened. She now lives at the old homestead in Ledyard, quite advanced in years, and is much honored for her many womanly virtues.

By her second husband, Capt. Jacob Gallup, she had one child, a daughter, viz.:

729 Sarah (Gallup), who m. Calvin Allyn, of Montville, Ct. She d. in 1864, leaving one child.

This family resided in Griswold, Ct.; we can note nothing else remarkable of them except we were to call attention to the fact that this is the most numerous family of children embraced in this volume.

The children by the first wife were:

730 † Sarah Maria, b. Feb. 18, 1819; m. (1) Silas Fitch. (2) Roswell Turner.

- 731 † James Leonard, b. Aug. 16, 1821; m. (1) Lucy A. Main. (2) Juliett Chapman.

- 735 † Sidney Worthington, b. Oct. 23, 1830; m. Emeline Hyde.
- 736 † Elisha, b. June 29, 1833; m. Frances M. Richmond.
- 737 † Ezra Gardner, b. Oct. 3, 1836; m. (1) Lauretta Hyde. (2) Sarah Elizabeth (Masters) Champlain.

The children by second wife were:

- 738 Celestina Ann Elizabeth, b. March 27, 1839; d. July 23, 1857.
- 739 Benjamin Shaw, b. May 23, 1840; m. Maria Lyon. He was a soldier in the late war; was attached to the First Ct. Cavalry, and during the war was captured and imprisoned at Andersonville, where he, with thousands of other gallant men, miserably perished!
- 740 George Washington, b. Sept. 14, 1841; m. —. Lives in Preston.
- 741 Lucy Angeline, b. Jan. 4, 1844; d. June, 1850.
- 742 William Francis, b. March 7, 1845; d. April 7, 1845.
- 743 Hibbard Denison, b. March 7, 1847. Resides in Providence, R. I.

It is true, his earlier life afforded but slender opportunity for acquiring knowledge. His home was far removed from the public school, which in those early days was holden but for very brief periods, and then always in the most inclement season of the year. We have heard him say, that, up to the time when he was twentyone years old, he had not attended school as many days as he had attained years. But at this period, feeling greatly the want of an education, he resolved to make an effort to obtain it. After a summer's work for wages, he repaired to the Plainfield Academy, where he was admitted as a student to one of the lower classes; and though his pride was greatly mortified at this necessity, still his purpose remained unshaken. He rapidly rose from class to class, till he was ranked with those of his own age. As a student thus situated is always sure to appreciate his opportunities, it may be believed that his progress was rapid, and entirely satisfactory both to teachers and pupil. On leaving this institution he was foremost of his class in all those branches to which he had devoted his attention. That he excelled in spelling, reading, writing, also in grammar, and in mathematics and surveying, is well known to us. His aim had been to fit himself as a teacher, and on returning to his native town he at once engaged in that calling. This employment he pursued for seven successive winters. The intervening summers he spent in farming, receiving therefor the customary compensation of those times. He taught the first grammar school ever held in the town of Groton. Long ere the close of the period above named, he had acquired a wide and honorable reputation as a teacher and citizen, and was the ever welcome guest of the people in the adjacent region.

During the war of 1812 he was temporarily stationed on picket duty, at Stonington, while the British fleet were cruising off that port.

He was for a brief period in the wholesale fish trade, at the old FLY MARKET in New York City; leaving there, he embarked in mercantile business with Mr. Philip Grey, in his native town, Groton [Ledyard], where afterwards he purchased lands and resided. After a few years of successful mercantile life, he bought out his partner and conducted the business on his own account. He continued thus till his family had considerably increased in numbers. His family being mostly boys, he thought it his duty to rear them in habits of industry and economy, and to this end he changed his business to the pursuit of agriculture.

He had already purchased what had constituted the chief part of two small farms, on which were three dwelling-houses, three barns, and one store, situate on three of the four corners made by the main roads, one leading from Norwich to Stonington, and the other from New London, through Groton, to Preston City.

This place was a central point, rough in its externals, still quite characteristic of a country home in New England. There was much of severe labor to be performed to make this home on the hillside blossom, yet it was cheerfully done, and the now comparatively smooth fields, bounded on nearly all sides by its giant walls, attest somewhat of the character of the man. His voice and influence as a citizen was always on the side of truth and justice; he despised a mean action, and was the friend of the defenseless and charitable everywhere. "Do unto others as you would have them to do to you" was his rule in life.

In 1828 he represented his native town [Groton] in the State Legislature. His acquaintance with public men was extensive for one situated as he was, away from public centers. Few men in Eastern Connecticut have led so quiet a life, and yet impressed society as much as he. In the division of the old town of Groton he was chiefly instrumental; it was a protracted political contest of a very determined character, and but for the aid of such persevering and resolute men as Capt. Jacob Gallup, Capt. Anson Avery, Col. Roswell Allyn, and Capt. John Spicer, the town of Groton might to-day boast its ancient boundaries; but at the spring session of the State Legislature, in 1836, their efforts were crowned with success, and a committee appointed to arrange the details of the division. This Committee met at the house of Gurdon Bill and performed its duties.

An incident occurred at this time and place which is of considerable interest to the writer, and possibly merits mentioning here. A son was born to Mr. Bill, and the above-named committee proposed to christen the said son, who was the first-born in the new town, after the town, and this was accordingly done, accompanied by a slight token from the chairman of the committee, Capt. Anson Avery. Thus the name of Ledyard, which had been given to the town, in honor of Col. William Ledyard, was given to this son.

Mr Gurdon Bill* died Sept. 10, 1856, aged 72 years; and was buried with ceremony by the Masonic fraternity, in his family burying ground, located on his farm. The following lines were selected by him prior to his decease, and, at his request, were placed on his tombstone.

"In hope of future bliss,
Content I lie,
Though pleased to live,
Yet not displeased to die.

"Life hath its charms and its sorrows too,
For both to all-wise Heaven our thanks are due.
How far my hope is vain, or founded well,
God only knows—Eternity will tell."

Lucy (Yerrington) Bill, wife of Gurdon Bill, died of a fever, October 1st, 1846, aged fifty-one years, after an illness of seven days. Taken in perfect health, as supposed, she was in the brief space of a single week reduced to a lifeless corpse. This was a sad blow to that family, and especially so to the five young children thus suddenly bereft of the tender affection and constant care of a most exemplary mother, who so much needed a mother's watchfulness to mold and guide them. The gloom which filled and crowded those never-to-be-forgotten days, comes so vividly up before us as we write, that it is with great reluctance we go forward, so sacred and so solemn is the task. A loving father was still left us, yet his cup of bitterness was full, and that only added to the general bereavement. Death was to us so strange a visitor, and he seemed to have touched our sainted mother so lightly, that we were awed by its presence, and fascinated by the remarkable likeness of the dead to the living!

It is right and proper that all children should regard their mothers as the "best of mothers," yet we have only to look around us and note the wide difference in all that goes to make up a perfected character in the mothers of the race, to make us feel that ours was a truly noble woman and model mother and housewife. Her character, as her person, was one of great loveliness. She expressed but one wish for which she desired to live, and that was that she might see her children grown to man's estate.

She was a member of the Baptist church at Preston City, and her life ever exemplified that of the true Christian.

Ever blessed is her name and memory in the recollection of her children, and may the recollection of her gentle and exemplary spirit be in death, as in life, a guide to their ever-erring footsteps.

In girlhood she was the pet and pride of her father's household, and among the neighboring circles was an ever welcome guest. In maturer years her life was that of an exemplary Christian; possessed of a noble nature, and adorned by all of those gentle qualities that attract and cement true friendship.

of New London, on a large and beautiful farm which overlooks both the city and harbor, and also commands an extended view of Long Island Sound. In summer, the writer, from this rare point for observation, has witnessed, especially during the sojourn of the New York yacht fleet, views at once picturesque and beautiful. Mr. Chapman is one of the most industrious farmers we ever met, and he is possessed of greater physical endurance than that of any man we ever knew; but time is rapidly telling on his overtaxed system. His amiable wife seems, notwithstanding the multitudinous demands of her numerous family on her time and attention, to grow more ponderous in person and cheerful in spirit as the years roll along.

With years of prosperous toil they have secured this pleasant home, and naught now remains for them but to enjoy it. The children of Robert Chapman are:

PHINEAS BILL<sup>6</sup> (Joshua,<sup>5</sup> Phineas,<sup>4</sup> Joshua,<sup>3</sup> Philip,<sup>2</sup> John<sup>1</sup>), a brother of the preceding, was born in Groton (Ledyard), on 16th Sept., 1789. He married Fanny Gallup, Nov. 23, 1817. She was born Dec. 16, 1787, daughter of Jesse Gallup, of Groton.

Phineas Bill, in the war of 1812, was sergeant of volunteers called out for the defense of the seaboard. He was stationed at New London, and then at Stonington.

His trade was that of a cooper, as was that of his father and grandfather before him. He worked at this employment for a number of years in Groton, but finally removed to Norwich about 1830, taking his family with him; from there he embarked on two whaling voyages as a cooper. After his return from sea he removed to Sag Harbor, Long Island, and at the end of a year, having settled his family here, he went South to work at his trade, and while at the parish of Assumption, Louisiana, he was brutally murdered by a fellow-workman, Dec. 19, 1839, aged 50 years 3 months. He was buried at that place.

The following statement, copied from a Norwich, Ct., paper, gives the particulars of this terrible affair.

Mr. Dunham:—By the following melancholy intelligence, it will be learned that a husband and a father has been relentlessly torn from amidst his family and a large circle of relatives and friends, to whom he was attached by the strongest ties of friendship and esteem. The deceased was naturally a very inoffensive and quiet citizen—so much so, that the guilt of the unfeeling inebriate, who imbrued his hands with innocent blood, is aggravated tenfold. He was a native of Groton, in this State, but removed his family to this town some years since, where they have resided until within a few months past, when they removed to Sag Harbor, L. I. He was a cooper by trade, and had performed a whaling voyage in that eapacity:

HORRIBLE MURDER.

New Orleans, Dec. 26, 1839.

A most atrocions murder was committed on the 20th inst., in the parish of Assumption, La., on the person of a man named Phineas Bill, about 50 years of age, and but lately arrived from Boston. The perpetrator of this diabolical deed is named Robeson, who, as well as the deceased, is a cooper. It appears that this Robeson is a drunkard, and, jealous of the old man taking his situation, in a fit of desperation, after a few words he struck him with a cooper's axe immediately below the throat, on the left side, commencing from the first rib to the fifth, dividing the breastbone, from the first rib to the third, exposing the thorax from the point opposite the first to the fourth rib, causing instant death. The murderer gave himself up to the authorities, saying he was satisfied that he had killed him, for he had lived quite long enough. A coroner's inquest was held on the body, and a verdict of murder rendered against the prisoner. We are sorry to say that the deceased has left a wife and several children to lament his untimely end.—New York Sun.

The widow, Mrs. Fanny (Gallup) Bill, is still living, and for ten years has resided with her son, Erastus Denison Bill, first at Sheffield, Ill., then at Plymouth, Indiana. She is in almost perfect health, and retains her physical and mental faculties quite unimpaired, though she verges on her eightieth birthday. We have to acknowledge the receipt of several antograph letters from her, which show an unusually retentive memory and sprightliness of spirit.

The children of Phineas and Fanny Bill are:

- 770 Sabrina Taylor, b. Sept. 19, 1818; m. John Chester, at Sag Harbor, Jan. 28, 1849. She died Sept. 25, 1849. No children.
- 771† Frank Wesley, $^{\scriptscriptstyle 7}$ b. June 4, 1820; m. Rowena Cleveland.
- 772 Abby, b. Sept. 13, 1822; m. Sept. 19, 1841, to Frederic A. Glover, of Sag Harbor, a carpenter. They removed to Minnesota about 1856-7. They have three children living.
- 773 † Edwin, b. July 17, 1824; m. Eleanor A. Miller.
- 774 † Erastus Denison, b. May 13, 1826; m. (1) Eliza J. Phillips. (2) A. M. West.
- 775 Adelia A., b. April 5, 1828; m. to William L. Heath, April 18, 1849. He was a sailor, of Fall River, Mass. They removed in 1855 to Illinois, and engaged in farming. In 1858, June 22, they removed to Minnesota. They have six children.
- 776 Mary F., b. Aug. 26, 1829; m. June 8, 1847, George M. Tallmage, a ship-carpenter. They reside at Sag Harbor, L. I., and have five children.
- 777 Phineas, b. Aug. 1, 1833; died Sept. 29, 1833.

The two first children of this family were born in Groton, the third in Stonington, and the others in Groton, except the youngest, which was born in the town of Norwich.

Mr. Taylor was a truly good man, and well known for his uprightness in all the affairs of life; if he erred it was on the side of kindness of heart. He lived an honorable and exemplary life, abounding in piety and good deeds. He was at one time prosperous and independent in circumstances, owning a large and valuable farm in what was and still is the garden of the Genesee Valley, but in consequence of the prodigality and reckless habits of some of his boys, he was eventually reduced, prior to his decease, to very humble circumstances. They resided in the town of Yates, Orleans County, New York, where all his children by this his second wife were born.

He died at Lindenville, N. Y., Dec. 14, 1858, of caneer, aged 78. She died April 19, 1863, aged 72 years.

Their children were:

- 778 † Gurdon Bill' (Taylor), b. Sept. 21, 1819; m. (1) Mary Morris. (2) Amanda Johnson.
- 779 Henry' (Taylor), b. Dec. 12, 1820; m. Helen Laura Chamberlain, Dec., 1843. He died Aug. 11, 1846, leaving one son: Henry Selden's (Taylor), of Lockport, N. Y.

BETSEY BILL<sup>6</sup> (Joshua,<sup>5</sup> Phineas,<sup>4</sup> Joshua,<sup>3</sup> Philip,<sup>2</sup> John'), a sister of the preceding; was born in Groton [Ledyard], August 24, 1793. She married John Darrow, a widower, and a native of Preston, Ct., October, 1825. He was by trade a cooper, and resided at this time in western Massachusetts, near the southwest corner of that State, where they remained only one year, when they removed to Meeting-House Hill, in North Groton [Ledyard], and took up their residence in the first or second house east of the residence of Esquire John Spicer, on the road leading from said meeting-house toward Stonington. Here their daughter Lucy was born. It is not known exactly how long they remained at that place. Mr. Darrow found it very unremunerative in the prosecution of his trade there, and as New London offered many advantages, he determined on a removal thither, which was accordingly done. They still reside in that city, both having attained to a comfortable old age. Though life's toil has borne heavily upon him till now, he is on what might be termed the "retired list." His chief traits of character are his quiet and unobtrusive habits, united to a most gentle and tender heart.

We should do neither justice to Mrs. Darrow—"Aunt Betsey," as she is familiarly known among her near relatives —nor justice to her friends or ourselves, if we failed to give here nothing but a mere genealogical record of this notable member of the family, leaving her many pleasing and marked characteristics entirely out of view.

In the western and central part of the old town of Groton, about six miles from New London, and some two miles southwest from Meeting-House Hill, on a gently sloping hillside, amid the usual scenery of New England, stands a story-and-a-half unpainted cottage, where the subject of this sketch—"Aunt Betsey"—was born, as were all the children of her father's family. This house, then the homestead of the family, is of that old-fashioned type, having large fireplaces, friendly old hearthstones, and projecting timbers of a century gone—venerable and strong in the impressions they leave upon the mind, not unlike our ideas of the character of the early population of our country—simple, strong, and bold in truth and manhood. This home and its surroundings, originally pleasant, is now much changed, from the sad neglect of later occupants.

It was in this plain and unpretending home, like so many others in New England from which have gone sturdy and patriotic men and women, that the subject of this reference was reared and educated; of course, her advantages were small, as at this time the country had but just emerged from the Revolutionary War, in which her father had been wounded, in the defense of New London; while habits of simplicity and economy characterized the people, especially all the agricultural communities, and the opportunities for an education were small indeed compared with the present. This lack of early advantages was in a great measure counterbalanced and overcome by that rare jewel, good sense; then too she was gifted with many qualities and traits of character of more value than the mere learning of schools, which, even in early life, made her an engaging companion, and in womanhood a valued and entertaining friend. A shrewd observation of life and its events gave a keenness to her native wit, that flowed as fresh and sparkling as a living fountain; and her vivacity of spirit was equal to her humor, and, as may be inferred, the possession of these qualities rendered her an attractive conversationalist, and an hour in her company was a sure medicine for depression and the "blues."

For several years she kept house for her brother Gurdon, who was then a merchant in North Groton, now Ledyard, until his marriage.

In early life she united with the Baptist Church, and has continued a consistent and worthy member.

The only surviving member of a family of nine children, and herself already past the allotted threescore and ten, she still retains much of the vigor and freshness of youth, both physically and mentally, and one may still note the unfaded color in her cheek; and her unbended form gives proof of how well she has endured the flight of time, which has whitened the heads and palsied the hands of so many of her earlier companions. There is every promise of many years yet to her, and however long her life shall be prolonged, sad indeed will be the day when her cheering voice is hushed midst the silence of the tomb.

They had two children, namely:

An infant, that died at birth.

783 Lucy, b. Feb. 3, 1829, at "Meeting-House Hill," in Ledyard, then Groton. She married, first, Francis Smith Hunter, on 21st June, 1845. He died at sea, as is supposed. Her second husband is Charles Henry Mills, whom she married Sept. 15, 1858. He is a jeweller, and is in business at 126 Atlantic Street, Brooklyn, New York, in which city this family reside. There are no children by either marriage.

AVERY BILL<sup>6</sup> (Joshua, Phineas, Joshua, Philip, John<sup>1</sup>), a brother of the foregoing, and youngest son and child of Joshua and Abigail Bill; was born in Groton [Ledyard], Oct. 1, 1796. He married, on the 10th December, 1820, Betsey Barnes, of Preston, born March 20, 1797. She was a true Christian woman, possessing very many estimable traits of character, and died much lamented by her relatives and friends, July 7, 1861, and was buried at Norwich, in the new cemetery near Norwich Falls.

He was an industrious and hard-working man. His occupation was ostensibly that of a farmer, though the cutting and hauling of timber and wood to market received his chief attention. In a brief period he stripped several farms in Ledyard, Preston, and Griswold of their growth of wood, accumulating in this way some property; he finally settled in Southington, Ct., where he died March 12, 1866. His remains were placed by the side of those of his late wife, in the cemetery at Norwich.

He reared a large family of children, and had lived to see them inducted up to manhood and each comfortably settled. This, to a parent, must be supreme satisfaction. It may be noted as remarkable, that in this family of ten children death has never broken as yet a single link; their united lives amount to the number of over three hundred and fifty years, and, further, all are married except the youngest.

The names of these, their children, are:

784 † Avery, b. Dec. 5, 1821; m. Hannah Ray.

785 † Palmer, b. April 20, 1823; m. Sarah Ann Brown.

786 † Maria Elizabeth, b. Dec. 3, 1824; m. Horatio Barden.

787 † Roswell, b. Jan. 14, 1827; m. Anna L. Kuhn.

788 † Nancy, b. Dec. 4, 1829; m. Cyrus Chapman.

789 Fanny, b. Dec. 6, 1881; m. Julius Chapmar, Oct. 15, 1850. They reside in Griswold, and have no children.

- 790 Joshua, b. Nov. 20, 1833; m. Angeline N. Neal, Nov. 11, 1856. They reside in Southington, Ct., and have no children.
- 791 † Emeline, b. Dec. 20, 1835; m. William O. Brooks.
- 792 Abby, b. March 20, 1838; m. Henry D. Frost, of Southington, Oct. 18, 1864. They reside at Plainville, Ct., and have one child.
- 793 Mary Ann, b. June 14, 1840. She is teaching school in Illinois.

SEVENTH GENERATION.

As we pass from the sixth to the seventh generation, we leave the dead and have to deal with the living. Whatever terms of praise we may have indulged in when speaking of the departed, and of their life and character, so far as known to us, we have felt has been merited, and it has been no more than their just deserts; but it is always safer, if not easier, to pronounce on the lives of the dead than to indulge in eulogistic terms of the living, and, as we proceed, we shall be more guarded; yet we hope to speak justly of all.

Among all of those of the six preceding generations there scarce remains to us a living soul, at least they can all be counted on one's hands. We do not now recall to mind any except the families in the British Provinces, and our affectionate aunt, Mrs. Betsey (Bill) Darrow, of New London, also several children of Benajah Bill.<sup>5</sup> These of the past only remain, and their sojourn among the living can at longest be but brief.

Mingled feelings of sadness and of pleasure take possession of us as we pass this landmark in the family history—feelings of sadness as we turn from the contemplation of the memorials of the dead, and feelings of pleasure as we advance to the consideration of those now living; active and busy with the affairs of life, establishing their characters, and all forming, as we trust, good names, which will be the chiefest inheritance to their children.

BENJAMIN BILL' (Benjamin, Charles, Jonathan, Jonathan, James, John), the son of Benjamin and Elizabeth (Watts) Bill, of Chelsea, Mass.; was born on Jan. 19, 1762, and on the 6th of May, 1787, married Tabitua Nichols, born April 7, 1761, daughter of John and Elizabeth (Burditt) Nichols, of Malden, Mass.

This family resided in Chelsea, where he died July 22, 1790, leaving two children. His widow married, March 11, 1804, Winslow Sargent, of Malden. She died on the 28th of May of the succeeding year, and was the second wife of Sargent, who was married twice afterwards. He died Sept. 8, 1819, at Malden.

The children of Benjamin Bill were:

794 Betsey, b. May 14, 1788; unmarried, and living in 1866. 795 † Benjamin, b. March 5, 1790; m. Elizabeth Cutter.

432.

GARDNER BILL<sup>7</sup> (Richard, Samuel, Samuel, Samuel, Thomas, John), a son of Richard and Abigail (Kenney) Bill; was born in Roxbury, Mass., Sept. 19, 1773, and married Arpatia Church, of Guilford, Vt.

The records of this family and their recollections of their ancestors have been very conflicting, and consequently uncertain; but we have, we think, so nearly established the ancestry, that we feel little hesitation in pronouncing our conclusions correct.

Gardner was brought up in Chesterfield, N. H. At the age of twenty-one he settled in Wardsborough, Vt., and soon thereafter married and removed to Jamaica, in the same State, where he died June 30, 1844. His wife died there, Aug. 7, 1846. For near forty years prior to his decease he had by accident been rendered quite infirm.

Their children were:

796 America Church, b. Aug. 18, 1797; d. in intancy.

797 † Alanson,<sup>8</sup> b. Nov. 14, 1798; m. Clarissa Howard.

798 † John Alonzo, 8 b. Dec. 26, 1800; m. (1) ———. (2) Dorothy Gleason.

799 † Lorenzo, b. Nov. 16, 1802; m. Pamela Maynard.

800 † Lewis, b. Sept. 3, 1804; m. ——.

- 801 Cotton Brown, b. June 4, 1807; d. young.
- 802 Celestia C., b. Feb. 13, 1809; m. Nathan Howard, of Jamaica, Vt., where they still live, having had many children.
- 803 Joseph, b. Oct. 7, 1812; d. young.
- 804 Alfonzo, b. July 9, 1815; m. ——, and lives in Troy, N. Y.

And two others who died without names. The children of this family have adopted the final s.

433.

DAVIS BILL<sup>7</sup> (Richard, Samuel, Samuel, Samuel, Thomas, John), a brother of the foregoing; was born in 1775, and was never married, so far as known.

The report of this Davis is, that he was a noted traveler, and had a natural fondness for adventure, and his gift at story-telling was very remarkable. We hear of him in London and in many other places. It is also reported that he published a small volume containing an account of his travels, and that but very few of them were ever published, which we can readily accredit, since we have sought in some of the largest public libraries for a copy without success. Nothing has been heard of him since 1815, when he was living in London.

435.

CHARLES BILL<sup>7</sup> (Charles, Charles, Thomas, Philip, Philip, John), a son of Charles and Lydia (Pratt) Bill, was born June 26, 1803. He married Lois Story Woodworth, of Norwich, Ct., b. Nov. 6, 1806, and died Feb. 16, 1848. This family reside in Delhi, N. Y.

They had children:

- 805 Ann Eliza,8 b. Feb. 2, 1831.
- 806 George W., b. Sept. 28, 1832.
- 807 Susan M., b. June 28, 1835.
- 808 Charles W., b. Oct. 28, 1838.
- 809 † William R., b. Nov. 15, 1840.

DAVID BILL<sup>1</sup> (Charles,<sup>6</sup> Charles,<sup>5</sup> Thomas,<sup>4</sup> Philip,<sup>3</sup> Philip,<sup>2</sup> John<sup>1</sup>), a brother of the preceding; was born in Franklin, N. Y., March 17, 1811, and was married June 21, 1835, to Louisa Kimball, who was born in Pennsylvania, March 15, 1815. This family reside in Franklin, N. Y.

They have had children:

- 810 Charles Abell, b. May 20, 1836; resides at San José, Cal.
- 811 Lydia Maria, b. Feb. 17, 1838; m. in 1858, to William H. Colburn, of Franklin, N. Y.
- 812 Julia Anne, b. May 11, 1840; m. Clark S. Clydenville.
- 813 Eunice A., b. May 29, 1843; d. May 6, 1852.

ALSON BILL<sup>1</sup> (Bela,<sup>6</sup> William,<sup>5</sup> Thomas,<sup>4</sup> Philip,<sup>3</sup> Philip,<sup>2</sup> John<sup>1</sup>), the eldest son of Bela and Lydia (Horton) Bill; was born Dec. 16, 1800, and married ———.

This family is living at Laona, Winnebago County, Illinois. There are several daughters, whose names are unknown to us, but we have the name of a son:

814 James Hervey, b. —, 1832. He was a conductor on the Western Railroad in Mass., and was killed by the explosion of an engine, in Oct., 1864.

451.

LUCINDA BILL<sup>7</sup> (Bela, William, Thomas, Philip, Philip, John), a sister of the preceding; was born Dec. 25, 1811, and married to Edward Cheeseman, of Hinsdale, Mass., Nov. 30, 1835.

They had children:

815 John Mack<sup>8</sup> (Cheeseman), b. June 12, 1838; m. Cynthia Ann Foster, Jan., 1864.

- Mary Ann<sup>8</sup> (Cheeseman), b. July 3, 1840; d. Sept. 17, 816
- Sidney Horton<sup>8</sup> (Cheeseman), b. Aug. 11, 1843; m. Emily 817 L. Foster, March 6, 1866.
- Edwards (Cheeseman), } 818 twins; born May 12, 1847.
- Edwin<sup>8</sup> (Cheeseman), 819

MARSHALL BILL<sup>1</sup> (Bela, William, Thomas, Philip, Philip, John, a brother of the foregoing; was born Jan., 1818, and in 1843 was married to Susan Johnson, of Sand Lake, N. Y.

He died in Washington, Mass., June 2, 1865, and was buried at Hinsdale, of the same State.

The children were:

- Charles Arthur,8 b. Nov. 18, 1844. 820
- George Archibald, b. Feb. 12, 1847. 821
- 822 Cyrus Edward, b. Nov. 14, 1850.
- 823 Inez Estella, b. Aug. 10, 1859.

469.

ELIJAH ABELL BILL' (Philip, Benjamin, Benjamin,

Philip, Philip, John, the second son of Philip and Hannah (Abell) Bill, of Bozrah, Ct.; was born there, Aug. 18, 1804, and on May 27, 1831, married Angeline Margaret Hazard, of Rhode Island.

Mr. Bill is a self-made man, and has risen by dint of his untiring industry and strict integrity to a position of independence and honorable station among his fellow-men. He is widely known as an active and successful merchant of Norwich, Ct., where he has been in business during a period of forty years, ever maintaining habits of unwavering kindness and marked urbanity toward all classes; and he enjoys to an eminent degree the confidence of the community in which he lives. He belongs, properly, to that older class of merchants whose word was always esteemed as good as their bond, fidelity and promptness ever characterizing all their engagements.

He in Oct., 1866, relinquished his mercantile pursuits to his son-in-law, James S. Lewis, who continues the business of Mr. Bill in company with a partner.

He is now engaged on a Government contract to deepen the channel of the Thames River, the thirty-ninth Congress having appropriated a large sum of money for this purpose.

For many years he has been President of the New London County Mutual Fire Insurance Company, and has held other responsible positions which we are unable to recall. We give here a fae-simile of his autograph.

Zun Emy,

The children of Elijah Abell and A. M. (Hazard) Bill have been:

831 Elizabeth Dwight,<sup>8</sup> b. Dec. 29, 1832; m. James Stiles Lewis, b. Nov. 3, 1836, son of Horace Lewis, Esq., of Stonington, Ct.

832 Sarah Hazard, b. April 17, 1837.

- 833 Julia Almira, b. Oct. 31, 1840.
- 834 Mary Hannah, b.
- 835 Benjamin Leighton, b. April —, 1852; d. in June, 1855.

DAVID BILL<sup>7</sup> (David, Samuel, Samuel, Samuel, Philip, John<sup>1</sup>), the supposed son of David and Temperance (Harris) Bill; was born at New London, in 1779, and married Mary P. Gallaguer, March 11, 1819.

He was a hatter by trade, and was employed first in Boston, then in New York and Philadelphia. He died in the latter city, Oct. 13, 1843. His widow is living in New York with her son, Richard Shippen Bill.

We have been obliged to rely on the statements of the children of this family for the facts as we have given them. They are probably correct. It is supposed the wife of David Bill' was the widow Temperance (Chappel) Harris; if so, this would confirm the recollection of the grandchildren, that their grandmother's maiden name was Chappel.

The children of David Bill are:

- 836 Jane, b. in Boston, April 13, 1820; d. young.
- 837 † Richard Shippen,<sup>8</sup> b. in Philadelphia, Dec. 10, 1821; m. Sarah Ann Sutton.
- 838 David, b. in New York city, Feb. 8, 1824; d. in Brooklyn, Aug., 1826.
- 839 Anna M., b. in Brooklyn, Nov. 3, 1832; unmarried.
- 840 Frederic, b. in Brooklyn, Oct. 19, 1834; resides in the city of New York.

HENRY BILL' (Gurdon, Ephraim, Samuel, Samuel, Philip, John), a son of Capt. Gurdon and Betsey B. (Tracy) Bill; was born at Norwich, June 10, 1804, and married Nov., 1835. Letitia Henry Smith, of Philadelphia.

We regret not being able to furnish something of a sketch of this member of the family. He died at Piscataway, N. J., July 1, 1850.

The children of this family were:

- 841 † Joseph Howland, b. Feb. 9, 1837; m. Elinor Randolph Wallen.
- 842 Anna Maria Henry, b. Jan. 18, 1839.
- 843 Alexander Henry, b. Sept. 16, 1841.
- 844 Henry Weir, b. March 11, 1843. Is a clerk in N. Y. City.
- 845 Mary Elizabeth, b. March 8, 1845; d. March 22, 1845.

492.

LYDIA HUNTINGTON BILL' (Gurdon, Ephraim, Samuel, Samuel, Philip, John), the eldest daughter of Capt. Gurdon Bill; was born at Norwich, March 18, 1806, and married, May, 1829, Rev. Samuel Seabury, a grandson of Bishop Seabury, the first Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States.

This family reside in the city of New York.

The children are:

846 Anna Saltonstall<sup>8</sup> (Seabury), b. April 14, 1830; d. young.
847 Lydia Huntington<sup>8</sup> (Seabury), b. Nov. 27, 1833. She is living, 1867.

493.

MARY ELIZABETH BILL' (Gurdon, Ephraim, Samuel, Samuel, Philip, John), the second daughter of Capt. Gurdon Bill, and sister of the preceding; was born Jan. 18, 1808, and on December 15, 1841, married William Alfred Jones, the Librarian of Columbia College, in New York City, where this family reside. They have in their possession a volume entitled—"Sermons and Homilies, appointed to be read in Churches in the time of the late Queen Elizabeth, of famous memory, and now thought fit to be reprinted, by anthority from the King's Most Excellent Majesty, London.

Printed by John Bill, 1623." This John Bill is referred to in the English Chapter at the commencement of this Memoir. This family also have a pencil portrait of Capt. Gurdon Bill, Mrs. Jones's father. It is from this portrait that photographs have been procured, which illustrate quite a number of these volumes.

Mr. Jones comes of a distinguished family of that name, quite prominent in the early history of New York and vicinity. The noted David Floyd Jones, of the Revolution, and Judge Jones, of a more recent date, are among his ancestors;—he himself is quite well known to the citzens of New York, as a man of considerable literary attainments and of cultivated manners. He is the author of several minor works whose titles just now escape our recollection. For further particulars we refer the reader to volume ten of Appleton's Cyclopedia.

JOSEPH HOWLAND BILL<sup>7</sup> (Gurdon, <sup>6</sup> Ephraim, <sup>6</sup> Samuel, <sup>4</sup> Samuel, <sup>2</sup> Philip, <sup>2</sup> John<sup>1</sup>), a brother of the preceding; was born in Norwich, March 18, 1810, and in 1838 was married to Caroline Dev, the daughter of Anthony Dey, a distinguished lawyer of New York.

He for a time resided in London, and was interested in mercantile pursuits with the house of Howland & Aspinwall, of New York City. He was afterwards in the employ of this firm in different portions of Mexico and the Central American States. During the first years of the late civil war, he was an Assistant Paymaster in the U. S. Navy.

He died at Acapulco, in Mexico, May 15, 1865, at which time he was acting as agent for the well-known house of Wells, Fargo & Co., between Panama and San Francisco.

Their children were:

848 Caroline Richard Dey, b. April 3, 1839.

849 Mary, b. Feb. 22, 1840.

850 Joseph Howland, b April 10, 1842; d. at siege of Vicksburg, in 1863.

851 Alice, b. Oct. 26, 1843.

852 Lillian, b. April 26, 1845; d. July 9, 1846.

853 Edward Woolsey, b. Nov. 4, 1846.

854 Archibald Herbert, b. July 2, 1850.

510.

EDWARD BILL' (Silvester, Ephraim, Samuel, Samuel, Philip, John), the son of Silvester and Mary (King) Bill; was born in Norwich, Nov. 5, 1801, and on April 4, 1833, was married to Margaret Everinghim, the daughter of Joseph D. Everinghim.

He removed with his parents to Troy, N. Y., in 1803—remaining there until the spring of 1810, when, the death of his mother breaking up the family, he was, with his brother Alfred, placed in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Coit, at Canterbury, Ct. Here, under the influence of this most exemplary family, were inculcated those moral precepts and principles that undoubtedly helped to form his future character.

The advantages of a college education were denied him, but with perseverance and study in after life that want was measurably remedied. In the fall of 1814, while the war with England was still going on, he arrived in New York, to commence a mercantile career. These were stirring times. The city was then, as he well remembers, full of moving troops, and great excitement prevailed. All classes of citizens, and of nearly all ages, including the subject of this notice, volunteered daily to handle the "shovel and the hoe" in erecting fortifications on the Heights of Brooklyn. In the following month of February, in 1815, of a cold winter night, there arrived the armed vessel "Bramble," bringing the news that there was "Peace," "Peace," which was taken up and shouted through the streets, and thus over the land, conveying joy to many an anxious heart. Business after this at once revived, and in the spring of that year Mr. Bill entered the hardware store of his nucle, Henry King, of the firm of King & Hillhouse, where he remained till the year 1820, when a dissolution of the firm occurred. New York City at the time of his arrival contained but about 100,000 inhabitants, two-thirds of whom were living below Canal Street, in which at that time not a single house had been built, and the larger portion of the wealthy merchants resided in the lower part of the city.

His father, meanwhile, had removed to Blakely, Alabama, his son following him in 1820, but the climate not being favorable to his health, he returned to New York in 1822, and two years afterward was engaged with Messrs. R. M. & I. Russell. This firm failing in 1826, he resolved to commence business on his own account, and has continued to do business near the same neighborhood ever since—a period of forty years. Living in the metropolis of the country for a period of over half a century, he has been the witness of many of the exciting scenes, as well as of the great changes that have marked the growth of the city.

He relates a very gloomy account of the Yellow Fever pestilence in 1822, when a board fence was placed across Broadway at the corner of Chambers, as also at the other cross streets leading to the infected district, from which all of the inhabitants were ordered, the streets strewn with lime, and the gutters whitewashed;—nothing living was to be seen in the infected neighborhood except an occasional stray cat or rat in quest of food. Then again, in 1832, the cholera raged, producing a panic among the citizens. Though Mr. Bill remained in the city, yet he did not escape an attack; early remedies saved him; but his partner, Mr. Robert M. Russell, being taken, died after an illness of only four hours.

He remembers the old colored burying-ground on Chambers Street, back of the City Hall, and its being leveled, and the remains, for the most part, removed. At this time John Jacob Astor lived where the Astor House now stands. This was for many years a row of private dwellings, occupied by the more wealthy citizens, a kind of Fifth-Avenue neighborhood. Scarce a public person of note, whose début has been made in the musical, domestic, or literary world during the last fifty years in the great metropolis, that he has not witnessed; indeed, his mind is richly stored with valuable and interesting reminiscences of the Port of New York and its remarkable population.

Mr. Bill had the misfortune to lose all the accumulations of his previous life in the eventful year of 1837, when so many fortunes were carried away by the financial whirlwind that swept the country. Since then he has conducted a flour and grain brokerage business exclusively, and being greatly prospered, his previous severe losses have been made up to him "tenfold." He has been, and still deservedly stands, at the head of his profession or business. His energy, perseverance, and integrity, coupled with untiring industry and an amiable disposition, have secured him a large business and surrounded him with very many friends.

His flour and grain circular, regularly issued for the last thirty years, has obtained for him a wide reputation both at home and abroad, and is not unfrequently quoted in the markets of both New York and London as good authority. His ample fortune, the result of an industrious and frugal life, has enabled him to scatter around him many a blessing. He is still, in 1867, in active business and in the enjoyment of perfect health, with the promise apparently of yet many years of usefulness. We append herewith a copy of his autograph.

Warrel / Fill

He has but one child, viz.:

855 Susan Randolph, b. Aug. 15, 1834; m. Eli Hasbrouck, of Newburgh, N. Y., where they reside.

Odward Bill

ALFRED BILL<sup>7</sup> (Silvester, Ephraim, Samuel, Samuel, Philip, John), a brother of the preceding; was born at Norwich, Dec. 25, 1803. He first married, Sept. 30, 1828, Camilla Livingston, at Tuscaloosa, Ala. She was born March 10, 1813, and died January 19, 1833, at Mobile. His second wife was Gertrude L. Farmer, to whom he was married Sept. 3, 1834, at New Brunswick, N. J. She was born July 18, 1804, and is still living, 1867.

The subject of this sketch removed to Troy with his parents, and after the decease of his mother, in 1809, spent the five succeeding years at Canterbury, Ct., in company with his brother Edward, in the family of Mr. Thomas Coit. Here it was that he took on that character which in after life gave tone in all his intercourse with family and friends. He accompanied his father to Alabama, and there secured a clerkship under Mr. John Stocking, whose good opinion he soon gained by his energy and industry. In 1823 or 4, through the kindness of Mr. Stocking, he procured a stock of goods and located at Tallahassee, Fla., which at that time had just been laid out. Building him a house in the woods, almost, he commenced business; his goods were soon disposed of, and he at once removed to Mobile, and went into business there with a Mr. Ticknor, under the name of "Ticknor & Bill." Here he continued several years, meeting meanwhile with a severe loss by a fire, which destroyed a large quantity of goods. About this time his health became precarious, and under the advice of his physician he returned North, but his days were not many. In 1839, October 18th, he was suddenly stricken down with apoplexy, and died in his 36th year. Thus passed away one in the prime of life, and full enjoyment of much that was calculated to make life happy, surrounded as he was by a loving wife and affectionate children and friends.

He was of a genial disposition, and with his warm heart and his peculiarly large, speaking eye, he won the good-will of those who came in contact with him, and left as an inheritance an honorable name.

His children, all born in Mobile except the youngest, were:

By first wife:

- 856 Edward Livingston,<sup>8</sup> b. Sept. 30, 1829. He commenced a mercantile life at New York in the store of his uncle, Edward Bill, but left to seek his fortune on the Pacific coast. He at present resides in West Virginia; and he has one child, a daughter, Maggie Randolph; —d. 1867.
- 857 Silvester King, b. March 17, 1831; d. April 19, 1836.
- 858 Alfred, b. Jan. 12, 1833; d. Feb. 19, 1835.

By second wife:

- 859 George Farmer, b. April 21, 1836; d. May 21, 1842.
- 860 † Charles King,8 b. in New York, April 2, 1839.

AARON BILL<sup>7</sup> (Calvin, Elisha, Philip, Samuel, Philip, John), the eldest son of Calvin and Lois (Gibbs) Bill; was born in Lebanon, Ct., Nov. 16, 1770, and married, Dec. 1, 1796, Silence Davis, born April 9, 1766, and died July 11, 1820.

When an infant he was taken by his parents to Wilmington, Vt. After he was married he settled in Canaan, New York, where he remained till after 1820, when, his wife having died, he was quite desponding, and in 1821 joined the community of Shakers, in the adjoining town of New Lebanon, N. Y., where he remained near the close of his life. He died in Canaan, N. Y., Oct. 18, 1843.

His advantages in early life were quite limited, yet, by the force of application and a natural thirst for knowledge, he had, at the age of twenty, so far advanced as to teach a town school in Wilmington, and was not unfrequently employed by the people of that section in the capacity of a field surveyor, of which he had a very thorough knowledge. A man of quiet demeanor, of strictest personal habits, a sound counselor and firm friend he ever proved himself. By his frugality he acquired some little property, which was, however, for the most part, turned over to those peculiar but kind people among whom he had chosen to dwell. That he was a man careful in his habits, is manifest from the fact, stated by his son, that he never owned but one pocket-knife, and this he carried over fifty years!

He had but one child—a son:

Aaron Davis,8 b. Aug. 15, 1805. He is unmarried, and resides at Smyrna, N. Y. At the age of fifteen he went with his father to live in the Shaker settlement at New Lebanon. He continued with them twenty-eight years, holding to their faith and enjoying their esteem and confidence, having sustained many important offices of honor and trust among them. At the age of forty-three he withdrew from them, and settled, as named above, at Smyrna, N. Y., keeping house with an aged relative, and is still unmarried. He is quite advanced in years, and of late has been somewhat afflicted by the attendant ills of age, yet his spirit is buoyant; and we cannot close this brief outline of this most worthy man without expressing our thanks for the earnest interest and active cooperating labor given us, in gathering up the seattered records of his branch of the family. We are also indebted very largely to him for many important items, as well as to the cheer he has given us in our protracted labors. We herewith append a fac-simile of his autograph.

HIRAM BILL<sup>7</sup> (Calvin, Elisha, Philip, Samuel, Philip, John), a brother of the foregoing; was born in Wilmington, Vt., June 12, 1773. He married Virtue Ball, from New Bedford, Mass.

His children adopted the final letter s to their names, and it is continued among all, or nearly all, of their descendants.

Hiram Bill was a hard-working yet withal an enterprising man. He found his life cast on the borders of civilization, and went resolutely at work to hew himself out a home and the means of livelihood for himself and family. He purchased a tract of timber land, which he cleared up into a fine farm; also constructed a fine saw-mill on his premises, and thus made the timber profitable to him as he removed it; the market for lumber increasing, he was induced to erect a second saw-mill, and at the end of life he could say with truth that he had not lived wholly in vain. He died in Wilmington, Vt., Aug. 19, 1840, leaving a good name. His wife died at same place, on the 4th of the following October.

They had children:

883 Hiram, b. July 19, 1806; d. unmarried, Sept. 1830.

884 Virtue, b. July 17, 1808; m. (1) Dec. 3, 1829, William Stearns, who in a fit of derangement took his own life, May 10, 1848. (2) Feb. 14, 1849, she married Rev. Phineas Howe. No children.

885 † Perley, b. June 10, 1810; m. Caroline Brown.

886 David,<sup>8</sup> b. June 9, 1812; m. Sept. 10, 1834, to Harriet Eliza Parmenter, b. March 9, 1814. He is a farmer, in Wilmington, and is considerable of a public man and is much esteemed. They had one child, viz:

Julia Eliza, b. April 5, 1838; d. May 17, 1839.

ORRIN [C.] BILL¹ (Hosea, Simeon, John, John, Philip, John¹), the oldest son of Hosea and Sarah (Kellogg) Bill, of Sheffield, Mass.; born in that town, on Nov. 8, 1791. He married, Nov. 3, 1825, SARAH F. DUBOIS. She was born March 4, 1805, at Granby, Ct.

This family have always resided in Sheffield, Mass., where he died, Aug. 25, 1854, after a brief illness. We experienced no little difficulty in gathering sufficient data relating to the ancestors of this family, that they might take their proper place in this memoir; but, after many perplexities and considerable assistance, their ancestral line is quite satisfactorily and properly established.

Mr. Bill was an industrious citizen, of an upright character, and his life had been marked with success, having accumulated considerable property. He has left a couple of very enterprising sons, who are at this time in a wholesale cloth house in New York City, one as a partner, the other as salesman.

We append a fac-simile of his autograph:

His daughter Catherine, a most accomplished and beautiful woman, who had been married but little more than a year at the time of her father's decease, and had recently become a mother, was also prostrated at and during the time of her father's illness, and by the same disease, which was a species of cholera; her weakened frame was in no condition to withstand this attack, and she too was borne away in death on the same day as her father, surrounded by this doubly afflicted, terror-stricken family. It was a memorable day to that household!

This family have adopted the use of the final s.

The widow, Sarah, still resides in Sheffield, though frequently visiting her sons in New York during the winter seasons.

The children of this family have been:

990 George S., b. July 24, 1826; d. April 8, 1828.

991 Emma Elizabeth, b. Sept. 3, 1828; d. Feb. 16, 1834.

992 Catherine Hillyer, b. April 25, 1831; m. Rev. Edward S. Skinner, July 12, 1853. She died Aug. 25, 1854; leaving one child, a daughter.

NORMAN KELLOGG BILL<sup>7</sup> (Hosea, Simeon, John, John, Philip, John), a brother of the preceding; was born in Sheffield, Mass., Sept. 25, 1796. He married, in Nov., 1830, Huldah Clark, of same place; born July 15, 1809.

This family live in South Egremont, Mass., whither he had moved soon after his marriage. Here he has been for over twenty years engaged in the mercantile business. For seventeen years he has filled the office of Postmaster, with satisfaction to the citizens, and having the confidence of the several administrations under whom he served.

They still live in the enjoyment of fair health; having no children of their own, they adopted a son, who bore the name of John G. Bill. He was killed May 17, 1864, by the explosion of a great gun on board of one of the United States iron-clad vessels lying in Hampton Roads, near Fortress Monroe, while in the performance of his duties as an officer.

JOSIAH BISSELL BILL<sup>7</sup> (Eleazar, Jonathan, John, John, Philip, John), a brother of the foregoing; was born in Lebanon, May 13, 1793, and married, March 27, 1816, HARRIET TRACY HOUGH, of Bozrah, born May 3, 1794.

He removed immediately after his marriage to New Milford, Pa., where, for twenty years, he followed the business of teaching; at the end of this time he returned to Connecticut, settling in Vernon; from there he moved to Lebanon, in which town he was engaged in trade up to the time of his death, which occurred on Nov. 16, 1846. We learn he was a man of very correct and abstemious habits. His widow died at Rockville, Ct., April 1, 1852. They were both buried at Lebanon.

They had children:

- 1012 Joseph Clement,<sup>8</sup> b. Feb. 7, 1817. He died at Vernon, Sept. 11, 1839, aged 22, while prosecuting a course of liberal study at Norwich.
- 1013 Mary Elizabeth, b. in Pa., Feb. 14, 1822. She married,

CHARLES OLIVER BILL' (Earl, Oliver, James, John, Philip, John), son of Dr. Earl Bill; was born at Steuben, N. Y., August 1, 1809, and was drowned at Trenton Falls, Trenton, N. Y., August 2, 1830.

The circumstances attending the death of Charles Oliver possess sufficient interest to warrant a narration. On the occasion of a visit to his father's family by the late Cyrus Bill, Esq., and daughter, accompanied by a young lady friend, the four formed a party to visit the romantic scenery of the Falls of the Canada Creek, known as Trenton Falls, only five miles distant. While escorting his young cousin along a narrow ledge almost washed by the waters of the creek, finding there was only room for one person in the path, he stepped down into the stream, holding his cousin by the hand to steady her pace, until the sharp projection in the overhanging cliff could be passed. At the critical point, the rocks being slippery, he fell. Disengaging his hand so as not to involve the lady in his own danger, he partially recovered himself, but in the mean time he had slipped farther into the stream, owing to the shelving character of the rock. In his second attempt to rise he was more successful; but by this time he was in the rapids, and was carried by the remorseless stream over a fall of thirty-six feet in depth, and plunged into the terrible abyss. His agonized companions were powerless to aid him, and they asserted that, having recovered his erect position, he was swept away with his back to the Falls, and with his eyes fixed upon the loved ones from whom he was so suddenly torn! His death was a very heavy affliction to his father, and all the more so from the fact that Charles had been educated to succeed him in the profession of medicine, and he was looking to this promising son to share with him the burdens of his arduous vocation, and eventually succeed him in his business.

CHAUNCY CLARK BILL' (Earl, Oliver, James, John, Philip, John), the fourth son of Dr. Earl Bill; was born at Steuben, N. Y., June 16, 1811, and on the 31st. Dec., 1840, was married to Anna Everett Case, of Vernon, N. Y.

A printer by trade, he commenced, when in the 21st year of his age, the publication of the "Northern Telegraph," a weekly newspaper, in the village of Canton, the shire town of St. Lawrence County, N. Y., then the residence of the Hon. Silas Wright. Under a leader so competent as Mr. Wright, it was not to be wondered at that the Democratic party had at that time an overwhelming majority in the county.

But one other newspaper was published in the county, and that was conducted by the late lamented Preston King, and in the interest of the Jackson party. At the time the "Telegraph" was started, the political contest which ended in the defeat of Henry Clay was about to commence, and its columns were devoted to the interests of the Clay party.

The campaign, as is well known, was a failure, and Gen. Jackson was re-elected by a largely increased majority.

In 1834 he removed to the city of New York, where he remained about a year, working at his trade.

Returning to Oneida County in 1835, he commenced publishing a newspaper called the "Vernon Courier," at Vernon, N. Y., which was subsequently sold to his brother Horace, and removed to Rome, N. Y. He remained in Vernon nearly twenty years, filling the office of Postmaster under President Taylor, and in 1855 he removed to Sandusky, O.

In the summer of 1857, he purchased an interest in the Sandusky Daily Commercial Register, and assumed the financial management of the paper, Mr. Henry D. Cooke, his partner, having charge of its editorial department. Subsequently, Mr. Cooke, in connection with a Mr. Miller, purchased the Ohio State Journal, published at Columbus, in which Mr. Bill also took an interest, which he retained, however, but a short time.

The Register was a thoroughgoing Republican paper, and the only daily newspaper in the Ninth Congressional District—a district which had the honor of sending the Hon. John Sherman to Congress.

The Register printing-office was burned in the spring of 1862. The firm by which it had been carried on was then reorganized, Dr. Agaid and Mr. Cooke retiring from the concern, and Mr. Bill and Mr. H. C. Johnson, editor of the paper, and one of its former proprietors, assuming its management, under the firm name of Bill & Johnson. In about six weeks from the time of the fire they had a new office started, and continued to publish the paper until the fall of 1864, when, in consequence of Mr. Johnson's failing health, they sold the Register office to other parties.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill, with their two surviving children, are new (1867) living at Sandusky, Ohio.

Their children have been:

1024 Everett Case, b. Nov. 1, 1841; d. Feb. 9, 1847.

1025 Caroline Curtis, b. July 16, 1843; d. Feb. 1, 1847.

EARL BILL<sup>7</sup> (Earl, Oliver, James, John, Philip, John), the fifth son of Dr. Earl and Sarah (Jackson) Bill, and brother of the preceding; was born in Steuben, N. Y., Aug. 16, 1813. He first married, Sept. 30, 1838, Roxy Ann Allyn, a native of Connecticut, who died Jan. 18, 1847. His second wife was Susan Eliza Johnson, whom he married Sept. 4, 1848.

At the age of sixteen years he was apprenticed to a house carpenter and joiner until the age of twenty. In his twenty-second year he left the place of his boyhood and emigrated to Ohio, settling at Sandusky in the fall of 1835, and pursuing his vocation until the winter of 1840-1, when he entered upon the duties of Sheriff of the County (Erie). At the expiration of his term, and failing of an election for another, his neighbors constituted him one of the arbiters of their petty disputes by electing him a Justice of the Peace. This position was resigned in 1843, to enter upon the duties of Assistant Clerk of the County Courts. In 1845 and 1847, respectively, he was chosen County Treasurer, and the partiality of his neighbors culminated in 1850, in an election to represent the counties of Eric and Huron in the Senate of Ohio. In 1851, he, in company with Clark Waggoner, Esq., purchased the printing establishment known as the Sandusky Clarion, and became the editors and publishers of the Sandusky Register, published daily, tri-weekly, and weekly: the daily edition being known as the Daily Commercial Register.

In 1852, Henry D. Cooke, Esq., now of the firm of Jay Cooke & Co., Bankers, at Washington, D. C., was associated with them, under the firm name of Bill, Cooke & Co., and this connection was maintained until 1856, when Mr. Bill disposed of his interest to Mr. Cooke, and dissolved his connection with the paper. This paper was known as the advocate of the principles of the party designated as "Whig," and was generally regarded as not among the least influential of Whig papers in the State. When that party committed hari-kari on the Kansas-Nebraska issue, the Register was one of the first newspapers of that faith to declare for the new organization afterward known as the Republican party.

In 1857, Mr. Bill removed from Sandusky to the city of Tiffin, Ohio, and engaged in the purchase and sale of grain and other produce, where he remained until April, 1861, when he removed to Cleveland, to assume the duties of United States Marshal for the Northern District of Ohio; Cleveland being the place of holding the Courts of the United States. The appointment was made by the late President Lincoln, whose nomination had been promoted by Mr. Bill, in his capacity of delegate in the Chicago Convention of 1860, in preference to Hon. W. H. Seward.

At the expiration of his official term of four years, President Johnson saw fit to bestow a reappointment for an additional term of four years; but in the summer of 1866 sought and found one more in accord with his peculiar "policy," in whose favor he was compelled to vacate the office, after an incumbency of five years and six months. Owing to the condition of civil war, in which the country was involved nearly the whole of his term of office, the position was more arduous and responsible than lucrative.

In a letter from Mr. Bill, received by us, referring to his retirement from the office of marshal, he writes:

"Conscions of many failings of judgment in the administration of the office, as I truly am, I hope it may not be deemed a trespass upon the bounds of modesty to refer to the fact, that neither by friends or foes has any charge of venality or official wrong been preferred; and my retirement was the occasion of the expression of regrets by those of both political parties."*

We most cordially add our testimony to the general acceptability with which he performed the duties of his position, and indeed it is but an act of justice to the high character of the man that we do this, and we speak advisedly, since a year's residence in Cleveland, during his term of office, gave us ample opportunity to learn these facts, as it did also to form the acquaintance both of him and his family.

His house was, indeed, our only real home during our brief residence there, and we may not refrain from saying that pleasing reminiscences of those days yet linger with us, and we would never forget them.

Mr. Bill is a man of some marked traits of character, which we feel will be of interest to note here. Few men on a slight acquaintance so readily impress us with their earnestness, candor, and integrity as he: these qualities are inherent, or they would not produce on us the conviction they do. His mind is of a reflective turn, thoughtful, yet ever prompt on all occasions in which he is expected to bear a part. We apprehend he has devoted much of time to the careful reading of general literature, and thus largely stored his mind with those things which usually come of an early and liberal course of study only. With him, as with most of us, our parents possessed limited means, and were unable to give a college education to their children: their benefactions consisted mainly in conferring the benefits of a common-school education and leaving the example of their blameless lives; these constitute an invaluable inheritance, and they were his.

His unusual natural intelligence, aided by his varied experience in life, lead him in most cases to correct judgments. Possessed of unobtrusive manners and habits, and great geniality and kindness of heart, with a pleasant vein of humor pervading his whole composition, giving tone and variety to his social qualities, renders him an agreeable conversationalist.

We append herewith a copy of his autograph.

Gen. HORACE NEWTON BILL' (Earl, Oliver, James, John, Philip, John), the youngest son of Dr. Earl and Sarah (Jackson) Bill; was born at Remsen, Oneida County, N. Y.,

Eine Bil

Aug. 1, 1815, and was married June 28, 1838, to Rhoda Sylvania Mitchell, of Vernon, N. Y.

He purchased of his brother Chauncy the "Vernon Courier," somewhere about 1840, which it is supposed he published for several years. After this he removed to Rome, N. Y., where he lived for a number of years, and for three terms was collector of the canal tolls. In 1851 he had a position in the Comptroller's Office of the State of New York. In the winter of 1851-2, he was Librarian to the New York House of Representatives. In the latter part of the year 1852 he removed to Sandusky, Ohio. From 1853 to 1859 he was Clerk of the County of Erie, O. In 1860 he was commissioned by Governor William Denison as Brig.-General of militia. In 1861 he was placed in charge of Camp Jefferson, near the Virginia State line, and he continued in command up to the time of its discontinuance. On the first of Jan., 1862, he was appointed U. S. Deputy Marshal of the Northern District of Ohio, by his brother, Earl Bill. He continued in this office upward of four years, and during this time he with his family resided at Cleveland, O., where they now are. At a recent municipal election he was chosen a Justice of the Peace, which office he now holds. In 1862 or 3, at Cleveland, while returning to his home late at night, he was most brutally assaulted by one or more ruffians, armed with some merciless weapon. He was knocked down and severely cut about his head, and was left sweltering in pools of blood. He so far recovered as to be able to reach his home, where for many weeks he was confined, his life at times quite despaired of. He is, however, now in fair health, but careful of dark corners and suspiciouslooking people!

His children have been:

1039 Sarah Sylvania, b. April 4, 1841; m. J. Eugene Jones, now deceased.

1040 Horace Earl, b. Jan. 28, 1849; d. in infancy.

HARRIET PORTER BILL<sup>7</sup> (Amos, Oliver, James, John, Philip, John), daughter of Amos and Clarinda (Porter) Bill; was born in Lebanon, Nov. 20, 1812, and married Jarvis Porter Lord, May 25, 1826, a presumed consin.

She bears off the honor of being the earliest married of any of whom we have given any account. We were led to question the truthfulness of the statement, but have been assured of its entire reliability. She was married at the age of  $13\frac{1}{2}$  years, and became a mother at a little rising of 15. This is, to say the least, not a common incident. This family reside in Lebanon.

They have had children:

1056 Harvey Porter<sup>8</sup> (Lord), b. March 6, 1828; d. Sept. 28, 1830.

Capt. Bill is one of the few who has lent us his invaluable aid and active co-operation in gathering material and searching the family records of ancestors, thereby laying us under many obligations for these voluntary acts of kindness. His labors, it is true, have embraced only his own branch of the family, yet they have not been inconsiderable, and have involved, as we can readily understand, no little pains or expense. No material received by us from any member of the family came in such readiness for the press as did his. We mention this in justice to his patience, and the lively interest taken in the compilation of this volume. His reward is the satisfaction he will have in knowing, and in due time seeing, when this volume shall reach his hands, that his labors have not been thrown away.

For a period of over thirty years, Capt. Bill has been a merchant, commencing business in 1826, at Orange, Vt., the residence of his father. Here he remained but three years, when he removed to West Topsham, Vt., the place of his present residence. He was commissioned captain in the State militia in 1829. He has filled various offices in the town, from 1835 to the present time. He has held the office of justice of the peace from 1837 till now, and during the years of 1845 and 1846 he represented the town of Topsham in the State Legislature.

We append a copy of his autograph:

Very Mary. C. G. Bree

The children of Carlos Pitkin and Mary Ann (Jenness) Bill have been:

1088 Eveline Pitkin,<sup>s</sup> b. May 17, 1831; m. June 14, 1865,
Calvin H. Blodgett, b. April 7, 1827, son of Hon.
Calvin Blodgett. They reside at Burlington, Vt.

Col. Carpenter is a man of some public note in the State of Vermont. His occupation is that of a farmer, yet a considerable portion of his life has been devoted to the interests of his fellow-citizens in some official capacity. He resided with his family in the town of Orange up to 1854, at which time he removed to Barre, Vt., where he lives at the present time. He represented the town of Orange in the State Legislature several years between 1837 and 1845, and at one time was High Sheriff of Orange County, and has been State Auditor, besides holding all the grades in the State militia, from adjutant to colonel, as well as the various minor yet important civil offices in both the towns of Orange and Barre.

They have had children, all born in Orange:

- 1090 Flora M.<sup>8</sup> (Carpenter), b. May 27, 1837; m. Jan. 1, 1862, Isaac Newton Camp, a school-teacher, at Burlington, Vt.

Maj. Bill, the year following his marriage, removed to West Topsham, Vt., where for six years he was employed in his brother Carlos P. Bill's store, at the same time holding the office of Deputy Sheriff. In 1845 he opened a store on his own account at that place, and continued in the mercantile business till 1851. Subsequently, his time and attention have been divided between his own affairs and public duties.

He represented the town of Topsham in the State Legislature during the years of 1854, 1855, and 1857. He was a delegate to the Constitutional Convention in 1856, and was elected State Senator for Orange County in the years 1858 and 1859. He has held the offices of Captain and Major in the State militia. For several years prior to 1865, was a director of the Bradford Bank, and has had much to do with the settlement of estates of deceased persons.

Maj. Bill is an energetic, upright, and faithful citizen, exerting a wide and salutary influence in the section of country where he resides.

The children of Roswell M. and Merinda (Nelson) Bill have been:

- 1099 Adela M., b. Sept. 1, 1839; m. Ferdinand Sherwin, Jan.1, 1866. They reside at Wells River, Vt.

685.

In 1854, he commenced the study of medicine under Dr. Charles B. Chandler, of Montpelier, Vt. After this he attended two courses of medical lectures at Dartmouth College, one at the University of Vermont, and one in the University of New York City, at the last of which he received the degree of M. D., in the spring of 1859. At his final examination in anatomy and surgery, he was highly commended by the Faculty. He soon settled in Tennessee, and entered upon the practice of his profession, which he continued up to the time of the breaking out of the late civil war, in 1861. The condition of public sentiment in Tennessee was at that time more or less chaotic, and it being well known that he was by birth a Northern man, he felt it to be the course of prudence to withdraw for the time from public duties. He was, however, soon offered a commission in the Rebel army: this he very respectfully declined, and the result of this declination was, that he found himself obliged to leave that seetion of the country. He proceeded northward by the way of Louisville, Ky.; while here he met and was introduced to Gen. W. T. Sherman, who had command of that Department, and through his influence he obtained a commission as Surgeon in the United States Army. He was assigned to the Fifteenth Regiment U. S. Infantry, and continued in the service of this regiment during 1861, 1862, and 1863, and received, during all this period, the respect and confidence of both officers and men.

The General under whom he served paid him this high compliment, namely:—" Dr. Bill could always be found on the field, and conducted himself the most bravely of any surgeon in my command." The regiment presented him with a beautiful and expensive case of surgical instruments, in token of their appreciation of his valuable services rendered to them. He was in the battles of Shiloh,* Murfreesboro', Nashville, and many other minor engagements, doing active duty on those fields.

He was, at his own request, relieved from active duties and assigned to the Department Head-Quarters, as examining surgeon for discharges, forming one of a board of three surgeons. This medical board, we are informed, had passed upon more than 7,000 applications for discharge in the space of three months!

He was afterwards detailed as Surgeon-in-Chief of "Howard Hospital," at Nashville, which post he held for nearly one year, having during this time the care of many wounded and disabled soldiers; he here performed many capital operations in surgery with marked success. His health failing him, he was compelled to resign, but after a brief respite among his relatives he returned to Nashville, and at the solicitation of Andrew Johnson, then military governor of Tennessee, he accepted an appointment as surgeon of the Fifth Regiment of Tenn. Cavalry, and he continued to act in that capacity till the close of the war, in 1865, being mustered out of the service in August of that year. The subsequent month he was married to Miss Worcester, as stated. He is now living in Fayetteville, Tenn., practicing his profession and attending to the cultivation of a cotton plantation.

Judge JOHN WIGHT BILL<sup>1</sup> (Lodowick,<sup>6</sup> Benajah,<sup>5</sup> Phineas,<sup>4</sup> Joshua,<sup>3</sup> Philip,<sup>2</sup> John <sup>1</sup>), son of Lodowick and Betsey (Geer) Bill, and brother of the preceding; was born in Groton [Ledyard], Jan. 4, 1813, and on Aug. 4, 1836, married Prudence Gallup, a daughter of Capt. Jacob Gallup, of Ledyard.

This family reside in Lyme, Ct., on what is now known as "Bill Hill," a title given to this elevated tract of land in consequence of its being the residence of several families of the name. Judge Lodowick Bill and his three sons, John Wight, Benajah Park, and James A., live there, and their several dwellings are clustered within speaking distance of each other.

Mr. Bill is an enterprising and well-to-do farmer, taking an intelligent interest in all matters relating to agriculture, and finds abundant leisure to keep well informed on all local and national concerns.

He has taken an active part in party politics, though never to our knowledge as a candidate for his own preferment, until the present year, when, at the annual State election, he ran for the office of Judge of Probate on the Democratic ticket, and was duly elected, thus succeeding to the position once held by his father.

The children of John Wight and Prudence (Gallup) Bill have been:

1159 John Oscar, b. Nov. 13, 1837. In 1861, April 21, he enlisted in the first company and first regiment of Connecticut Volunteers, as a "three-months' man." This regiment was mustered out at the expiration of three months, and he was honorably discharged, July 21, 1861.

- 1160 Prudence Parthenia,<sup>8</sup> b. March 27, 1839; d. Feb. 21, 1842.
- 1161 Gilbert La Fayette,<sup>8</sup> b. Jan. 15, 1842; d. Feb. 17, 1863, having just entered manhood. He was a young man of unusual promise, and had been carefully educated, with the expectation of his eventually entering on the study of the law.

He was the idol of his parents—on him they built their fondest hopes, and his death was a most crushing affliction to them, as well as a great loss to all his relatives and friends, who were numerous, and by whom he was much beloved and deeply lamented. He was educated at Fort Edward Institute, New York, where he won many honors, and where the tidings of his decease were received with deep sorrow.*

- 1162 Ellen Loraine,<sup>8</sup> b. July 30, 1844; was married March 17, 1864, to William H. Fowler, of Williamsburg, L. I., N. Y. They now reside in Brooklyn, N. Y. They have a daughter, Susan Wight<sup>9</sup> (Fowler), b. April 13, 1865.
- 1163 Lodowick, b. March 30, 1847.
- 1164 Emma Gallup, 8 b. Aug. 8, 1849.

Alas! those hours of pleasing hope were all too bright to last; With blinding tears we think of them, as records of the past: Each well-remembered look, each sweet and pleasant tone, In memory's store are garnered up, as treasures all our own.

When the "golden bowl" was broken, affection's lavish care Could not retain the loved one, of gifts and talents rare; Yet, why mourn the early dead, all joyous in their way, While further on we toiling tread, where shadows thickly lay?

O Life! mysterious, transient gift, and when we pass it through, The mystery deepens still in death, beyond all mortal view. Yet we know our heavenly Father, who rules in love o'er all, Will gather up His children true, as one by one they fall.

* The following lines, composed by his Aunt Louisa, the wife of Benajah P. Bill, now deceased, are worthy of preservation, as showing the esteem in which he was held:

- 1165 Jacob Gallup, b. June 10, 1851.
- 1166 Nelson Horatio, b. March 10, 1853.
- 1167 Robert Allyn, b. Jan. 12, 1855; d. March 22, 1855.
- 1168 Prudence Morgan,8 b. April 28, 1856.
- 1169 Arthur L. Wight, b. March 29, 1858.
- 1170 Edward Lyman, b. June 5, 1862.

BENAJAH PARK BILL' (Lodowick, Benajah, Phineas, Joshua, Philip, John), a brother of the preceding; was born Dec. 5, 1814, and married Sept. 20, 1843, Marx B. Pitcher, born Jan. 6, 1810. She died April 8, 1850, five days after the birth of her first-born, which also died April 8, 1850. His second wife was Louisa M. Peck, daughter of Dea. Timothy Peck, whom he married Sept. 17, 1850. She was born Jan. 9, 1822, and died in the winter of 1866 and 7.

He resides in Lyme, Ct., and is an intelligent, hard-working, thrifty farmer. A slight acquaintance is not sufficient to impart a correct idea of the mental activity and quick wit which for a time may slumber under that storm-worn beaver which he usually wears. It cannot be said that he was ever neutral in respect to any one of the numberless questions which are continually challenging the attention of a free people. An anecdote will illustrate his fondness for discussion; a trait in his character almost irrepressible.

Traveling in a Western steamer, he observed in the rear saloon a small company of gentlemen earnestly discussing some political or theological question: drawing near, he listened in silence till he had obtained the thread of the discussion; perceiving that the party whose views were in accordance with his own had the advantage in the controversy, while the opposing party, a clergyman, seemed to be greatly crowded, he took a fancy to help the weaker side, and at once "put in his oar," presenting arguments which turned the tide against the just now exultant disputant, quite discomfiting him. While receiving the congratulations of his clerical friend, a fellow-traveler joined the circle who happened to know Mr. Bill, and, learning the particulars, also knew the views Mr. B. had just been advocating were exactly opposite to his real opinions; thinking it too good a joke to be passed over, he stated the facts, to the great amusement of the company, excepting, probably, the aforesaid clergyman.

The children of Benajah P. Bill have been, by first wife:

- 1171 Mary Pitcher, b. April 3, 1850. By second wife:
- 1172 David Pitcher, b. Aug. 24, 1851.
- 1173 Mary Jane, b. Dec. 8, 1852.
- 1174 Thomas Peck, b. Aug. 23, 1854.
- 1175 Ann Louisa, b. July 22, 1856.
- 1176 Frank Pierce, b. April 15, 1858.
- 1177 Benajah Park, b. March 19, 1860.
- 1178 Caroline Park, b. Dec. 3, 1861.

Capt. JAMES ALEXANDER BILL<sup>7</sup> (Lodowick, Benajah, Phineas, Joshua, Philip, John), son of Lodowick and Betsey (Geer) Bill, and brother of the preceding; was born at Lyme, March 30, 1817, and on Aug. 26, 1839, married Ann S. Lord, who was born April 7, 1820; daughter of Joseph and Phebe (Burnham) Lord, of Lyme.

Mr. Bill was reared and has always resided in the same town. His educational advantages were confined to district schools of his native town. At the age of 20 years he engaged in the book business, and traveled extensively through the Western States for the space of five years, with great success. In 1842 he established himself in Philadelphia as a book publisher, and remained in this business for twenty years. A large part of this time, however, he was heavily engaged in agricultural pursuits. Into his profession as a farmer he carried the same zeal and enthusiasm that had distinguished him as a publisher, and by which he had acquired a competence. He was early an officer of the State Board of Agriculture, and a heavy competitor at the State Fairs in the stock department. His large droves of elegant Devon cattle, and flocks of Spanish Merino and Sonth Down sheep, always attracted great admiration at both the State and County Fairs, and gave him a wide reputation throughout the country. At the New London County Fairs he has often exhibited 100 head of cattle and 75 sheep. A leading officer in the County Society from its organization, he has been twice its President, and by his intelligent zeal has made himself one of the most influential agriculturists in the State.

In 1849 he entered warmly into politics, and was returned to the Legislature from his native town by the Democrats. In 1852 and 1853 he represented his senatorial district in the State Senate, and in 1867 was again elected a member of the House. In every case he ran against heavy odds, and never was a candidate but to win. In fact, in this as in every thing else, he early in life appears to have adopted the sentiment of the French Cardinal—

"In the bright lexicon of youth,
Which fate reserves for brighter manhood,
There's no such word as fail,"

In early life he was commissioned captain in the State militia, and had the command of a local military organization.

He is now leading an agricultural life exclusively, and in the independence of his rural home dispenses a generous hospitality to all who come beneath his roof. We append a facsimile of his autograph:

They have had eleven children, seven of whom are still living.

They are as follows:

1179 Elizabeth Geer, b. April 27, 1841.

1180 Phebe Burnham, b. June 15, 1843; d.

1181 Mary Jane, b. May 5, 1845; d. Oct. 6, 1851.

- 1182 Prudence Ann, b. June 15, 1847.
- 1183 Rebecca Lord, b. Sept. 29, 1848; d. Dec. 9, 1856.
- 1184 Lodowick, b. July 31, 1850.
- 1185 James Alexander, b. April 16, 1852.
- 1186 Kansas Nebraska, b. July 20, 1856.
- 1187 Lecompton Constitution, b. Oct. 16, 1857.
- 1188 William Warren, b. Oct. 16, 1859; d. Feb. 16, 1860.
- 1189 Jefferson Davis, b. Feb. 7, 1862.

LUCY STARK BILL' (Lodowick, Benajah, Phineas, Joshua, Philip, John), a sister of the preceding; was born in Lyme, March 23, 1822, and married EBENEZER E. BROCK-way, of same place, who was born Dec. 4, 1819.

This family reside in Lyme. He is a farmer, and a man of estimable character.

They have had children:

- 1190 Lodowick Bill* (Brockway), b. Oct. 8, 1845.
- 1191 James Monroe<sup>8</sup> (Brockway), b. July 31, 1848.

733.

died Sept. 5, 1865, leaving no children. His second wife, Ora Angeline Latham, he married at Providence, R. I., Sept. 13, 1866. She was a native of Ledyard, Ct., where she was born Oct. 22, 1850.

This family live, we believe, in Norwich or Montville, Ct.

735.

SIDNEY WORTHINGTON BILL† (Elisha Satterlee, Benajah, Phineas, Joshua, Philip, John†), a brother of the foregoing; born in Griswold, Oct. 23, 1830. He married Emeline Hyde, of Lisbon, July 4, 1853.

This family reside at Norwich, on the west side, and are highly respectable.

They have but one child, a very promising son:

1207 Charles Sidney, b. May 26, 1860.

736.

1208 Anna Maria Frances,8 b. June 8, 1858.

1209 Charles Gardner, b. Aug. 25, 1860; d. Sept. 8, 1860.

737.

EZRA GARDNER BILL' (Elisha Satterlee, Benajah, Phineas, Joshua, Philip, John), brother of the preceding; born in Griswold, Oct. 3, 1836; married, first, March 27, 1860, Lauretta Hyde, who died March 24, 1861, leaving no children. His second wife was Sarah Elizabeth (Masters) Champlain, whom he married 13th March, 1864. They live in Montville,

The children are:

1210 Mary Elizabeth, b. Sept. 20, 1865; d. March 2, 1866.

HORATIO NELSON BILL' (Nelson Horatius, Benajah, Phineas, Joshua, Philip, John), eldest son of Nelson Horatius Bill; was born in Lebanon, March 25, 1824, and Sept. 4, 1850, married Julia Ann Branch, of Springfield, N. Y.

This family reside at Willimantic, and have children:

- 1211 Edward Nelson, b. Jan. 13, 1852.
- 1212 Ida Maria, b. Dec. 7, 1853.
- 1213 Arthur Irving, b. June 27, 1856.
- 1214 Charles Oliver, b. Dec. 22, 1858.

750.

JEREMIAH CANNING BILL' (Nelson Horatius, Benajah, Phineas, Joshua, Philip, John'), brother of the preceding; was born in Lebanon, Sept. 21, 1827, and married, Nov. 29, 1855, Julia Hurlburt Corey, daughter of Joseph Corey, of Lebanon.

This family resided at Lebanon, where Mrs. Bill died Aug. 14, 1864. Her decease left him quite alone, since his two children had been removed by death but a few weeks prior.

Mr. Bill has considerable talent as a draughtsman, and was for some time employed in making patterns for the first wood type made in this country. He is now living temporarily in New York, but considers his residence to be at Willimantic, Ct., we believe.

His children have been:

- 1215 Leroy Canning, b. April 7, 1857; d. Sept. 6, 1857.
- 1216 Eugene Howard, b. May 31, 1858; d. July 25, 1864.
- 1217 Frederic Corey, b. June 29, 1863; d. April 28, 1864.

751.

EDWARD MITCHELL BILL' (Gurdon, Joshua, Phineas, Joshua, Phineas, Joshua, Philip, John), son of Gurdon and Lucy (Yerrington) Bill; was born in Groton [Ledyard], April 24, 1822, and married, June 1, 1847, ESTHER ALICE SYLVESTER, daughter of Levi P. and Lydia (Bill) Sylvester, of Greensburg, Indiana. We have in the sketch of Benjamin's Bill, No. 23, given something relating to the ancestry of Lydia Bill, above named, the mother of the wife of Edward Mitchell Bill. Since penning that account nothing has come to light to cause us to change our views as there expressed; to which the reader is referred.

Edward M. Bill was reared a farmer, but, before attaining his majority, learned the trade of a house-carpenter. This latter occupation he has never followed. For quite a period he was an officer in the New London County prison, situated at Norwich. He afterwards traveled in several of the Western States, engaged in the sale of books. For several years prior to 1854, he was located in business at Worcester, Mass., after which he removed to Albia, Iowa, where he now resides, being engaged in farming.

He is at present the Superintendent of Schools for Monroe County, Iowa.

His children have been:

- 1218 Ira Edward, b. June 3, 1849; d. Dec. 19, 1851.
- 1219 Lucy Yerrington, b. Oct. 1, 1853; d. Aug. 7, 1855.
- 1220 Lydia Silvester, b. June 26, 1856.
- 1221 Edward Henry, b. Dec. 19, 1859; d. April 30, 1862.
- 1222 Gurdon Frederic, b. June 17, 1861.
- 1223 Clara Maria, b. Sept. 13, 1863.
- 1224 Edward Charles, b. March 1, 1866.

752.

HENRY BILL<sup>7</sup> (Gurdon, Joshua, Phineas, Joshua, Philip, John), son of Gurdon and Lucy (Yerrington) Bill; was born in Groton [Ledyard], May 18, 1824, and was on Feb. 10, 1847, married to Julia Octavia Chapman, born in Groton, Dec. 14, 1824, daughter of Simeon Chapman.

At the age of 14 he was apprenticed to John J. Hyde, in the office of the old New London Gazette, but remained only four months, when he went back to assist his father on the farm. He returned to New London in a few months, and engaged for a short time as a clerk for Robert Chapman, in a confectionery store. The following winter he engaged as a teacher in the Broadbrook district, Preston, at the wages of $9 a month. He was so well pleased with this occupation, and so highly commended by the district committee for his success, that he resolved to adopt it for a profession, and to this end he attended in the succeeding fall a teachers' preparatory school in Plainfield. The following winter he taught school in Plainfield, and the winter after at Groton. In 1842, at the age of eighteen, after the fashion of enterprising boys of that day, he purchased his time till he should arrive at the age of manhood. At this time a business opened to him which turned the course of his life. His cousin, James A. Bill, of Lyme, then a successful book publisher, induced him to embark as a traveling agent in the sale of his publications. He traveled extensively through several of the Western and some of the Eastern States. In the fall of 1847, by the encouragement of Messrs. Harper & Brothers, of New York, he engaged in the publication and sale of books by subscription, and located permanently at Norwich, Ct. Here he has since resided, actively engaged in the publishing business, and uniformly successful in his undertakings. Chief among the works which he has published may be mentioned Stephens's Travels in Yucatan; History of the World (2 vols.), by Mannder; The Encyclopedia of all Nations, by Murray; Illustrated History of the Bible, by Kitto; and, in connection with his brothers, Gurdon and Ledyard, The Civil War in America, by Abbott.

In the dissemination of about half a million of these books he has employed about two thousand agents. He is now one of the oldest subscription book publishers in the country, and one of the most successful, and still continues to push his business into all parts of the Union.

He has not confined his attention solely to book publishing. In 1850, he engaged, in company with two other gentlemen, in developing a large tract of land on the south bank of the Shetucket, at its junction with the River Thames, now called Laurel Hill. He was the active partner in this enterprise, and has now the satisfaction of seeing what was a rugged and apparently worthless tract of land, when he put his hand to it, one of the most flourishing villages in the State, connected with Norwich by a substantial iron bridge. Here he has his residence, and enjoys all the comforts and luxuries of a New England home.

He has also devoted much time to politics. In 1853, he was nominated by the Democrats to represent the eighth senatorial district in the State Senate. This district had the previous year returned an opposition member, but such were the issues and such his popularity that he received a large majority of votes over his opponent. He has never run for any office since, but has been an earnest worker in the Republican ranks since the organization of that party. During the Southern Rebellion he was actively engaged in raising troops, and, as one of the patriotic committee of Norwich, contributed largely of his time and means to raise and equip troops for the national defense.

His last act for the benefit of the public was the endowment of a public library in his native town. For this purpose the Legislature of the State have chartered a corporation under the title of "The Bill Library Association," which will take control of the fund of $1,000, and the library of one thousand volumes, contributed by Mr. Bill for the permanent establishment of a free public library in Ledyard. In this he has only acted out the promptings of his life—to do good to all as far as his ability will permit, and to make the world permanently better for his having lived in it.

A fac-simile of his autograph is herewith appended:

Hesny Sin

The children of Henry and Julia O. (Chapman) Bill have been:

1225 Henry Gustavus, b. Nov. 18, 1847; d. Nov. 3, 1853.

1226 John Harper, b. June 21, 1851.

1227 Henry Sumner, b. June 19, 1856; d. —.

1228 Julia Florence, b. April 29, 1858.

1229 Jennie Eliza, b. April 8, 1860.

1230 Frederic Abbott, b. March 12, 1864.

755.

GURDON BILL<sup>7</sup> (Gurdon, Joshua, Phineas, Joshua, Philip, John), son of Gurdon and Lucy (Yerrington) Bill, and brother of the preceding; was born in Groton [Ledyard], June 7, 1827. He married, May 12, 1853, Emily A. Denison, daughter of Nathan Fish Denison, Esq., of Groton, a descendant of Gen. Daniel Denison, well known in colonial history.

It had been for some years the intention of his father to give each of his sons a taste of his own protracted experience of seven summers' "working out" on a farm, that they might learn the value of labor and the economic use of money. Consequently, all of his sons, excepting the youngest, had one summer's labor assigned them away from the homestead while in their minority. About 1845 the subject of this sketch, and in accordance with this purpose, entered the employ of Joseph Geer, a farmer living in Ledyard. Here he was duly inducted into the arts of a farm life away from the paternal roof-tree. At the close of this engagement he was induced, at the urgent solicitations of James A. Bill, at that time a book publisher, to undertake an agency for the sale of his publications in parts of the Western States. After a few years of travel there, and having acquired a capital sufficient to engage in business with advantage, he, in 1854, established himself in the flourishing city of Springfield, Mass., as a publisher of books by subscription. In 1856 his brother Frederic became his partner. They continued the business till 1861, when his brother retired. His career as a publisher has been an eminently successful one, bringing with it an ample fortune. His publications have had an extensive sale, reaching the enormous number of about a half million copies, which has given, both in the manufacture and sale, profitable employment to very many people.

Among his chief publications are: Life of Washington, by Headley; The Gallery of the Bible (2 vols.), by Griswold & Weld; Life of Abraham Lineoln, by Holland; and in connection with his brothers, Henry and Ledyard, The Civil War in America, by Abbott.

His life has been comparatively a quiet one, never treading in the whirlpool of politics, yet by no means an indifferent observer of questions that affect the welfare of the State or nation, aiming always to perform his duty as a citizen conscientiously and uprightly. His elegant home, on the outskirts of the city, overlooks one of the lovelicst landscapes in all the valley of that beautiful river—the Connecticut. We attach herewith a fac-simile of his autograph.

His children are:

1231 Nathan Denison, b. Oct. 12, 1855.

1232 Hattie Eliza, b. Aug. 21, 1857.

1233 Mary Avery, b. Sept. 15, 1859.

1234 Edward Everett, b. Feb. 22, 1862.

758.

FREDERIC BILL' (Gurdon, Joshua, Phineas, Joshua, Philip, John'), son of Gurdon and Luey (Yerrington) Bill, and brother of the preceding; was born in Groton [Ledyard], Sept. 7, 1833, and on May 19, 1858, married Lucy G. Denison, daughter of Nathan F. Denison, Esq., of Groton.

In early life, and after having attended the ordinary public schools, he continued his studies at the Suffield Literary Institute, at Suffield, Ct., in company with his next younger brother. At the age of 16 he taught the Lestertown district school, in Ledyard, with unusual satisfaction to its patrons, since which time he has traveled extensively in the States, also over most of the British American Provinces.

In 1856 he became his brother Gurdon's partner in the publishing business at Springfield, Mass.

Desiring to see something of foreign life, and at the same time view a tropical clime, he visited during the winter of 1857–8 the Island of Cuba, taking passage on the somewhat famous "Black Warrior," at New York. After a few days of delightful sail he reached Havana, where after a brief sojourn in hat city proceeded to Matanzas, and from thence to a plantation where, having letters of introduction, he spent a few weeks most agreeably in observing the customs and systems of that country, as well as regaling himself with the luxuriant fruits and the charming landscapes of that remarkable island.

On the breaking out of the war, in 1861, he decided to retire from trade, and disposed of his interest to his brother. He soon after, in company with his wife, traveled by his own private conveyance over a large portion of the State of New York and in New England, freed from the perplexities of business and the strife of trade, which he so much needed and enjoyed. In 1865, after the close of the war, he embarked with a partner, under the firm name of Tracy & Bill, in the manufacturing business, at Newark, N. J., with an office and sales-room at 101 Chambers Street, New York City. We attach a fac-simile of his signature:

CHARLES BILL¹ (Gurdon, Joshna, Phineas, Joshua, Philip, John¹), youngest son of Gurdon and Lucy (Yerrington) Bill, and brother of the foregoing; was born in Ledyard, June 7, 1840; and is unmarried.

His advantages for an education have exceeded those of any if not all of his brothers. Up to his 16th year he had attended no other than the common school during the winter months. The death of his father occurring at this time released him from farm duties, and on December 3, 1856, he entered the junior class of the State Normal School, at New Britain, where he remained nearly two years, after which he entered the Norwich Free Aeademy, at Norwich, then under the charge of Prof. Elbridge Smith. He remained there several years, finishing his course of study, and in July, 1861, graduated as valedictorian of his class. Desiring to pursue his studies yet further, he entered the Scientific Department of Yale College in the fall of 1861, where he also remained till the completion of his course, occupying several years, and ranking at graduation as second in proficiency. He has taken the degree of B. P. at Yale, and three prize medals in the course of his studies:—one for "Select Declamation"—one for the best examination in the "Natural Sciences," and one for a prize "Essay."

He is now in business at Chicago, Ill.

Rev. FRANK WESLEY BILL<sup>1</sup> (Phineas,<sup>6</sup> Joshua,<sup>5</sup> Phineas,<sup>4</sup> Joshua,<sup>5</sup> Philip,<sup>2</sup> John <sup>1</sup>), son of Phineas and Fanny (Gallup) Bill; was born in Groton, June 4, 1820, and married, March 14, 1843, Rowena Cleveland.

He first attended school at Meeting-House Hill, in Groton, now Ledyard. At ten years of age he moved with his parents to Norwich, where all of the children engaged as "raw hands" in a cotton factory, of which he once said, "We all had there our 'bitter full.'" Here he worked two or three years, during which time his father went to sea, as a cooper. During this period he was converted, and became a believer in the Christian's hope. He was soon after apprenticed to a Mr. Ross, a tailor; he remained with him between one and two years. His mind was greatly agitated on religious subjects, and, after many inward struggles, he resolved to become a minister of the Gospel. Upon application to Mr. Ross, he was relieved from serving the remainder of his time, and, having secured aid from some of his friends, he entered the academy at Norwich, where, for a year, he prosecuted his studies. At this time, his father having returned home, he felt he was at liberty to leave and attend a higher school, the advantages of which were apparent to him. Again aided by friends, he packed his entire wardrobe and library in a pocket-handkerchief, and, in company with a friend, walked from Norwich to Wilbraham, Mass., a distance of some sixty miles by the common road, and entered the Wesleyan Theological School at that place. During his stay there, his father was killed by a fellow-workman, at the Parish of Assumption, in Louisiana.

After finishing his first course at this college, and with a view to furnish himself with necessary means, he taught select schools at Enfield and North Somers, in Connecticut, and in Long Meadow and Ludlow, in Massachusetts. He afterwards graduated at the above college, in his 18th year.

During his college course he preached his first sermon in the old Methodist Episcopal Church at Norwich Falls, Conpecticut, and was ordained to the work of the ministry August 16, 1841.

Having faithfully performed the labors of a preacher of the Gospel in the Methodist connection in Norwich and elsewhere, for the space of ten years, he was, on account of ill health, compelled, in September, 1851, to withdraw for a year from the service. During this time he traveled in portions of the New England States and in Canada, preaching occasionally, and contributing articles to newspapers.

On the 11th of October, 1852, he was appointed to the charge of the Methodist Episcopal Church in South Fifth Street, Williamsburg, Long Island. He remained there nearly two years, preaching with great acceptance to that people; and his labors seemed here to have more than a usual harvest.

But, having received an appointment from the American Seamen's Friend Society, as chaplain to seamen at Callao, the port of Lima, in Peru, South America, including also the Chincha Islands, after much and prayerful thought, he felt it to be his duty to accept the post, his people parting with great reluctance from him, he having greatly endeared himself to them during the period of his ministration. On June 20, 1854, he embarked on one of the Aspinwall line of steamers, and arrived at the Isthmus on the 29th of the same month. Here he remained for several weeks, at the urgent request of the Rev. Mr. Rowell, and occupied his place at that point. This was a fatal mistake, as the season was the sickly one, and had he been acquainted with that deadly climate, he would have made his sojourn very brief. Fresh from the invigorating air of the North, in less than ten days set down in a tropical climate, dangerous at all times, and markedly so at mid-summer, unacclimated as he was, it needed but a few trifling exposures to the evening airs to sow the seeds of a fatal fever, which prevails in that locality every summer season. He was, for a time, prostrated, yet not wholly confined; and while there he kept up his customary correspondence with some of the leading public journals of New York, his letters being chiefly, however, found in the New York Sun and Times. During his stay, a most daring robbery was perpetrated on him at the house where he made it his home. We subjoin an account of the affair, taken from a paper published at the time at Panama, New Granada.

DARING ROBBERY.

We learn that a most daring robbery was committed at the residence of the Missionary Minister in this city on Friday. The Rev. Mr. Bill, who is acting for Mr. Rowell, left the house about 3 o'clock P. M., having secured the doors, and taken the key with him. On his return he found that the house had been entered by the back window, and on further examination discovered that his gold watch, pencil-case, gold pens, a quantity of valuable clothing and boots had been stolen. He immediately lodged a complaint at the police office, and after a good deal of searching the boots and pencil-case were found, in a house outside the walls. The thief, who is a native, was seen offering the watch for sale for $60.

He was afterwards pointed out to Mr. Bill and the police, but effected his escape. The police are still on the lookout for the scoundrel, and we should think, knowing where he hid his plunder, they will have no difficulty in securing him.

On the 6th of October following, Mr. Rowell having returned, he at once left for Callao. He was sick on board of the steamer, yet able to sit up and move slowly about. On his arrival at Guayaquil, he, with two companions, went ashore, and remained till after night-fall. This most imprudent step resulted in his immediate prostration, and his life was the sacrifice. He died at Callao, October 25, 1854, in his thirty-fifth year.

Frank W. Bill was a man of decided talent. Gifted with eloquent utterance, and having the love of his fellow-men at heart, he was the instrument in God's Providence for doing great good in the cause of Christianity. The church militant everywhere had in his death cause of sincere regret.

The power of personal magnetism in him was very great, and the influence he exerted over his people was unusual. They were devotedly attached to him for his many noble and manly qualities. It is in our power to testify to this; for on various occasions, and in widely separated communities, we have related to his friends his death, and the sad intelligence has brought floods of blinding tears. To be thus enshrined in the hearts of men is a monument indeed!

By his native energy he rose from humble life and circumstances to a position of high respect and commanding influence. Several of his sermons have been published, and take high rank for the soundness of their theology and clearness of statement.

It was a mysterious Providence by which he was cut down when just entering, as it were, on what promised to be a career of distinguished usefulness. We append a fac-simile of his autograph.

ERASTUS DENISON BILL<sup>1</sup> (Phineas, Joshua, Phineas, Groton, May 13, 1826, and married, first, in June 15, 1854, Eliza Jane Phillips, daughter of Stanton Phillips, of Lisbon, Ct. She died at Sheffield, Illinois, August 1, 1857. He married his second wife, Adah M. West, September 2, 1857; daughter of Dr. Charles West, of Plymouth, Indiana.

At the age of sixteen he entered on a sea-faring life, and went two voyages in the whaling-ship Citizen, of Sag Harbor. Prior to this voyage he was engaged farming, in the employ of Henry W. Avery, of Ledyard, Ct. After completing his first whaling trip, he went again. This time his vessel reached New York, after a two years' cruise, with a cargo of 3,700 casks of oil. He sailed in May, 1849, from New York for California by way of Rio de Janeiro and Talcahuano as second officer of the barque Hannah Sprague, a merchant vessel. From San Francisco, in April, 1851, he sailed as first officer of barque SARAH SHEAFE, and arrived at New York via Cape Horn on the 20th of September following. In the fall of the following year he sailed from New York, on board the clipper ship As-CUTNEY, for Australia, to engage in trade there, but not finding things to his satisfaction, left in May, 1853, on board of the same vessel that brought him, for Boston, taking in his way Manilla, Calcutta, and the Cape of Good Hope; arriving May 12, 1854. He was married the succeeding month after his arrival, and soon thereafter removed to Sheffield, Illinois, where he engaged in mercantile pursuits. From there he moved, in 1866, to Plymouth, Indiana, where he now resides, and where he is engaged in trade, having erected a store for that purpose. His aged mother has for several years made her home in his family. Since his residence in the West, he has adopted the final s.

RICHARD SHIPPEN BILL<sup>8</sup> (David, David, Samuel, Samuel, Samuel, Samuel, Philip, John), son of David and Mary P. (Gallagher) Bill; born in Philadelphia, Dec. 10, 1821; married Sarah Ann Sutton, of that place, July 27, 1843.

His occupation is that of a hatter. He resides in the city of New York.

His children are:

- 1321 Kate Frances, b. June 11, 1844.
- 1322 Richard Montresor, b. Oct. 28, 1845.
- 1323 David Wilfred, b. Oct. 2, 1848.

Doctor Bill is a man of considerable distinction in the United States Regular Army, as a skillful surgeon; is also well known as a chemist of eminent abilities. By his studiousness and persevering industry, he has risen from humble life to distinction and honors. He graduated at Princeton College, in 1855; and, becoming attached to the army, was appointed Superintendent of the United States Chemical Laboratory, first on Long Island, now at the corner of North Sixth and Oxford Streets, Philadelphia, in which city he at present resides. During the recent civil war this was the most extensive chemical establishment in the country. Medicines for a million of men were prepared there, not counting the immense losses and surplus stores of this material necessitated in times of war. It is a signal mark of his ability and honesty that no charge of venality has been preferred against him during those five years. The Government has seen fit to bestow an additional rank, that of Lieutenant-Colonel in the regular service, as a mark of its confidence, and also of his superior capacities. He still remains in charge of the said laboratory.

Dr. Bill has taken a lively interest in the completion of the family memoir, and has furnished some valuable facts. His grandfather, Gurdon Bill, was a member of the Society of Cincinnati, and the original certificate of membership is now in his possession. We append a fac-simile of his autograph:

CHARLES KING BILL<sup>8</sup> (Alfred, Silvester, Ephraim, Samuel, Samuel, Philip, John ), son of Alfred and Gertrude L. (Farmer) Bill; was born in New York, April 2, 1839.

Mr. Bill is a gentleman of fine address, and possesses a quick, discerning mind, coupled with promptness of action; inherits his father's habits of persevering industry and strict integrity. He resides in the city of New York, where he has built up a business in photography, which is likely to give him a reputation and a fortune. He was recently married to a most amiable lady, Miss Virginia A. Bensel. We attach a fac-simile of his autograph:

Judge LESTER BILL<sup>5</sup> (Elisha,<sup>7</sup> Roswell,<sup>6</sup> Jonathan,<sup>5</sup> James,<sup>4</sup> Samuel,<sup>3</sup> Philip,<sup>2</sup> John<sup>7</sup>), son of Elisha and Betsey (Trowbridge) Bill; born October 7, 1807, and married, in Chaplain, Ct., August 27, 1839, Mary Goodell.

He was raised a farmer, and hved with his parents till he was nearly twenty-one. Prior to this, however, he taught school during the winter months; this occupation he followed for over ten years, having fitted himself as a teacher by attending the academy at Ashford, Connecticut. In 1835 he went to Ohio, and thence to Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, teaching several years in that place. He returned to Chaplain early in 1838, and the two succeeding years clerked it at that place and Pomfret. During the summer of the latter year he was married, since which he has been a farmer, though at times he deals largely in stock.

He has a pleasant home, near the center of the town of Chaplain, on a farm of about three hundred acres, with good buildings, and has the satisfaction of being free from debt. He has been honored with numerous civil offices, namely: Constable, Selectman, Assessor, Justice of the Peace, and lastly, Judge of Probate. He is a man of strong common sense, and an active, honorable citizen. We append a fac-simile of his autograph:

The children of Lester and Mary (Goodell) Bill have been:

1325 Helen Amelia, b. Aug. 10, 1840.

1326 William Wood, b. April 28, 1843.

1327 John Goodell, b. July 23, 1845.

1328 Samuel Houston, b. July 11, 1848. This bright and promising youth was instantly killed by a cartwheel passing over his shoulders, on May 30, 1862.*

eareful to instruct his children to discard the use of this additional letter, which, at that time, had been adopted by his brothers' (Elisha and Azariah) families,—insisting against its use as not belonging to the name, in which, of course, he was perfectly correct.

Mr. Bill has several times been elected to the State Senate of Michigan, besides holding other posts of confidence and trust.

His children have been:

- 1330 Frederic Hiram, b. July 8, 1841; d. April 7, 1853.
- 1331 Oscar Perley, b. June 22, 1843. He is a graduate of Michigan University, and is now preparing to enter the practice of the law.

Capt. CHARLES H. BILL's (John, John, Solomon, Philip, Samuel, Philip, John'), son of John and Clarissa (Gilman) Bill; was born at Charlestown, Portage County, Ohio, in 1840.

He enlisted in the military service of the General Government in 1861, on the breaking out of the late Civil War, as Sergeant in the Second Regiment of Ohio Cavalry, and was regularly promoted to the rank of captain in that regiment. This regiment was assigned to duty on the western frontier, near the Kansas border, and experienced hard service against the hostile Indians and rebel troops and guerrillas. In 1863, this command was transferred to Tennessee, under General A. E. Burnside, and took part in the battle of Knoxville, Nov. 29, 1863, and in other engagements. He for a time was the quartermaster of the regiment, and afterward held the same relation to the brigade with which he was connected. Subsequently, this regiment formed a part of Gen. George A. Custer's division of cavalry, under General Philip H. Sheridan, and took an active part in the closing scenes of the war in Virginia. He was at this time in command of his company, and so continued, being mustered out with his regiment. During his service of about four years he was never seriously wounded. He for a time since the war resided at St. Louis, Mo., but has removed, we believe, to Bement, Illinois.

HARVEY ADAMS BILL<sup>8</sup> (Ebenezer, Ebenezer, Samuel, Ebenezer, Samuel, Philip, John), a brother of the preceding; was born in Gilsum, N. H., April 30, 1808, and married, Dec. 31, 1846, Susan Butterfield Keyes, of Keene, born Aug. 8, 1816.

The early life of Mr. Bill was such as is experienced by most of farmers' sons in New England, but he, having a taste for something higher than mere manual labor, strove to fit himself by reading and study for an intelligent and useful citizenship. He tose from his humble life to the editorship of a newspaper, the Cheshire Republican, published at Keene, N. H.—a paper of large influence among the people of New Hampshire. His editorial labors extended over a period of ten years, during which time the paper maintained a high reputation for truth and honesty. His health becoming precarious, he relinquished his editorial charge, and gradually failing, died six years thereafter, namely, April 21, 1858, aged 50 years. He left a widow, but no children. She is still living at Keene, N. H.

The following tribute to his memory appeared in the Cheshire Republican of April 28, 1858:

THE DEATH OF MR. BILL.

Many an eye will moisten and many a heart feel sad at the announcement under our obituary head this week, of the sudden demise of one who has for many years been personally known to so many of the readers of this paper,—first as the gentlemanly business manager of the office, and latterly, for the eight years preceding 1852, the able and discreet editor of the Republican.

There are very few men in our midst who command the universal respect that was awarded to Mr. Bill. In his dealings with his fellow-men he was guided by the strictest integrity; in his capacity of a public officer, no one ever had reason to complain of any unfaithfulness; as an editor, his ability and discretion were acknowledged as well by his patrons as by the editorial fraternity who labored contemporaneously with him.

Indeed, few editors have labored more faithfully than he, and fewer still are they who have written so little that upon a death-bed they might desire to blot out. Unswerving in his principles, a mind peculiarly disciplined to investigation and rigid criticism, his labors for the cause in which his heart was enlisted were acknowledged by all with whom he was engaged.

And while we remember the more public virtues of our friend, we would not be forgetful of that were only witnessed and felt by those who were his most intimate acquaintance. Kind, affectionate, and genial in his disposition, it was in the inmost recesses of private life that his true nature was unfolded, and it is there that his loss will meet with the most heartfelt sorrow.

But yesterday he was here, giving promise of increasing usefulness with the advance of years. To-day we offer this last tribute to his cherished memory. It is all we can do. To those whose hearts are broken by the sad bereavement, we can offer no more. In this their hour of deepest anguish, condolence must be unavailing. It is pleasant, however, to know that wounds in the hearts of mere transitory friends will not always bleed; that they may learn and love forgetfulness. But there is one to whom no human effort can bring happiness or peace; she whose earliest love "made ambition virtue"—whose sympathy cheered him on in every struggle, and shared his many triumphs;—she it is who must ever be a mourner, with no consolation but the Christian's hope.

Mr. Bill was the last one on earth of our predecessors in the editorship of this paper—all of whom have in their turn gone to solve the great problem of eternity. This circumstance is not without its suggestions.

H., July 10, 1822, and married, Nov. 11, 1846, Fanny Hammond Butler, of Gilsum, born Dec. 24, 1823.

Gen. Bill is one of the enterprising, active men of our day; of sterling character, prompt and upright in all his dealings with his fellow-men, he maintains the good name of his father and that of the family unimpaired.

He resides at the old family homestead in Gilsum, which belonged to his father and grandfather before him. He has been honored not unfrequently by his fellow-citizens with positions where integrity and business capacity were demanded, all of which he has filled to their satisfaction and approval. Besides minor offices, he has represented his town several times in the State Legislature, and has held the commissions of Captain, Major, Lt.-Colonel, Colonel, and Brigadier-General in the State Militia.

REV. JAMES EARL BILL<sup>8</sup> (Jonathan, Jonathan, Jonathan, John, John, John, John, John, John), son of Jonathan and Almira (Carver) Bill; was born at Perry, N. Y., Aug. 3, 1832, and married, Sept. 18, 1853, MARY A. GILBERT, of Covington, N. Y.

It is not common that we find a whole family of children that possess superior mental qualities, or that of a whole family of sons and daughters occupying professional positions. The subject of this notice is one of such a family. He gave early in life promise of large usefulness, and having availed himself of the advantages afforded by several academies situated near his home, and having become a believer in the Gospel of Christ, began to preach in connection with the Methodist Episcopal Church. In 1862 he felt it his duty, as had many another, to serve his country against the rebellion, and enlisted in Company A, First Regiment of New York Dragoons, and was immediately chosen captain. While at the front, he was, on a hot summer's day, disabled by sun-stroke during a most fatiguing exposure. He was for a long time incapacitated from further duty, but on his final recovery, some two years thereafter, was elected chaplain of the same regiment. He is now preaching in the village of Perry, N. Y.

The children of James E. and Mary A. (Gilbert) Bill are:

1353 George Weed, b. Dec. 21, 1857.

1354 Jessie Wentworth, b. June 19, 1865.

He graduated at the Law School at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and is now established in the practice of his profession at Davenport, Iowa. He has already won considerable distinction, and is yet scarce in the prime of life.

They have no children:

JARED MILTON BILL<sup>8</sup> (Jonathan, Jonathan, Jonathan, John, John, Philip, John), brother of the foregoing; was born in Perry, N. Y., May 4, 1835, and on Jan. 1, 1861, married Emily E. Darling, daughter of J. H. Darling, a banker in Warsaw, N. Y.

In 1862 he enlisted in Company A, First N. Y. Dragoons, the same regiment, and at the same time, his elder brother enlisted. He rose to a lieutenancy. In consequence of injuries received, was compelled to resign. After this he entered the Albany Law School, at Albany, N. Y., from which he has graduated, and entered on the practice of the law at Indianapolis, Indiana, where he now resides.

1006.

CHARLES WESLEY BILL<sup>8</sup> (Jonathan, Jonathan, Jonathan, John, John, Philip, John), brother of the preceding; was born at Perry, N. Y., Feb. 17, 1841.

He enlisted as a private, May, 1861, at the first call for volunteers, in Company K, Seventeenth Regiment New York Volunteers. He was a brave soldier, and, at the second disastrous battle of Bull Run, fought August 29, 1862, under General Pope, he was mortally wounded, and died at Armory Square Hospital, Washington City, October 4, 1862.

DAVID BISSELL BILL<sup>8</sup> (Chester, Eleazer, Jonathan, John, Philip, John), brother of the preceding; was born February 9, 1820, and married, in 1840, HARRIET M. Snow, of Snowville, Virginia.

For several years he was in trade at Columbia, Ct., and also in Upton, Mass.; from thence he removed to Virginia in 1853. There he was engaged in planting, and also in manufacturing. He became the owner of slaves; but, of course, these, together with the most of his other property, which was considerable, were swept away by the late war. He resides at Snowville, Virginia.

He had children, as follows:

1360 Clement D., b. in Connecticut, Feb. 28, 1841; d. in infancy.

1361 Chester C., b. in Massachusetts, Oct. 12, 1846; d. May 1, 1853.

Lieut. HORACE HARPER BILL<sup>8</sup> (Earl, Earl, Oliver, James, John, Philip, John), son of Earl and Roxy Ann (Allen) Bill; was born April 4, 1842, and was killed in battle at Antietam, September 17, 1862.

When the Great Rebellion opened, and the President of the United States called for 75,000 volunteers to subdue it by force of arms, his father being absent, he desired the permission of his mother to join the first company of volunteers formed in the vicinity, and could hardly be restrained from enrolling himself at once, being impatient of delay. On the return of his father, the subject was brought to his notice without a moment's delay, and in the most urgent terms. Being reminded that the occupation of a soldier involved very great hardships, ghastly wounds upon the field, imprisonment, and even an untimely death, his reply was to the effect that all those considerations had been taken into the account, and that duty to the Government and country of his birth outweighed them all. With a hearty, though sad, "God bless you, go!" from his father, scarce an hour and he had strapped his blanket and was gone!

The term of three months (that of the original enlistment) soon expired, and without material results, and when the call for "three years or during the war" came, Harper was among the first to re-enlist under it. During the campaign of 1861, the field of his service was in Western Virginia. He was in the first battle of Winchester, when our brave volunteers drove Jackson from his Stonewall cover, and when that rebel general acquired his sobriquet. In numerous other fights, as well as that at Winchester, the young sergeant-major proved himself a true American soldier, and gained the respect of his superior officers and comrades in arms. Indeed, so often had he been exposed in the leaden hail of battle, and so often had he escaped its perils, that he had acquired a feeling of immunity, and confidently hoped to survive all the dangers and vicissitudes incident to war. Yet he was not insensible to those dangers. He was, however, more solicitous respecting his own reputation for courage and gallantry in the bloody breach, than for the physical result to himself. Some extracts from a small diary of his soldier life, written up, doubtless, in the silent watches of the hours devoted to sleep and recuperation from the fatigues of action, will prove and illustrate the condition of his mind. The following entry in his diary was made in 1862, while on the Peninsula, during McClellan's great campaign against Richmond, and after he had been compelled to "change his base."

"July 3d. On the march. Woke up at daybreak. Had to, in fact, since it had rained so hard I couldn't sleep, being thoroughly wet. Marched half a mile and camped; await developments. * * * The Army of the Potomac is between us and Fortress Monroe. We are the extreme advance, and the enemy's skirmishers are within four miles of us. No one knows what may be the channel through which our destinies may flow to-day and to-morrow. That the events of these days will be long remembered by the survivors, I cannot doubt, and who those survivors may be whether it has pleased Providence to place me among them, the future must determine. I await my fate with resignation-I may truly say with a cheerful resignation, prepared to struggle against the dark future even to the uttermost, and praying for strength to guard against disgrace, rather than for the boon of life. Life is sweet; perhaps as sweet to me as any of God's creatures; but honor, bright honor, is far dearer. That I may do my duty is my sineere wish, and I shall meet the enemy with a bold and cheerful front, and endeavor to make my life—be it short or long—of value to my country. If my strength survives the shock, as by the blessing of Providence it has heretofore-'My Country and my May!' (his sister Mary) shall be my watchword and battle-ery. If these be my last written words, and dark forebodings which crowd my mind indicate it, I leave behind me a name which will, I trust, be remembered," &c.

But his forebodings were not destined to be prophetic. After the anticipated battle was over, he writes in his diary as follows: "The fighting is over. " I am safe and sound, and did not have even a 'narrow escape.'"

Here is another extract in a pleasanter vein, and with a most eloquent expression:

"On picket to-night, and have charge of four posts. It is my first night on picket, and I enjoy it. All is silent in the forest except the lonely cry of the whippowil and the quail's 'Bob White,' and the bang-whir-r-r of the Secesh bullet as it whistles past our heads. It is dangerous but pleasant business, and I like it very much. The grand Poem, the magnificent Epic—Nature—here displays its many beauties to the naked eye. You do not look through the opaque glasses of books—you do not hear her praise rehearsed by other pens and tongues, but you hold communion with her face to face, and you "'feel

What you can ne'er express, yet cannot all conceal.'

"Ah! old Nature! how I love thee! Whether thou art calm and pleasant, or angry and terrible in thy mood, I do love thee. From shrub to forest,—from fountain to ocean,—from calm to storm,—from mite to Leviathan,—from worm to man, I love thee! I love thy forms of simplicity and grandeur, thy broad plains and thy rugged rocky mountains,—the clumsy turtle and the peerless form of beautiful woman,—grand old Nature! Art is the product of man's mind and hands,—Nature the Creation of Almighty God!"

Originally enlisting in Capt. Gregg's Company of the 8th Ohio Regiment of Infantry, Harper was soon appointed sergeant-major. He also served as orderly sergeant of his company. It was while holding these positions that much of his severest experience in marching and fighting was acquired. In August, 1862, his commission as second Lieutenant was transmitted to him while with the Grand Army of McClellan on the Peninsula. The army soon after returned to Washington, and pushed into Maryland to confront Lee at South Mountain and Antietam. Having been assigned to the command of Co. K, Harper participated in both those battles in his capacity of Company Commandant, and distinguished himself by his coolness and bravery. He fell at Antietam, Sept. 17, 1862, while leading his company, pierced with three bullets, one taking effect in the head, one passing through his body, entting his sword-belt, and one through his ankle. It was a source of great comfort to his friends that he was not left to linger in anguish upon the battle-field. Doubtless, from the nature of his wounds, his brave soul went instantly to that God whom he so truly reverenced, and whose work had afforded him so much delight in life. His body was recovered from the battle-field and taken to his parents in Ohio, and has a resting-place in Oakland Cemetery, Sandusky. Though dead, yet he still lives in the affectionate remembrance of his friends, who were many, and his heroic example is his legacy to his country. Surely he did not die in vain, and his oft expressed aspiration to leave a bright untarnished name is realized.

At the age of ten years, and after the death of his father, he went to live with his uncle, Erastus D. Bill, at Sheffield, Illinois. He continued to live with his uncle, who was also his guardian, up to the time of the breaking out of the Rebellion, when, in September, 1861, he enlisted in a regiment known as Birge's Sharp-Shooters, at that time forming in St. Louis, Mo. This regiment was afterward known as the 66th Illinois Sharp-Shooters. He was at the siege and capture of Fort Donelson, Ky., Feb. 16, 1862; also at the battle of Pittsburg Landing, and at Corinth. He shared the fatigues and honors of that wonderful "Atlanta Campaign," first under the immediate command of Gen. J. B. McPherson, then of Gen. John A. Logan. During these marches and battles he had his full share of danger and of glory. His regiment, for driving a brigade of the enemy at Resacca, Ga., who were favorably posted, was complimented on the field by their commander, the brave and skillful McPherson. At the end of his three years he re-enlisted for another term of service, but the war happily ended, and Sherman's Grand Army made the circuit of the enemy's territory, everywhere victorious, and finally entered the capital of the country, with eagles and banners flying, heroes of a thousand conflicts, and with a history grander than that of any army in the world of which time has left us any record!

APPENDIX.

In the early records of New England we have found one or more families bearing the name of Bills. These have spread to a small extent, and their descendants may still be found in some sections of the country; but they seem for the most part in nowise related with the descendants of John and Dorothy Bill, though it is not at all unlikely they sprang, several centuries ago, in England, from a common ancestry—for in our researches there we have discovered quite a number of families who add the final s to the name, though not more than one-third of the several scores with whom we have corresponded in England use this additional letter; while all of the older families, and those whose lineage is undoubted, and those too whose wealth and social standing give us evidence of the pureness of pedigree, write their names without the s, and have for several hundred years, or since the first use of surnames in England.

We propose to place these "odd sheep" here, just without the fold; also, all stray members of the family whose lineage we have been unable to trace, together with those from whom information was received too late to be arranged in their rightful places.

ROBERT BILLS, aged 32, husbandman, embarked July 23, 1635, for Boston, in the ship "Pied Cow," Ashley, master, and died in or near Boston, Dec. 15, 1635.
